HEAVY CASUALTIES IN FIGHT

35 MORE ARRESTS IN CAIRO

Civil Authorities Seize Leaders of Students, Agitators and Other Friends of Zaghlul.

CAIRO, Nov. 28 (Associated Press).—Two companies of the Eleventh Sudanese Regiment at Khartum today mutinied and attacked the military hospital, killing one British and two Syrian physicians.

The mutiny was limited to about 200 men, among whom there were severe casualties when British troops fired upon them. The remainder of the Sudanese battalion aided the British in overpowering the mutineers.

Communication with the Sudan has been cut, the telegraph lines are down and the train which connects with the Sudan steamer from Halfaya, in the Eastern Sudan on the Nile, is not leaving tonight.

The military authorities here have been in wireless communication with Khartum, and it is understood the situation is well in hand, but the circumstances are somewhat obscure.

It is reported that airplane reconnoissances have been made over the towns of Minieh, on the Nile 150 miles southwest of Cairo, and Beni Suef, an important port on the Nile sixty-two miles southwest of Cairo. At both places the police are protecting both banks and European establishments.

British cavalry and infantry again paraded Cairo this morning.

The Students' Committee today published a manifesto declaring its opposition to the present Egyptian Government and calling the attention of all classes of the people to a rumor that efforts are being made to form a new party "which will recognize the acts of the aggressors." The students urge that the entire nation pursue a policy of non-cooperation. They themselves have decided to remain on strike.

Fight British From Hospital.

LONDON, Nov. 28 (Associated Press).—The mutiny of the Sudanese troops at Khartum was due to the withdrawal of their Egyptian officers, according to a dispatch to The Daily Mail from Cairo.

"This particular battalion—the 11th Sudanese—had been for some time infected by anti-British propaganda by their officers," the dispatch adds. "The officers freely spent money, supplied from secret funds of Zaghlul's party.

"The mutineers, consisting of two platoons, after attacking the hospital and killing a British doctor and two Syrian orderlies, barricaded themselves within the hospital, where they are now being attacked by British infantry.

"Severe machine gun fighting is in progress around the building. Many Sudanese soldiers have been killed. The British casualties are not known. The mutineers evidently are determined to fight to the last."

"Owing to the cutting of the telegraph lines the latest reports have been received by radio and are mutilated.

"They give the impression, however, that acting Sirdar Huddleston has taken the situation firmly in hand."

The correspondent adds that the most serious aspect of the situation is that the revolt is among the Sudanese troops and not the Egyptians.

The outbreak at Khartum is described here as an isolated incident not connected with any movement in either Egypt or the Sudan to attack the British position, but rather as a last protest by the Egyptian troops against British authority. This protest was started by the Sudanese units with sporadic rioting last August. Since these outbreaks, the British hand in the Sudan has been strengthened.

While official quarters do not disguise the fact that any unusual amount of rioting in Egypt might develop into a serious affair, it is believed that the three days' respite which followed Premier Zaghlul's resignation, and which allowed for the arrest of extremist leaders in Cairo, has precluded the possibility of any organized attack on the British which would tax the defensive resources.

LONDON, Saturday, Nov. 29, 4 A. M.—The London Daily Chronicle's correspondent cables from Cairo that a desperate battle is taking place in the central streets of Khartum this morning between mutinous Sudanese soldiers and British. The message adds that "it is unknown here if the struggle is over."

The Sudanese have suffered severe casualties.

Thirty-five More Arrests in Cairo.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, Nov. 28.—Thirty-five arrests were made early this morning by the civil authorities.

As foreshadowed yesterday those arrested included four Deputies, Raches Iskandar Effendi, a lawyer and xenophobe orator, who has figured prominently in the debates on the budget and the Sudan during the last session of Parliament; Dr. Sharib Mansur, an agitator and member of "The Society of Mutual Brotherhood," which was originally formed for social objects by the students of the Engineering College in 1900, but became an active political organization and is supposed to have been implicated in the murder of Butros Ghali Pasha, the Coptic Premier, in 1910, and Sheikh Mustapha Kayaty of Al Azhar University, who figured prominently in the events of 1919 and has

Ship Payroll by Plane To Keep It From Bandits

MINEOLA, L. I., Nov. 28.—It was learned today that a $5,000 payroll has been transported weekly from Curtiss Field to New Market, N. J., by airplane, which the senders consider safer than by automobile. The money is forwarded by the Spalding Construction Company for employes who are building a landing field, with hangars, at New Market, which is to be the terminus for overnight air trips from Chicago.

General Superintendent William E. Arthur, accompanied by "Casey" Jones and Howard D. Ingalls, a mechanic at Curtiss Field, make the flight each week, all three men being armed.

New Market has been selected as the terminus of the Chicago air route because it reduces the trip fifty miles and is less subject to fog than Curtiss Field.

TALK OF ESTABLISHING AIR MAIL TO EUROPE

SUGGEST THE LOS ANGELES

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Establishment of a transatlantic air mail service is under consideration by the postal authorities, but no decision has been reached as to when it will be put in operation.

Indications are that the appropriation that will be needed to establish the route will not be asked for until December, 1925. No estimate for this purpose will be included in the budget to be submitted to Congress next week it was authoritatively said.

Following the arrival in New York of the German ZR-3, recently christened the "Los Angeles," postal authorities discussed the practicability of using the ship between New York and one of the English ports. It was agreed that in view of the successful voyage of the ZR-3 the plan was feasible and that it was the duty of the United States to initiate ocean air mail service.

Offer Said to Have Been Made.

Under the contract by which the United States acquired the Los Angeles from Germany, the airship cannot be used in any military service. Consequently suggestions have been made that the dirigible should be utilized in a commercial way and it is understood that offers for its purchase have been made by private corporations.

Post office authorities are hopeful that when the navy has completed experiments with the Los Angeles in the training of officers and crews in airship navigation the Zeppelin will be turned over to them. They look for action by Congress in December, 1925.

Postal officials say that even if saved the expense of buying an airship, the establishment and maintenance of a transatlantic air mail would be very costly at the outset. Estimates of the probable cost of operation are now being prepared in the Air Mail Division of the department.

"We have the matter in mind and regard it feasible in every respect," said Chief Clerk Gove of the Air Mail Division. "Transatlantic mail service is certain to come within the next few years. It would require an appropriation by Congress to begin operations and it probably also would require legislation by Congress before the Post Office Department could gain possession of the Los Angeles. It would also take time to train men capable of piloting the Los Angeles across the ocean. We are ready to go ahead with this work whenever Congress grants us the needed appropriations and authority."

Eggo Calls Plan Feasible.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 28.—The United States Air Mail heads have dreamed of a transatlantic service for several years, said Carl F. Egge of Omaha, Superintendent of the Air Mail Service, in commenting on the report from Berlin that Dr. Eckener of that city had announced air mail between Germany and the United States.

"It has been our dream," said Superintendent Egge. "But I know of no legislation at present under which we can enter a transatlantic service. It

MELLON CALLS BOARD TO DISCUSS FUNDING OF DEBT OF FRANCE

Conferences With Jusserand Lead to Serious Movement to Settle Financial Problem.

TALK OF A MORATORIUM

Interest Rate May Be Cut, as Was Done in Agreement With Britain.

NO REDUCTION OF PRINCIPAL

France Owes the Original $3,340,000,000 and $723,000,000 in Interest.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The World War Debt Commission will meet Monday to take up the funding of the debt owed by France. Secretary Mellon, who summoned the commission, has recently discussed the problem informally with Ambassador Jusserand, acting under instructions from Paris.

It was said at the Treasury today that while no definite proposal for funding the French debt was ready for consideration, there would be a general discussion which might lead to formal negotiations before long. The Administration's opposition to cancellation of any of the debt remains unchanged.

Reports have been current in the last two weeks that a funding agreement would be reached with France within a short time, and this has led to much speculation concerning the concessions which this Government will be willing to make. The belief is generally expressed that a moratorium of three to five years might be acceptable to the Administration. With the Dawes plan in operation, there is promise that the financial position of France will be greatly strengthened within a few years and that she will then be able to meet service charges on the debt, whereas payments at this time would be embarrassing.

It is understood that questions such as this will have consideration at the meeting of the Debt Commission, and that the matter of interest rates will be discussed. In the agreement with Great Britain the interest on the principal amount started at 3 per cent. and increased to 3½ per cent. Rates similar to these were made in agreements reached with other nations.

Administration officials indicate that no pressure has been put on France, and that the informal proposals which led to the meeting of the American Commission were made by the Paris Government.

Dispatches from Paris from time to time have suggested that the French Government would expect this Government to reduce the principal of the debt, and then a funding agreement could be made by France. The only comment by Administration officials has been that the attitude of this Government toward cancellation in whole or in part had not changed. The feeling has been that these suggestions from France were intended to put her in as strong a position as possible in seeking a moratorium and interest concessions when negotiations are begun.

The French debt is about $3,340,000,000, besides $723,000,000 of interest which has accumulated since 1917. In any agreement reached, the amount of interest would undoubtedly be reduced, as in the case of the British debt.

If an agreement is to be reached with France it must, under the present law, be submitted to Congress for approval, and the Administration has indicated that in asking for an extension of the life of the Debt Commission after Feb. 25, 1925, it will not seek to obtain more authority for the Debt Commission. It seems certain that Congress will retain its power to reject any tentative agreement which the Debt Commission sees fit to make.

There is much difference of opinion concerning an agreement which granted a three or five year moratorium for France, but the general opinion is that it would be accepted if other features of the agreement were satisfactory.

Soon after the Dawes plan became effective last Summer a proposal for the settlement of the French debt was made to Secretary Mellon, the Chairman of the Debt Commission, by Edward N. Hurley, one of its members. Mr. Hurley had just returned from Europe, where he discussed the debt situation

Brush Sisters Get Verdict of $10,000 Each Against Doctors Who Sent Them to Asylum

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 28.—A jury in Justice Morschauser's part of the Supreme Court at White Plains this evening awarded $10,000 each to Miss Ada Madison Brush and Miss Phoebe K. Brush, sisters, against Dr. William Gibson and Dr. Walter Lindsay of Huntington, L. I., for the illegal commitment of the sisters to the Kings Park State Hospital. The sisters sued for $500,000 damages, alleging that the physicians signed false commitment papers without even having examined them on May 31, 1910. Dr. Lindsay is 91 years old and did not appear at the trial.

During the trial it was shown that the sisters had been confined in the hospital for ten years. They were released on habeas corpus writs, signed by Supreme Court Justice Tompkins four years ago.

George W. Whiteside, counsel for the two physicians, moved to set aside the verdict as against the law and evidence, and Justice Morschauser reserved his decision. When the verdict was rendered the two aged Brush sisters were not in court, but their counsel moved that execution be issued against the two defendants immediately, which was denied.

Most of the hearing today was devoted to testimony in rebuttal by witnesses for the sisters. Called to the stand, Miss Ada Brush said that she did not recall creating a disturbance at the home of the Rev. Samuel H. Seems, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church of Huntington, L. I., a few nights after his engagement was announced.

"Were you ever alone with Dr. Seems?" she was asked.

"I was often alone with him, in his home, in his church and in the street," she replied. "He wanted to get married and he wanted to put my name on his list of marriageable girls, but I said, 'Nothing doing.'"

She denied that she had ever insulted Dr. Seems and his wife after the wedding. She said that she "had been angry with the Pearsall girls because they accused me of being too friendly to Dr. Seems."

"The girls of Huntington were jealous of me," she added.

Distress signals sent out by the Italian steamship Castel Porziano soon after 7 o'clock last night were picked up by the Independent Wireless Company's station at East Hampton, L. I., the Boston Navy Yard and other stations along the Atlantic Coast.

According to the messages received, the vessel was in 37.14 north latitude, 55.8 west longitude, or about 1,400 miles from Sandy Hook, nearly in mid-Atlantic on the short course.

The signals were answered first by the steamship Martha Washington of the Cosulich Line, which offered to go to her assistance if no other steamship was nearer. Later it was reported that she was steaming to succor the freighter.

A second message from the captain of the Castel Porziano stated that the steering gear was out of commission, which meant that the ship would have to be guided by the hand gear aft.

When the S O S calls were first picked up all local broadcasting stations were instructed to stand by for forty minutes. A later message revealed that the Cunarder Berengaria, which sailed at 9:30 A. M. Wednesday for Southampton and Cherbourg, had picked up the distress call and replied that she was hurrying to reach the disabled ship.

The British steamer Miami also advised that she was proceeding to the distressed steamer.

The Castel Porziano, a freighter, was built at Taranto in 1919 for the Lloyd Sabaudo Line of Genoa. She is a single screw ship of 5,232 gross tons, 385 feet 2 inches long, 51 feet 7 inches beam and 27 feet 4 inches depth of hold. She carries a crew of about sixty men.

1 TONG MAN IS KILLED; 2 MORE IN CITY SHOT

FIRE INTO TWO LAUNDRIES

Chinese Battlers Invade Brooklyn—Consul General Chang Appeals to Police for Aid.

One killing and two shootings were added yesterday to the casualties in the new warfare between the Hip Sing Tong and the On Leong Tong, which began forty-eight hours before on the collapse of a temporary peace compact arranged through the mediation of Ziang Ling Chang, Chinese Consul General in this city.

Kok Hun, said to have been a member of the On Leong Tong, was fatally stabbed yesterday morning in his tenement home at 57 Eldridge Street, within a block of Chinatown.

Gong Sing was shot five times in the body and probably mortally wounded last evening in a laundry at 278 Thirteenth Street, near Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn, supposedly by Hip Sing gunmen.

Shortly after 11 P. M., Tom Hong, a member of the Hip Sing Tong, was shot in his laundry at 1,943 Bath Avenue, half a block from the Bath Beach Station. The shooting was done by a lone Chinese, who fired two shots through the plate-glass window while Hong and his partner, Louie Pow, were at work in the front of the place. Both bullets lodged in Hong's abdomen. He was taken to Coney Island Hospital in a critical condition. The gunman escaped in the dark.

Detectives said the shooting of Hong indicated that On Leong gunmen, learning of the shooting of the On Leong man in his laundry in East Thirteenth Street earlier in the night, had shot Hong in retaliation.

Chin John, alleged to be a member of the On Leong Tong, was captured by the police immediately following the stabbing of Hun, but the two assailants of Gong Sing escaped in a taxicab in the view of hundreds of men and women passing the laundry.

The first Brooklyn shooting came a few hours after Acting Police Commissioner Leach, at the request of Consul General Chang, ordered the force to be especially vigilant in their protection of the Chinese laundries and other business establishments in the city.

Open Fire Without a Word.

The taxicab in which the two Chinese gunmen drew up to the laundry was driven by a third Chinese, who seemingly had taken no precautions to conceal its ownership. The license number was plainly visible to passers-by who had seen the two gunmen leap into the vehicle after they had fired six shots at their victim and hurled their large automatic pistols beside his body. The taxicab sped east on Thirteenth Street up the incline to Sixth Avenue and disappeared.

As in the killing of the Chinese laundry proprietor in the Bronx on Thursday, the gunmen had flung open the front door and started to empty their pistols at their victim without saying a word. The victim was the son of the proprietor, Charles Gong Sing, who was upstairs in his apartment at the time. He later told the police he was a member of the On Leong Tong, but that his son was not connected with either tong. The proprietor added that he believed his son had been shot in mistake for the father, because two weeks ago the Hip Sing Tong had conveyed a threat that his life would be taken.

The laundry is within three blocks of the Fifth Avenue station. Within a few minutes of the shooting detectives and uniformed policemen appeared. Some of them followed the route taken in a police car by the assailants. They quickly lost the scent but were hopeful that a clue would be established through the license number on the taxicab.

The victim of the shooting was unconscious when the first of the witnesses, followed closely by the wounded man's father, ran into the laundry. Yong Sing was lying behind the counter with three bullets in his abdomen and two in his left arm. He was removed to the Methodist Episcopal Hospital, where it was said that his chance of recovery was slight.

Catch Two Men at Window.

In the Eldridge Street murder the police arrested two men as they were climbing out of a rear window of the apartment in which the stabbing had taken place. One of them, Lem Hing, had a .32 calibre pistol in his blouse. The other, Chong Lai, was held with Hing as a material witness. The dagger with which the killing had been done was found lying on the floor beside the couch. It had a blade 9½ inches long and appeared to be of Spanish make. The police said that it was the first dagger slaying in the tong war.

WIFE SUES AS DEAD HERSCHEL C. PARKER

HE DISAPPEARED IN 1919

In Separation Suit in That Year Mrs. Parker Charged That He Had Taken to Drink.

Dr. Herschel C. Parker, former Professor of Physics at Columbia University, climber of Mount McKinley and exposer of Dr. Cook, has been missing for more than five years, according to his wife, Evelyn Naegele Parker, who asked permission in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn yesterday to start proceedings for a dissolution of marriage under the Enoch Arden act.

Robert Seelay of 15 Park Row, lawyer for Mrs. Parker, said yesterday that the last time that Professor Parker was seen alive, according to their best information, was at the Salmagundi Club in 1919. Mrs. Parker sued for separation in that year. The scientist and explorer did not appear in court to defend the action, but he was represented by a lawyer who said that Dr. Parker was living on the charity of his friends.

In 1919 Mrs. Parker introduced evidence that Dr. Parker had inherited considerable property and that he possessed a collection of antiques said to be worth $86,000, but that no trace of the assets or of the man himself could be found. The Court awarded the separation and ordered Parker to pay $100 a week to his wife. Mr. Seelay said yesterday that not a single payment had been collected.

Marriage in 1911 Recalled.

Mrs. Parker is the daughter of Charles Francis Naegele, the portrait painter. The wedding took place in the studio of her father on May 20, 1911, and the couple set out for Alaska, where Dr. Parker made preparations for another ascent of Mount McKinley. In 1912 he was beaten back from the highest summit, but he returned with proof that Dr. Cook had falsified when he claimed to have reached the summit. This proof was a photograph of Mount Low, twenty miles from Mount McKinley. The photograph was identical with one which Cook had put forward as proof that he had scaled Mount McKinley.

While Dr. Parker was on this expedition his first child Evelyn was born. She is now 12 years old, and the second child, Cynthia, is 10. In her previous suit Mrs. Parker said that for some years Dr. Parker had been a devoted husband, but that a gradual change had taken place in him which she attributed to liquor. It was said that during his prolonged climbs in zero weather Dr. Parker made liberal use of whiskey and could not shake off the habit when he returned to New York.

In her petition yesterday Mrs. Parker said that in her last interview with her husband he said to her:

"I am tired of looking after my wife and family. A man with my genius owes himself to mankind in general and cannot be tied down by routine."

Announced Many Discoveries.

During the last few years before he disappeared Dr. Parker worked on many problems in physics and came forward now and then with announcements of important discoveries. With considerable ceremony he announced in 1915 that he had invented a submersible with a powerful headlight for use under water in detecting submarines, and he made a gift to the Government of this invention. Parker later charged that Ford had stolen his idea for baby submarines. Several years before that he announced that he had invented a new incandescent light which would revise the science of illumination. In 1917 Dr. Parker told of the development of plans to start mines for platinum on a large scale in Alaska.

During this period, it was charged later by his wife, some subtle deterioration was going on in the scientist, culminating in his leaving his home and, as his lawyer said, becoming dependent on charity.

Although it was known in 1919 that Parker was not dead, but was deliberately keeping in obscurity, his long silence since then was put before the court yesterday as evidence of his death. Mr. Seelay argued in the petition that no man of the prominence and the circle of personal friends possessed by Dr. Parker could successfully submerge himself so that for five years not one of his acquaintances would hear anything of him. Dr. Parker's clubs included the Explorers' Club, the American Alpine Society, the Appalachian Mountain Club, the Arctic Club, the Crescent Athletic Club of Brooklyn, the Sigma Xi, the Salmagundi and the Arctic Brotherhood.

If he is alive Dr. Parker is 57 years old. His wife is about 35.

"Since his disappearance Mrs. Parker has supported herself and her daughters by painting posters and other kinds of commercial art," said Mr. Seelay.

No action was taken yesterday on the petition of Mrs. Parker, which was filed in Brooklyn. Her residence is in Fort Greene Place. The petition will later come before Justice Cropsey. If the dissolution of the marriage is granted, Mrs. Parker will be automatically free to marry again.

ROBINSONS CLEARED IN 'POTENTATE' PLOT; LAWYER ARRESTED

Jury Finds Conspiracy Existed to Blackmail Prince, but They Were Not in It.

BANK'S LIABILITY RESERVED

CRIMINAL ACTION HINTED

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Following the close of the civil action involving £150,000 alleged blackmail paid by an unnamed Indian Prince, William Cooper Hobbs, the lawyer who, according to the testimony, received £40,000 of the Prince's money, was arrested tonight at West Street railway station, Gravesend, conveyed to London and taken to Bow Street Police station. Another man was detained.

Hobbs was arrested as he was about to board a liner for Rotterdam. He and another man detained had passports which were in order. A large quantity of baggage belonging to them had already been put on the boat. Hobbs's companion, whose name was not disclosed, is said to have had thousands of pounds' worth of French, Belgian, Dutch and American notes.

Criminal action had been hinted by Judge Darling, who, when discussing the £3,000 gift to Newton for coming to England to give evidence, said significantly that Newton was in a position of danger.

The jury in the civil action found today that there had been a conspiracy to blackmail the unnamed "Eastern potentate" and that he had parted with ten £150,000 checks under fear, but they also declared that neither Robinson nor his wife was a party to the conspiracy.

In reply to a further set of questions submitted to them by Lord Darling, they found that Robinson had no connection with the £150,000 banked by William Cooper Hobbs as the proceeds of the first of Mr. A.'s checks and that the money was withdrawn from the bank by the same authority as deposited it.

A formal verdict will not be delivered until the early part of next week, as Lord Darling wishes counsel to argue certain points of banking law, but the jury has been discharged.

The effect of their deliberations is assumed to be that, while Robinson has failed in his endeavor to extract £125,000 from the Midland Bank, both he and his wife can plead the opinion of this civil jury in case the Crown decides to begin criminal proceedings for conspiracy against any of the principals in the plot.

The view the jury has taken of the evidence has been a good deal commented upon and it was noticed that when the jurors applied to Lord Darling for exemption from jury service for an extended period he replied, "Well, you have not been here so long," and added after a slight pause, "You must admit it has not been the dullest of suits."

A good deal of attention was also attracted by the appearance at the back of the court during the first absence of the jury of court attendants in couples who gazed carefully over the heads of the crowd at the seats where Robinson and his wife were placed. Arrests arising out of civil proceedings are usually made in the corridors of the Law Courts after the trial of the civil action is over.

Lawyers Crowd to Hear Darling.

A certain sentimental interest drew dozens of counsel to crowd the courtroom to suffocation. It was a sensational case, but it was also the last big suit over which Lord Darling is ever likely to preside. He had only left his retirement to relieve pressure on the calendar, and with the words, "the shades of night are gathering again," he himself betrayed regret with which he will again step down from the bench. And so dozens of lawyers stood for

War Flag Carried in London To Be Placed on Wilson Tomb

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The historic American flag, carried at the head of the first contingent of American troops to parade in London after the entry of the United States into the World War, is to be placed above the tomb of Woodrow Wilson.

American engineer troops carried the flag overseas and throughout the war. When they paraded in London in the Summer of 1917, the flag was saluted by King George, and its bearers were described as the first foreign soldiers to march in the British capital since 1683.

Officers of one of the engineer regiments presented the flag to President Wilson, and Mrs. Wilson has decided that it shall be placed at the crypt in Bethlehem Chapel here, where the Commander-in-Chief of America's World War forces is entombed.

COOLIDGE APPROVES PROGRAM FOR SESSION

Confers With Gillett, Longworth and Snell on Legislation to Be Adopted.

ALSO TALKS WITH BORAH

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—A legislative program for this Winter's session of Congress embracing few measures aside from routine appropriation bills was considered and approved today at a White House conference, Speaker Gillett, Representative Longworth, the majority floor manager, and Representative Snell, Chairman of the Rules Committee, taking part.

The program to which the President gave his assent contemplates the prompt passage of the budget bills and two or three other measures of a non-controversial character.

Following the conference announcement was made on behalf of Speaker Gillett and his associates that the appropriation bills would be promptly reported to the House and that every effort would be made to put them through before adjournment so as to avoid a special session.

Confidence was expressed that the Winter's program would be passed in an orderly manner and that the work of the session would be completed long before the existing Congress passes out.

President Coolidge will not deliver his message in person at the reconvening of Congress. He plans to go to Chicago next month to visit the International Livestock Show and his message will be read at a joint session of the two Houses by one of the clerks. When the new Congress is organized the President may deliver his message in person.

Assurance was given the President by the House leaders that they would cooperate in holding appropriations within budget estimates and that, if possible, the total would be fixed at $3,000,000,000. The understanding is that in his annual message of Dec. 3 and in another accompanying the budget, President Coolidge will stress the need for economies as a means of assuring early tax reduction. Congress will be told that tax reduction is contingent largely on retrenchment.

Speaker Gillett said the conference related solely to the opening of Congress and legislation for the short Winter session.

Included in the list of bills regarded as reasonably certain of adoption and which were read to the President, receiving his approval, were the River and Harbor bill, reported at the last session; the Administration bill, authorizing a $10,000,000 annual building program in Washington for five years; a bill amending the existing law relating to retirements in the Civil Service; the McFadden bill proposing amendments to the national bank law relating to branch banking; a resolution changing the date of the Presidential inauguration and the Administration measure authorizing a complete reorganization of the executive departments.

Representative Longworth said that revision of the publicity features of the income tax law was discussed, but that no steps were taken to deal with this subject. He explained that House leaders would await the outcome of

A low-flying United States Army airplane, AS-22278, gave Washington Heights a fright yesterday afternoon when it skimmed down below the tops of apartment houses and, zooming along a bare 100 feet above the sidewalks, made scores of people scurry for safety. Within a few minutes after it had disappeared a number of angry residents of upper Broadway entered complaints at both the Wadsworth Avenue and West 152d Street Police Stations.

Captain John Routh, of the Wadsworth Avenue Station, got in touch with Police Headquarters and Major William N. Hensley, Commandant of Mitchel Field Garden City, was informed of the complaints. He said that the machine was one assigned for his own personal use, and that the pilot was Lieutenant James T. Hutchinson, who was forced down for lack of fuel early in the evening at Huntington Beach. Major Hensley promised "summary action" if his investigation proved that the army flier had endangered any life.

The streets of Washington Heights were crowded with afternoon promenaders when the airplane came into view from the east. Residents said that it made a few circles over Fort George and then turned south. At 181st Street and St. Nicholas Avenue, one of the busiest spots in upper Manhattan, the crowds craned their necks to gaze at the speeding machine.

Suddenly they saw it dip and come dangerously close to the roofs of the tall apartment houses. As it roared on toward them they became alarmed. Skimming lower and lower, it sped along below the level of the housetops and crossed 181st Street almost on a level with the tops of the two-story shop buildings.

There was a scramble for doorways. Women with their baby carriages became hysterical in their haste to get to safe places. Some started down the subway stairs.

The airplane roared past and gradually rose a little. At points further south the same scene was enacted. The plane swooped low and the crowds scattered. Then it rose and went off to the east and the complaints started to come into the police stations.

Major Hensley in a statement last night said:

"I regret to state that an airplane from Mitchel Field caused some apprehension by low flying over New York City today. The plane was being tested by Lieutenant Hutchison, who is thoroughly familiar with the municipal and army air service regulations forbidding such flying.

"If it is proved that he has broken either the municipal or the air service regulations it is a matter for summary action. This is the first complaint of its kind to be received since I have been in charge at Mitchel Field, and if found justified will mar a hitherto perfect record."

REPUBLICANS OUST INSURGENT GROUP FROM PARTY COUNCIL

ACTION IS A BIG SURPRISE

LATTER TALK DEFIANTLY

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Republican Senators called into conference today to elect a successor to Senator Lodge as floor leader, adopted a resolution offered by Mr. Reed of Pennsylvania, declaring it to "the sense of the conference that Senators La Follette, Ladd, Brookhart Frazier, all of whom were conspicuous in the Third Party movement, or otherwise hostile to Coolidge, be not invited to future Republican conferences, and be not named to fill any vacancies on Senate committees."

The action of the conference came as a complete surprise. Influential leaders among the Old Guard had indicated that no move would be made at this time to discipline the radicals, and that such measures would be postponed until the new Congress next year. However, Senators Edge of New Jersey, Reed of Pennsylvania, Ernst of Kentucky and Spencer of Missouri combined in a drive that took the conference off its feet, and when the vote came only Senator Harreld of Oklahoma and one other man, it is said, raised a dissenting voice. The "Ayes" came in a rousing chorus when the viva voce vote was taken.

Of the four Senators named in the resolution only Mr. Ladd was present, and he sat silent while a debate of considerable bitterness preceded the adoption of the Reed resolution.

Senators La Follette and Brookhart are not in Washington. Senators Ladd and Frazier took the position after the conference that, no matter whether they had been elected on Republican tickets, they had the right to support whom they pleased, and that their stand had been fully justified by the attitude of their constituencies, to whom, after all, they were actually responsible.

Reactions as a result of the resolution are expected almost at once in the Senate. The four Senators are not without strong friends, while others who do not sympathize with their views hold that the majority of the Republicans had no authority to pass upon a Senator's political qualifications.

Will Air the Matter in Senate.

Senator Borah declared tonight his intent to air the whole matter in the Senate, and this undoubtedly will bring on a debate of the most spirited quality, in which the fur will fly on both sides, while the Democrats are expected to sit back and enjoy to the fullest the discomfiture of a divided majority.

When comment was sought at the White House this afternoon a spokesman for the President said that Mr. Coolidge "had no opinion other than any one else might have." No explanation of this remark was offered. It was added that the President did not know whether the new situation would make it easier or more difficult to get necessary legislation through the Senate.

Many observers say that on the face of it it seems that the Administration will have a hazardous time if it tries to put through any measures repugnant to the insurgents. In the present Senate there are forty-two Democrats, two Farmer-Laborites and the four men "expelled" from the Republican ranks today, making forty-eight, or an exact half of the total membership when all seats are filled. There is one vacancy, due to the death of Senator Brandegee of Connecticut, yet to be filled, and therefore until this vacancy is filled the combined anti-Administration forces are actually in control of the Senate by one vote. If Hiram Bingham, the Republican candidate, is elected to succeed Mr. Brandegee, the Senate will then be tied, and this tie cannot be broken, as the presiding officer is a member.

When the Republican conference assembled today Senator Edge, who was in the forefront of the movement to eject Senator La Follette, demanded action at once, but was ruled out of order until the election of a leader had been disposed of. When this had been done by the election of Senator Curtis of Kansas as leader, Senator Edge took the floor.

Edge Starts the Movement.

"I presume that one of the responsibilities of the members of the conference is to determine the eligibility of its members," said Senator Edge. "I notice that the name of Senator La Follette has been called. I have no knowledge of the intention of the conference, but, so far as I am individually concerned, I wish publicly to record by protest.

"Senator La Follette came to New Jersey during the campaign and spoke in behalf of my opponent, George Record, who was running on a Third Party ticket. It must be obvious that a Senator cannot make every effort to defeat and destroy a party and at the same time participate in its conferences. I do not question Senator La Follette's right to read a new party, but, in my judgment, that clearly disqualifies him for membership here.

"I do not imagine that Senator La Follette desires to participate in our conferences. In his statement of last Monday, in which he announces his determination to continue a Third Party fight, he indicates he does not it is difficult to understand why his status should be considered by this conference as eligible for membership."

Senator Edge said he did not take the attitude that those who have strayed away should not be permitted to return to the fold, if they so wished.

"History records many such conversions, but the Senator's case is not in any way parallel," he continued. "For instance, his statement of last Monday must be considered. Just why we should insist on any one being considered a Republican who clearly indicates his opposition to a party that has just won a decisive and convincing victory is a comedy.

Says Wisconsin's Attitude Doesn't Count

"It has been suggested that Senator La Follette's Republican status was a matter for his State to decide; that La Follette had been elected as a Republican to represent Wisconsin, and was entitled to such recognition unless his constituency decided otherwise.

"While I do not agree with this logic, still in this case it would not help the situation. The State of Wisconsin gave Senator La Follette a plurality as leader of a Third Party movement, so, therefore, his constituents have clearly taken him away from the Republican Party and endorsed his party ambitions. In doing this they defeated the representatives of the Republican Party running in the same election. This, therefore, if the State desire should predominate, should clearly define La Follette's position as outside of the Republican Party."

Senator Ernst of Kentucky presented a resolution declaring Senator La Follette and the other men ineligible to occupy their present committee assignments, but Senator Reed at once offered as a substitute his resolution, which differed from the Ernst proposal in that it did not oust the radicals from their present committee memberships. Any motion of this kind, it was said, would have to be voted upon in the Senate, and with small chance of passage.

Opposition was expressed by Senator Harreld, who held that the resolution should single out Senator La Follette alone. Senators Cummins and Howell are said to have made speeches of some vehemence against the Reed proposal. Mr. Cummins stating that in 1912 he supported the Roosevelt ticket and would therefore have been subject to the same censure.

Senator Spencer asked for a resolution naming a committee of ways and means to deal with the insurgents. Debate was had on the matter at times, but finally the Reed motion was put over with a bang.

The thirty-four Republican Senators who attended the conference were Messrs. Ball, Bursum, Butler, Capper, Cousens, Cummins, Curtis, Dale, Edge, Elkins, Ernst, Fess, Gooding, Hale, Harrold, Howell, Keyes, Ladd, McCormick, McKinley, McNary, Metcalf, Moses, Norbeck, Oddie, Pepper, Reed of Pennsylvania, Shortridge, Smoot, Spencer, Wadsworth, Warren, Watson and Weller.

Ladd Says His Conduct Is Unchanged.

After the conference Senator Ladd declared his conduct would not be altered and that he would continue to be "answerable only to the people of North Dakota" for his actions.

"My attitude as a Senator," said Mr. Ladd, "has not been to please the Republican majority here, but I have tried to represent the sentiment of the people of North Dakota. My conduct will not be changed one whit by any action by the Republican conference.

"Two years ago, when Senator Frazier was nominated and elected as a Republican, he was opposed by the Republican National Committee, and its influence was given to the Democratic nominee.

"This year Old Guard Republicans voted for the Democratic State ticket. If they could not support a Republican nominee, there was no reason why I should.

"I see that those who bolted the party in 1912 to follow Roosevelt are now being honored. One of them, a New York State leader, has just been named Assistant Secretary of the Navy. In view of this, the action of the Republican majority today will cause me no worry. I will continue to represent the people of North Dakota."

Senator Frazier, who was not present at the conference, said later:

"I never got anything from them, so I don't see how they can take anything from me."

Senator Norris Indignant.

Senator Norris, who is regarded in many quarters as a radical, and who is said to have supported Senator La Follette, was indignant over the outcome of the conference. Calling the performance "a fine piece of vaudeville," he added:

"It is a silly thing when any set of men without any sort of authority set themselves up to judge the political conduct of their equals. They believe this resolution reads four men out of the party, but it actually reads out all of the hundreds of thousands of voters who supported them.

"Many leading Republicans opposed Brookhart even before he opposed President Coolidge. They charged Brookhart was not a Republican, but the voters of this State decided he was.

"Leading Republicans have fought La Follette for years on the ground that he was not a Republican, but in every instance where the matter was submitted in a legal form La Follette received the Republican nomination.

"The history of the country shows many glaring instances in which leading Republicans have opposed the nominees of the party, and no Republican conference of the Senate has ever had the gall to read them out of the party.

"In 1912 Theodore Roosevelt refused to support William Howard Taft," Senator Norris added, "and now that he is dead he is the idol of these self-appointed judges. A few years ago former President Taft and Mr. Hughes opposed the Republican nominee for Mayor of New York and openly supported a Democrat.

"They had a perfect right to do this, but under the theory of these self-appointed dictators of the Senate, Taft, Hughes, Roosevelt and a million others have now been read out of the party."

Borah Disapproves Action.

"I don't care to discuss the action of the conference at this time, beyond stating my disapproval of it," said Senator Borah. "I will make my position clear from the floor of the Senate. Until then no good will come from any extended comment by me."

Senator Pepper of Pennsylvania gave out a statement in which he said:

"The resolution was not the result of precipitate action following a signal party victory. It was rather a declaration of a principle of a party organization essential to the functioning of Republican Senators as a team to support the Administration. The resolution does not attempt to deal with questions of seniority or the redistribution of committee assignments. These questions will not be ripe for decision until the new Congress meets after March 4.

"The conference of Republican Senators has entire control over its own rôle and may properly declare a policy in regard to the Republican representation in the case of committee vacancies which now exist. The resolution is limited to these two points.

"Speaking for myself, I felt so strongly about the matter that I should have been reluctant to go back to Pennsylvania and face the Republican voters of that State unless some such action as this had been taken.

"We get results in Pennsylvania by party organization. If the efficiency with which the party is managed in Pennsylvania is to be duplicated elsewhere, the principles of party organization which we recognize in Pennsylvania must be insisted upon, no matter who is affected.

"The question is not a personal one and the action will not be misunderstood by the Senators affected by it."

All through the conference Mr. Butler, newly appointed Senator from Massachusetts, regarded in some quarters as the link between the White House and the Senate, remained silent. But he said afterward, "I am heartily in accord with the action."

Expect Rumpus Over Committees.

The first flare-up as a result of the action today is expected when Senator Curtis, elected leader today, places before the Senate the names of the Senators selected by the Committee on Committees to succeed to the vacancies on the Committees on Foreign Relations, Judiciary, Immigration, Naval Affairs and Patents caused by the deaths of Senators Lodge, Brandegee and Colt. The displacement of Senator La Follette from his present committee, if the Senate ratifies the caucus action, will make vacancies on Finance, Indian Affairs, Interstate Commerce, and Manufactures, the Senator being Chairman of the last-named committee and second in seniority on Finance and Interstate Commerce.

Republicans do not expect it to be an easy matter, even in the next Congress, to put through the caucus orders. There will be forty Democrats in the new Senate, and it is considered certain that the "expelled" Senators generally will be found voting with the Democrats. To ratify the action of the conference the Republicans will need the votes of Senators Borah, Norris, Johnson of California and Howell of Nebraska, as well as Shipstead, the Farmer-Labor Senator from Minnesota. It is not believed that one of these Senators will vote to sustain the conference, and in that case, if the Democrats vote as a unit, Mr. La Follette and the other Senators virtually read out of the party would command forty-nine votes, or a majority of one.

If Senator Ladd loses his committee assignments this will mean vacancies in the Committees on Agriculture, Public Lands and Surveys, Commerce, and Territories. Mr. Ladd is Chairman of the Committee on Public Lands. Senator Frazier's committees are those on Indian Affairs, Mining, Pensions, and Post Offices and Post Roads, while Senator Brookhart is a member of the Committees on Manufactures, Claims, Education and Labor, Military Affairs and Interoceanic Canals.

La Follette's Chances Hurt.

Senator La Follette has been credited for years with the ambition to be Chairman of the Interstate Commerce Committee. Today's action of the Republican conference probably will prevent him attaining that honor in the next Congress, as Senator Cummins is going to take the Chairmanship of the Committee on Judiciary, which would have automatically promoted the Wisconsin Senator to the Interstate Commerce Committee office. Senator McLean is next in line, but he is Chairman of the Banking and Currency Committee and may prefer to retain that place. In that event Senator Watson of Indiana would become Chairman, provided the regulars command a majority of the Senate.

After Senator Curtis had been elected floor leader today Senator Watson of Indiana was appointed assistant leader, and Mr. Curtis was left free to serve as party whip, who, it is expected, will be Senator Jones of Washington.

The vacancy in the Chairmanship of the Republican Committee on Committees was filled by Senator Curtis by the appointment of Senator Watson. Mr. Curtis retired from the committee and Senator Smoot was appointed in his place. Senator Reed of Pennsylvania was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Brandegee.

The Committee on Committees was requested by Senator Curtis to fill all committee vacancies and to assign to committees the newly elected Senators, Metcalf of Rhode Island and Means of Colorado, and the newly appointed Senator, Butler of Massachusetts, and to have its reports ready for submission to the Senate soon after that body convenes.

Senator Curtis told the conference it was his purpose to call frequent meetings of the Republican Steering Committee to expedite the business of the Senate.

Senator Wadsworth of New York remains as secretary to the conference, an office he has held for the last ten years.

House Not to Act Yet.

Without regard to what the Senate Republicans did today, there is no intention to punish the House recalcitrants in a like manner at this time, Representative Longworth, the Republican leader, indicated this afternoon. Mr. Longworth, however, implied that a severe fate was in store for the insurgents when the new House assembles in 1925.

"They came into the present House under proper party affiliations," Mr. Longworth stated. "Their action in the recent campaign does not affect their position for this Congress. It does affect, however, their position in the next Congress, and the altered condition and status must be considered in the organization of the next House."

Mr. Longworth is one of a group which advocates dealing sternly with the eleven Representatives from Wisconsin and Representative LaGuardia, New York; Reed and King, Illinois; Kvale, Clague, Knutson and Kellar, Minnesota, and Sinclair, South Dakota. He and other Republican leaders would like to see the bolters classed in a minority of their own, and give them committee representation proportionate only to their representation in the House, which would deprive them of all important posts.

Mr. Longworth approved of the Senate action today, but said the time was "not ripe" for like action in the House.

La Follette Makes No Comment.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 28.—Senator La Follette declined to comment today on the action of the conference of Senate Republicans in ruling that he and his principal supporters will not be invited to future Republican conferences or placed on Senate committees.

TELL CAMPAIGN EXPENSES.

Twenty-five House Candidates File Statements With the Clerk.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Campaign expenditures filed today with the Clerk of the House by candidates for Representative include:

Connecticut, Freeman, Republican, $548.

Illinois, William E. Hull, Republican, $770.

Iowa, Thurston, Republican, $42.

Louisiana, Spearing, none; Wilson, none; both Democrats.

Massachusetts, Foss, $224; Luce, $310; both Republicans.

Michigan, Ketcham, $162; McLeod, $205; both Republicans.

New Jersey, Perkins, Republican, $1,379.

New York, Fairchild, $3,500; Crowther, $700; both Republicans; and Carew, Democrat, $2,538.

Ohio, Brand, Republican, $537, and McSweeney, Democrat, $1,411.

Texas, Black, $3; Mansfield, $29; Jones, none; all Democrats.

suits brought by the Government against certain newspapers which had published the tax payments. Should the Government lose its case, Mr. Longworth feels certain that Congress will adopt a repeal bill that will have the approval of the Administration. He believes many Congressmen have changed their views regarding income tax publicity.

Senator Borah, new Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, conferred with the President. Consideration was given to the pending treaty with Cuba, under which sovereignty in the Isle of Pines is vested in Cuba. This treaty was negotiated in 1904. Secretary Hughes is hopeful that it will be ratified this Winter, and Senator Borah gave assurances that he would cooperate to this end.

Senator Borah and the President also discussed the postal employes pay rise bill, vetoed by Mr. Coolidge, but with what result was not made known. Mr. Borah sought to impress on the President the need for action on reclamation legislation. The understanding is that an agreement was reached that a measure should be drafted with the approval of the Administration providing for a reclamation law based on the recommendations of the Reclamation Fact-Finding Commission.

Senator Borah still holds Congress should meet in special session early in the Spring to pass farm legislation and other measures that he regards as of imperative importance.

HOLD ARMS TREATY ALLOWS GUN RAISING

WILL ASK CONGRESS ACTION

Supporters Will Seek Re-enactment of the Appropriation for Changes on Thirteen Ships.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Analysis of the agreements reached by the Washington arms conference has convinced Administration officials that the proposed elevation of the turret guns of thirteen of the eighteen American battleships now legally retainable would not constitute a violation of the 5—5—3 ratio treaty.

There is no conflict of opinion on this point between the State and Navy Departments. The question is rather one of practical naval economies for Congress to determine, according to the prevailing belief.

Gun elevation will soon come to the front in Congress. The recommendation made by Admiral Eberle will be considered by the Naval subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee, of which Representative Burton L. French of Idaho is Chairman, in the framing of the Naval Appropriation bill, and a determined effort will be made for the reappropriation of the money which was appropriated by the Sixty-seventh Congress for an increase in the angle of fire of the turret guns on thirteen battleships.

Wilbur Outlines Navy's View.

Replying to a request by Representative French, Secretary Wilbur has tentatively drafted an outline of the views of the navy on gun elevation which represents the Administration's view, since Secretary Wilbur has been in conference with the President.

In 1934, under the treaty, three battleships, the Florida, Utah and Wyoming, will be replaceable. By 1935 the Arkansas, Texas and New York will be replaceable under the treaty. Six years from next Summer the navy will be laying down three new dreadnoughts, and twelve months later three more. A question for Congress to consider is whether the navy can afford to wait until 1934 and 1935 for the building of these six substitutes, or if it would be more in aid of national defense to elevate the guns on all thirteen of the existing ships needing it.

Gun elevation was never discussed by American officials in the Washington conference, and the Administration view is that the necessary elevation could not be regarded as reconstruction within the meaning of the treaty.

Of the eighteen battleships retained by the United States under the treaty, five are not involved in the question of gun elevation. Three belong to the West Virginia class and two to the California class. The Administration is satisfied that these can outrange anything in the British Navy. Their extreme range is officially declared to be as follows:

California, 35,500 yards.

Tennessee, 35,700 yards.

These figures represent the range of the turret guns when they are elevated to an angle of 30 degrees, which are no battleships in the British Navy, according to the information possessed by Washington, except the Hood, whose turret guns have a greater angle of fire than 30 degrees. When elevated to an angle of 15 degrees, the turret guns of the West Virginia, Colorado and Maryland have a range of 22,900 yards; when raised to 20 degrees, of 27,400 yards, which is also greater than the extreme range of the guns on any British battleship at 20 degrees.

Comparison With British Guns.

The range of British guns when elevated to 20 degrees varies, according to the ship, from a minimum of 23,800 yards to 24,300. The range of the turret guns of the California and Tennessee is 24,000 yards when elevated to an angle of 15 degrees, and 28,400 when elevated to an angle of 20 degrees.

The views of the Administration, based upon data assembled by the Navy Department, are:

First—That five American battleships, the West Virginia, Colorado, Maryland, California and Tennessee, outrange anything in the British Navy.

Second—That with five other battleships, the Idaho, New Mexico, Mississippi, Arkansas and Wyoming, the difference in range is very small as compared with the range of British ships, merely a few hundred yards.

Third—That the other eight American battleships, the Arizona, Pennsylvania, Oklahoma, Nevada, New York, Texas, Florida and Utah, are outranged by British ships by several thousand yards.

The range and angle of fire of British ships, according to data officially obtained and on which the Administration relies, is as follows:

Royal Sovereign	20	24,300
Royal Oak	20	24,300
Revenge	20	24,300
Resolution	20	24,300
Ramillies	20	24,300
Malaya	20	24,300
Valiant	20	24,300
Barham	20	24,300
Queen Elizabeth	20	24,300
Warspite	20	24,300
Bamboy	20	23,800
Emperor of India	20	23,800
Iron Duke	20	23,800
Marlborough	20	23,800
Hood	20	24,600
Renown	20	24,300
Repulse	20	24,300
Tiger	20	23,800
Thunderer	20	23,800
King George V	20	23,800
Ajax	20	23,800
Centurion	20	23,800

West Virginia	20	34,500
Colorado	20	34,500
Maryland	20	34,500
California	20	35,300
Tennessee	20	35,700
Idaho	15	24,000
New Mexico	15	24,000
Mississippi	15	24,000
Arkansas	15	24,350
Wyoming	15	23,500
Arizona	15	21,000
Pennsylvania	15	21,000
Oklahoma	15	21,000
Nevada	15	21,000
New York	15	21,000
Texas	15	22,000
Florida	15	22,000

Actual Difference in Range Slight.

The guns on the British ships named when elevated at an angle of 15 degrees have a range extending from a minimum of 19,000 yards to 19,700 yards. The American guns on the eighteen ships named, when fired at an angle of 15 degrees, have ranges extending from 21,000 yards to 24,350 yards.

At an angle of 20 degrees elevation the British guns have ranges extending from a minimum of 23,800 yards to a maximum of 24,300 yards. At the same angle the minimum range of the American guns is greater than the maximum of the British.

But only five American battleships are able to elevate their guns to an angle greater than 15 degrees.

There are five American battleships whose range at the 15 degrees angle is only slightly inferior to that of each of the British battleships. These are the Idaho, New Mexico and the Mississippi, whose guns have a range of 24,000 yards at 15 degrees, their present maximum angle of elevation; the Arkansas of 24,350 and the Wyoming of 23,500. As all British ships are able to fire at an angle of 20 degrees, each one of them, the Hood, at 30 degrees, and their ranges at 20 degrees extend from a minimum of 23,800 yards to a maximum of 24,300 yards, it is apparent that there is not much difference between their actual range and that of the five American battleships.

If all guns on British battleships were elevated to an angle of 30 degrees which, according to the American construction is allowed, the range at any time, the range of the British guns would extend from a minimum of 30,000 yards to a maximum of 30,300. If all American guns were similarly elevated their range would then extend from a minimum of 32,000 yards in the Florida class, to 37,500 yards in the case of the Tennessee. American ships would then outrange all British battleships at 30 degrees.

GOVERNOR HERE TO GET FACTS ABOUT TRANSIT

May Appoint Commissioner to Hear City's Charges—To Name New Justice Monday.

Governor Smith arrived in the city last night, accompanied by Mrs. Smith and Public Service Commissioner George R. Van Namee, who until a few months ago was Secretary to the Governor.

The Governor expects to remain here until Wednesday. While in the city he will seek all the advice he can get on the transit situation, and before returning to the Capitol he probably will decide whom to appoint as his Commissioner to hear the charges preferred by the Board of Estimate against the Transit Commission, unless he should determine to preside at the hearing himself.

By Monday the Governor expects to be able to announce a successor to Justice Thomas F. Donnelly of the Supreme Court in the First Judicial District, who died recently. There is a list of applicants for the place, containing more than forty names. Terence Farley, the Governor's legal adviser, and State Industrial Commissioner Bernard L. Shientag, whose term of office expires on Jan. 1, are mentioned among candidates who are seriously considered for the vacancy.

Governor Smith appeared to be in perfect health and said that his foot, which he hurt on the golf course at French Lick Springs, was giving him no further trouble.

Questioned regarding the recent statement of United States Senator Royal S. Copeland that Governor Smith did not furnish the sort of efficient leadership required if the Democratic organization up-State ever is to amount to something in a campaign, the Governor said he had no comment to make.

LAST NIGHT THE BEST OF RADIO TEST WEEK

More Stations Abroad Are Heard by More Persons Here Than Ever Before.

MANY PICK UP ABERDEEN

Programs From Edinburgh, Liverpool, Lyons, Madrid, Rome and Mexico City Also Received.

The fifth night of International Radio Week was the most successful, according to reports received early this morning of reception in America of European programs. More stations seem to have been heard by more persons than on any previous night.

Aberdeen, Edinburgh, Liverpool, Lyons, Madrid and Rome were the principal stations that various listeners-in, some of them experts and most of them amateurs, reported having picked up.

In addition to apparently widespread reception of European stations, there was even more numerous reception of Station CYL at Mexico City. Several persons in and around New York reported having heard the program of that station for nearly an hour, some having used their loud speakers throughout.

Whether efforts to broadcast eastward across the Atlantic between 10 and 11 o'clock last night, the hour just preceding that of the westward tests, were successful was doubtful. No reports were received of any foreign country having picked up America. Several American stations made their announcements in a variety of European tongues in the hope that their words would reach across the ocean.

Radio Broadcast, the magazine at Garden City, L. I., which sponsored the week's effort at an international exchange of radio programs, reported successful reception last night. The magazine's operators failed to tune in any foreign station on Thursday night.

Among the stations heard in the magazine offices, on their own set, were 2EA at Edinburgh, on 325 meters, which sent a piano solo at 11:20; station 2PY at Plymouth, England, with a flute solo at 11:30 to 11:31. Reports received by the magazine from other devotees who said they had tuned in station PTT at Madrid, station 6LV at Liverpool, on 318 meters, and station PTT at Lyons, France, was said that the Lyons and Madrid stations had identical call letters and that one man in Bradford, Pa., had telephoned to the magazine that he had been able to log the complete program of the Lyons station.

Reports of Reception Here.

Many reports of successful reception came to THE TIMES. Ralph Diamond, 1,165 Fifty-sixth Street, Brooklyn, reported that he clearly heard the announcement of Station 2BD, Aberdeen, at 11:49. A moment later code made further reception of the program impossible. At 11:33 he heard a woman speaking.

Mortimer Hyman of 350 Manhattan Avenue also reported hearing the 2 BD announcement at 11:49. Harry W. Kouwenhoven, 395 Clinton Avenue, Brooklyn, said that he picked up almost the entire program from 2 BD, including the announcement. At 11:27 he heard a piano solo followed by an announcement at 11:30. From 11:33 to 11:36 there was the playing of bagpipes and at 11:44 a woman was heard singing.

Joseph Neagle, 425 East 153d Street, reported picking up the 2BD, Aberdeen, announcement at 11:37.

A number of radio enthusiasts declared that they caught a guitar version of Victor Herbert's "A Kiss in the Dark" from the Aberdeen station. Sherman Cash, 525 Fifth Street, Brooklyn, also picked up the announcement of the station clearly at 11:50, soon after the guitar playing ceased.

Dr. O. C. Risch, Passaic, reported hearing station CYL, Mexico City, at 11:35. Ralph Kendall of Red Bank, N. J., said that he heard a station announced as 2YO, on the program of which from 11:37 to 11:47 were a man talking French and a woman singing in some other foreign language.

C. A. Hand of 976 West 181st Street said that at 11:15 he tuned in on a soprano soloist in the rendition of an air from an opera. He said the song was being sung in a foreign language. At 11:55 he picked up what appeared to be the same station and heard a base horn solo very distinctly.

Gets Mexico City.

A. L. Stanley of 54 Gould Avenue, Caldwell, N. J., telegraphed THE TIMES that he had had loud speaker reception of the Mexico City station for a half hour. Roy Cottrell of 1,204 Fifth Avenue telephoned that he had heard the same station. So did William Nelson of 140 West Seventy-first Street.

Neil Whalen of 3,637 Broadway reported hearing jazz music and the announcement 5IT Birmingham. Beaumont Hyman of 350 Manhattan Avenue heard an orchestra playing on about 495 meters and thought it was 2BD Aberdeen. Julius Miller of 121 West 114th Street heard piano solo and the announcement 2BD Aberdeen.

W. Vernet, 713 West 176th Street, reported this log:

11:25 P. M.—Man announcing in foreign language, probably Italian.

11:30 P. M. to 11:34 P. M.—Man announcer.

11:48 P. M.—Heard same ukulele.

11:49 P. M. to 11:51 P. M.—Heard same announcer say "Roma, Italia."

11:51 P. M. to 11:53 P. M.—Heard ukulele again.

11:53 to 11:56 P. M.—Heard distinctly man announcer say "For the benefit of American listeners in United States.

11:57 P. M.—Heard a woman talking a foreign language.

12:03 A. M.—Man announcer again.

12:05 A. M.—Ukulele again, so strong he had it on the loud speaker.

Mr. Vernet did not hear the call letters. The wave lengths were between 450 and 500 meters.

Mrs. Taylor Boykin of Bayside, L. I., reported hearing an orchestra, a piano solo and a soprano singer, who she believed were sent from a station in France, because the song was in French. Reception was at 340 meters.

C. P. Day of 30 Fifth Avenue said that at about 11:10 P. M. he heard a man announcing Station DYL, Mexico City. The man said that an address was about to be delivered by another man "for the benefit of American citizens." The address, Mr. Day said, was followed by a slow waltz on a steel guitar, and at 11:46 he lost the station.

Edward Mandelstein of 1,202 Avenue K, Brooklyn, said that he got the same station distinctly on his set from 11:01 to 11:56 P. M.

M. T. Ball of Beechhurst, L. I., telephoned that at 11:24 he got clearly the announcement 6LV, which is Liverpool. There was interference from a ship and he lost that station. At 11:33 on 400 meters he got a French station and heard it broken English the announcement, "Our American friends, the next number will be by Professor ——"

Robert H. Drew of Pleasantville, N. Y., reported hearing a soprano solo at 11:10, a tenor and soprano duet three minutes later, instrumental music for twelve minutes, then a talk in English lasting until 11:47, followed by a piano solo, a baritone solo and a male quartet, which came on at 11:53.

Signor Marconi will broadcast at 11 o'clock tonight, Eastern Standard Time, through a chain of English stations, according to a cablegram received yesterday at the office of Radio Broadcast magazine, sponsors of the transatlantic tests.

The microphone in the studio of Station 2LO, London, where Marconi will speak, will be connected by land wires with 5XX, Chelmsford, 1,600 meters; 6BM, Bournemouth, 385; 5WA, Cardiff, 351; 2ZY, Manchester, 375; 5NO, Newcastle, 400, and 5SC, Glasgow, 420.

An international program will be broadcast tonight by Kay Macrea, soprano, singing before the microphone of WGBS, Gimbel's. Favorite songs of the United States, France, Russia and Germany will be included in the concert.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 28.—Concerts in England and Continental Europe were heard here last night by many radio enthusiasts, according to their reports. Robert Goldenson of 345 South Atlantic Avenue heard a tenor solo, "Roses of Picardy," from Station 5NO at Newcastle, England. The complete program of the Newcastle station was heard by James M. Lucas of Coraopolis. He also reported several numbers in a foreign language, which he believed came from Madrid or Paris.

Charles Barker of 140 Forty-fourth Street reports that he heard a band and several solos from 5NO, Newcastle. Music and singing were heard from Station 2LO in London by H. Allen, 7,349 Hamilton Avenue. G. Davis of Orange Street, Knoxville, reported hearing the complete program from Station 5NO at Newcastle.

A program broadcast by a Brussels station was picked up by John Phillips of Ambridge at 11:52 P. M., he reported. E. L. Besser of 1,014 Lamont Street, North Side, said he listened in on a program sent over from Station PTT, Madrid. W. E. Wilcox, 7,502 Kelly Street, reported that he heard a piano solo from 11:25 to 11:32 broadcast from Madrid. C. E. Lents of 23 Kenyon Avenue, Westwood, said he picked up Station PTT at Madrid, hearing the complete program from 11:10 straight through the hour.

200 SUDAN TROOPS MUTINY IN KHARTUM

been an active agitator ever since, Hassan Yassin Effendi, a student elected to Parliament and the recognized Generalissimo of "Zaghlul's army."

Among other men arrested were some of the student leaders of Cairo and Alexandria, two Government officials, one from the Department of Agriculture and the other from the Department of Surveys, as well as all the male members of two families.

British Feared More Plotting.

Yesterday's arrests by the British military authorities and the transfer of the prisoners to the Egyptian civil authorities were considered necessary because the British authorities were convinced that if these men remained at large British lives would be in imminent danger and any other course might fail to attain the desired result. So soon, however, as the Egyptian Government gave assurances that it was ready to take charge of them and deal with them under the Egyptian law the prisoners were handed over.

These four men were believed to be the instigators and organizers of political crime. Together with those arrested today they belong to what is generally known by the British as the "murder gang."

These arrests are approved by members of the foreign communities, who fully realize the gravity of the situation, but they have aroused considerable criticism in the Egyptian press.

A meeting, called for today at the University of Al Azhar, was held after the midday prayer. The students from the various schools attended and there was a large crowd outside, composed almost entirely of youths. There was a certain amount of excitement in the immediate neighborhood, but the rest of the quarter seemed to be quite undisturbed. There were some attempts to make speeches and a little scuffling, but the meeting fizzled out and there was no attempt to make a demonstration. A strong force of police was drawn up outside of Al Azhar and there were more in reserve, as the Egyptian Government was determined to prevent demonstrations.

Egyptian troops have taken the place of the police who have hitherto been guarding the Ministries.

Alexandria is also quiet. An incipient demonstration outside of Abdul Abbas Mosque after the midday prayer was stopped by the police.

The Egyptian Cabinet sat for most of today to discuss the settlement and Sir Maurice Amos, judicial adviser, had a long conference with Premier Ziwar Pasha this evening, but no conclusion has yet been reached.

MACDONALD URGES SUBMISSION TO LEAGUE

Would Have Britain Ask for a Mandate Over Sudan—Geneva Gets Another Protest.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Ex-Premier Ramsay MacDonald came out tonight as a strong advocate of submitting the question of the administration of the Sudan to the League of Nations. He said he hoped Britain would report the whole circumstances to the League and ask for a mandate, by virtue of which she would remain responsible for the administration of the Sudan. A mandate from the League, he said, would put this country right with the outside world.

GENEVA, Nov. 28 (Associated Press).—The League of Nations today received a protest from the Egyptian Senate, condemning Great Britain's action in Egypt. The document is couched in terms similar to the protest received from the Egyptian Chamber of Deputies, characterizing the British demands for satisfaction for the assassination of Sir Lee Stack, the Sirdar, as excessive and iniquitous.

The League also received a letter from M. Hymans, President of the League's Council, notifying the Secretary-General, Sir Eric Drummond, that Hymans had already received direct from the President of the Egyptian Chamber a copy of the protest distributed by that body to all the world Parliaments and to the League.

In his letter to the Secretary-General, M. Hymans did not indicate what, if anything, he would do about the Egyptian affair in connection with the next meeting of the League Council, which is to open in Rome on Dec. 8.

The protest from the Egyptian Senate, which is in the form of a telegram, criticises the British note as outrageous in its tone to the Egyptian people and Government, and severe in its demands. These demands, the protest declares, are not justified by the assassination and are contrary to the rights of man and to the reiterated declarations of the British Government. The demand regarding the obligatory withdrawal from the Sudan is especially protested against, the Sudan being pointed to as necessary to Egypt's existence.

The occupation by English troops of the Alexandria customs as the first measure of coercion has only increased the bitterness, the Senate protest asserts. It expresses wonder whether this does not imply a blow at Egyptian independence and the sacred rights of the Egyptian people.

The protest refers several times to the sorrow of the Egyptians over the murder of the Sirdar and concludes by appealing to the universal conscience of the civilized nations and insisting that England's acts are incompatible with the spirit of the present.

CAIRO, Nov. 28 (Associated Press).—Persia is ready to raise the whole Egyptian question before the League of Nations, according to the newspaper Ahram. Former Premier Hussein Ruchdi Pasha has issued a statement urging that the matter be given to the League and declaring that it is fully within the League's province.

ROBINSONS CLEARED IN 'POTENTATE' PLOT

hours to see Lord Darling once more and to hear him sum up in his beautifully polished English. In his gray wig and black gown with deep ermine cuffs and with broad crimson ribbon across his breast, he looked as if he had stepped out of some old world scene.

Scathing scorn was often in his delicately modulated voice. A slight gesture would show the disgust he felt at facts he had to discuss. Indignation at some particularly foul feature of the plot he was analyzing was evident in his tones, but he never raised his voice. It was often hard to catch the words he used, but there was never any doubt of the contempt with which he viewed the conduct of every one of those concerned in the conspiracy.

Thus he was willing to admit that there was, even for a man of honor, a certain proper consideration he might accept, not as a price of his wife's shame, but for refraining from divorce proceedings, and yet he wondered whether, with all the publicity of the case, "Mr. A.," as the Prince has been called throughout, had gained anything for the money he had paid. It was hard to believe that any one who knew him had failed to identify him.

English Aid of Prince Scored.

As for the aide de camp, the Judge gave a little contemptuous wave of the hand. If it were not for the clue it might give to "Mr. A.," nothing would have pleased him better, he said, than to publish his name throughout the world. "He deserves every punishment which could be inflicted on a person who has degraded the name of England," he declared.

Robinson and his wife were sitting just below the bench and their eyes sought Lord Darling's face as he took up the part they had played. Not once did he glance at them, not a word of denunciation did he hurl at them, but they needed all their stoicism as with cutting sarcasm he described how Mrs Robinson had planned to follow "Mr. A" to the East and might there perhaps have been termed his concubine. And then it was Robinson, who took £25,000 from a man he did not know and then tried to get more.

The money he claimed was not his, the Judge ruled positively. It was as if some one had stolen a watch and placed it in a box with Charles Robinson painted on it and Robinson had then claimed it because he had a latch key which would fit the box's lock.

A pretty compliment to Lord Halsbury came next. It was his father, the famous Lord Chancellor, who had advanced him, said Lord Darling. It was he who gave me my silk and ermine I have just laid down," he said, "and it has been great pleasure to see how his son has handled this unpleasant case."

A quotation from "Romeo and Juliet" lit up the Judge's picture of the fear which drove "Mr. A" to pay the blackmail. "My poverty but not my will consents," said the apothecary as he sold Romeo the poison and Romeo replied: "I pay the poverty and not thy will," and Lord Darling directed the jury that to get money in such way, by fear, the law calls stealing.

Lord Darling ran through the evidence in the suit without going into minutiae and gave special attention to Robinson and his relations with his wife. He picked up an excellent Sir John Simon's description of Robinson as an "intermittent husband." The words on the check, "£150,000 only," gave the Judge another opening and with slight emphasis on the last word he bade the jury notice that Robinson asked for £125,000 only.

As for Newton, Lord Darling ruled the jury must not reject his evidence because he had been convicted for forgery. Lord Halsbury had described him as "a £5,000 insult to the jury," but Lord Darling thought they should make up their minds from what they had seen of his demeanor in the box of how much faith they could place in his testimony. As for his honor toward his fellow-conspirators, he told them to remember that it had been said, "His honor rooted in dishonor stood and faith unfaithful kept him falsely true," to Judge Robinson and Newton by that standard and be thankful they had not to give their verdict in the dark about what Newton said.

Verdict on Two Sets of Questions.

The first set of questions the Judge submitted to the jury dealt with the conspiracy, and after the jury had been out for an hour they returned with the findings that there was a conspiracy to catch Mr. A with Mrs. Robinson and to get money from him, that neither Robinson nor his wife was a party to it, that Mr. A had parted with his two checks through fear or alarm and not by free or voluntary act. The Judge then gave a further charge dealing with banking transactions and after that asked the jury another set of questions. They were again out for an hour and a half and came back with the answers that endorsement of the £150,000 check, "pay to Mr. C. Robinson, Appleton & Co.," was not written by any one as agent of Appleton, that there was never any intention to transfer the proceeds of this check to Robinson, that the bank in paying the check was obeying the same mandate under which they had received and cleared it, and that Hobbs in drawing out the money purported to be acting under the same authority as when he deposited it in the bank.

The jury said they could not answer the question whether rights in the check were ever transferred by Hobbs or Appleton & Co. to Robinson, but the Judge ruled that that in the light of their other answers was not necessary and discharged them.

The Judge informed counsel that he wished to hear an argument from them on points of banking law before the verdict was formally given, and it is probable that the suit will be put down again in Monday's calendar.

At the very opening of today's hearing Lord Darling had ruled out one important legal contention of the plaintiff. He declared that the question of the bank's negligence was an exploded issue.

Sir John Simon resumed his summing-up for the defendants by explaining in justice to a well-known and highly respectable firm of jewelers involved exactly what were the instruments which had been referred to in veiled language in connection with the intimate questions. There was nothing indecent or illegitimate about them and, with the Court's permission, he would state that they were merely safety razors. As for the mementoes, one was a gold matchbox on which, in enamel, was a little safety razor, while the other was a similar box with an enamel emblem of a joint of beef. The first mementoe appears to have been given by Newton to Hobbs, and a message was sent to Hobbs to ask him to produce the box in court.

SOVIET'S TONE MILD IN REPLY TO LONDON

It Expresses Regret Over Rejection of Treaties and Calls Zinovieff Letter a Forgery.

WANTS IMPARTIAL INQUIRY

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The Soviet Government, through Christian Rakovsky, its Chargé d'Affaires in London, replied today to the British notes of Nov. 21, in which the British Government stated that it could not recommend for ratification by Parliament the general and commercial treaties which had been arranged by the Labor Cabinet in August, and dealt with the Zinovieff letter and the activities of Communist International. Rakovsky's replies were expected to be full of diplomatic dynamite. On the contrary, they are almost meek and mild.

In one letter to Austen Chamberlain, the Foreign Secretary, Rakovsky concentrates upon the British Government's refusal to advise ratification of the treaties which former Premier MacDonald and Arthur Ponsonby had signed. The letter was dated today.

In his letter to Mr. Chamberlain, Rakovsky says:

"The Soviet Government expresses its regret at the rejection of these treaties, the conclusion of which constituted an important step toward securing general peace, and, in particular, toward the strengthening of friendly relations between the peoples of Great Britain and of the Soviet Republic.

"I am directed by my Government to state that, on its part, it has displayed a maximum of good-will and of concessions in connection with the working out of a basis of agreement on the questions of particular interest to the British Government, to the working class and to the other sections of the British population. Therefore my Government cannot take any of the responsibility for the feeling of discontent which the decision of the British Government will cause in both countries."

In a second letter, Also dated today, Rakovsky replies to Austen Chamberlain's note of Nov. 21 and to J. D. Gregory's letter of the same date. He begins by referring to his letter to Ramsay MacDonald, stating his "absolute conviction that the alleged Zinovieff letter was a forgery," and reciting the Soviet Government's offer "to submit the document in question for an impartial investigation and arbitration."

Rakovsky then continues:

"During several weeks my Government received no reply to its offer. In the meantime, many members of the British Government had publicly expressed their doubts as to the genuineness of the alleged document, and some of them had even expressed their conviction that it was a forgery. In view of the doubts existing in the matter, the British Government found it necessary, after the election campaign, to appoint an authoritative committee of the Cabinet, including the Prime Minister and the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, to examine into the nature and origin of the document. This committee established that neither the Government nor any of the Government departments of Great Britain had seen any original document. This fact was made public on Nov. 4.

Says Britain Lacks Evidence.

"These curious circumstances explain why public opinion throughout the whole world considers the Zinovieff letter as undoubtedly a forgery. The most elementary rules of jurisprudence forbid the making of accusations on the strength of copies of documents which have been neither verified nor certified by any one, and which no one of the accusers has ever seen."

Rakovsky next refers to the British Trade Union Congress delegation to Moscow, and asserts their conviction that the Zinovieff document was a forgery, and that the British "refusal of the Russian offer of arbitration can only be explained on that ground."

After stating that the Soviet Government cannot "accept unproven allegations," Rakovsky continues:

"My Government considers that it has even more reason for rejecting the unfounded allegations made by the British Government, since, in the past, accusations have repeatedly been made against the Soviet Government based on documents which, on closer examination, were found to be forged, and of which even the origin has been established.

"My Government considers as established and proved the fact that in a number of cities in Europe and America there exist organizations, under the leadership of Russian counter-revolutionary emigrants and of other suspicious elements, engaged especially in the fabrication of forged documents, with a view to undermining the international position of the Soviet Union.

"Recently I have submitted to the Foreign Office documents and evidence at my disposal proving that on the territory of Great Britain there exist political organizations engaged in the fabrication and distribution of false documents concerning the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

"In the name of my Government I express my deep regret that the British Government should base political acts having a most serious bearing upon the further relations between the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and Great Britain on unverified documents emanating from doubtful sources and should thus place the relations between the two Governments on a very precarious foundation in that it makes them dependent upon the action of malevolent and sinister persons and political organizations pursuing selfish aims. My Government cherishes the belief that the British Government will, in the future, be more circumspect in its accusations and that it will examine more carefully the facts on which it bases its official communications.

Insists on Arbitration.

"If, however, the present Government wishes to ignore the statement made by the Cabinet Committee on Nov. 4 and reiterates the accusations based on a forged document, the Soviet Government, on its part, must insist on its offer of arbitration as a sole means to an unbiased settlement of this question. The British Government must be aware that the rejection of this offer of arbitration cannot but be considered by public opinion of all countries as establishing that it is impossible for the British Government to substantiate and prove the accusations put forward during the election campaign.

"Further, my Government regrets that in its note of Nov. 21 the British Government evaded a direct reply on the question of arbitration on the concrete point at issue concerning the Zinovieff letter, and that it thought fit to pass on to general accusations against the Soviet Government in connection with the activities of the Communist International.

"As regards these accusations, I am instructed by my Government to reiterate the declarations repeatedly made as to the complete political and administrative independence of the Communist International from the Government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. My Government has never undertaken, and cannot undertake, to refuse the right of asylum to the Communist International, or to any other working class organization. Still less can it undertake to exercise pressure upon them.

"My Government considers any further discussion of attacks on international workers' organizations as useless and fruitless, and has requested me to declare that it has loyally carried out, and will in the future carry out, on the principle of reciprocity, the obligations which it has undertaken."

Neville Chamberlain, the Minister of Health, speaking in Birmingham tonight, said:

"The evidence which has been placed before the present Government since we took office has left not a shadow of doubt in the minds of any one of us that the Zinovieff letter was absolutely genuine and authentic, and it would be well if the Soviet Government, which is intimately and organically connected with the Zinovieff organization, were now to lay to heart the result of the enactments of that gentleman in this country."

RYKOFF SEES SOVIET PERIL.

Admits British Action Shows Changed Foreign Relationships.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Nov. 28.—Following his recent survey of the Russian economic situation, Premier Rykoff also recapitulated Russia's international situation today before the Conference of Textile Workmen. While asserting that the international importance of the Soviet Union has greatly risen in comparison with last year and that foreign trade has greatly increased, the Premier said that the present period must be considered as most complicated. He regards the British notes as marking the turning point in the Soviet international relations, "which might become dangerous for the Soviet Union and the interests of the revolution."

Dealing with the Anglo-Russian situation, the Premier declared that the British Conservatives had gained power by false pretense.

"They knew that the alleged letter of Zinovieff was a forgery," he said. "That's the reason they refuse arbitration, substituting for the question of the leter general talk on propaganda of the Communist international.

"We must admit that the International is carrying on propaganda work, but all of its organizations are independent of the Soviet Government. A number of foreign Communist parties who carry on their work legally in their own countries are affiliated with that body. We have no reason to forbid them to coordinate their work or withhold from them the right of domicile and protection."

Premier Rykoff said that Russia undertook that her agents and the organizations depending upon her will not carry on propaganda against the capitalist regime of England, but it has no means to stop the propaganda of the British Communist Party and could never undertake to forbid its connection with the Communist International.

The Premier placed upon the Conservative Government of Britain the responsibility for the complications arising from London's refusal to refer the matter of the alleged letter to a neutral arbitration commission and for the rejection of the Anglo-Russian Treaty. He maintains that the Soviet Government will not refuse to discuss an agreement should the present British Government offer the same terms under a new form.

"But," he said, "we must declare with all firmness that the concessions which Russia made to England are the maximum, beyond which the Soviets will not go."

Surveying the Soviet relations with other countries, the Premier emphasized the importance of Russia's policy in the Eastern countries, especially in China, where, he said, the Soviet had succeeded in gaining a footing, not through the International's propaganda, but by supporting the Chinese people in their aspirations for independence and self-determination, which is exactly contrary to the policy of oppression and enslavement carried on by all the other great powers.

Despite the Dawes plan, which, he said, reduces Germany to a colony for West European capital, the Premier declared that he believed that Germany and the Soviet Union will approach each other more closely, as they have much in common interest. He considered the relations between France and Great Britain.

"We are eager to reach an agreement with both countries," he said, "but while the negotiations with England are now in suspense, the Soviet Government is going to make every effort to bring the negotiations with France to a favorable end, not departing at the same time from the fundamental principles of our revolution."

Speaking on the negotiations with Japan, M. Rykoff declared that an agreement already had been reached on all the principal questions, and the present negotiations are confined to the amount of oil and coal in the area of Northern Sakhalin which Japan claims in the form of a concession after the evacuation. Japan demands 60 per cent. of the total area. Premier Rykoff said he believes that Japan is going to yield and that an agreement will be reached shortly.

MORE RUMORS IN MADRID.

But Officials Deny Any Impending Change in Government.

MADRID, Nov. 28.—Rumors of an impending change of Government in Spain again have become current in connection with the reported return of General Primo de Rivera, the head of the military directorate, from Morocco, where he is in supreme command of the Spanish forces. The rumors, however, are said in official quarters to be without foundation.

It is pointed out that the military directorate always has been, and is now, perfectly willing to transfer the reins of government to any capable organization which presents itself with but one aim, that is, the safety and welfare of the country. The directorate opposes, however, those who were ousted when the directorate seized power.

The directorate is engaged in trying for a definite solution of the Moroccan issue, which is described as superceding in importance all other Government business, and which, according to word from General Primo de Rivera, will take more time than was at first believed.

BELGIAN FORD PLANT SHUT.

New Tariff Rates So High Company Will Move to Holland.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 28.—The large factory at Antwerp established by the Ford Motor Car Company, which had been used for assembling cars and lorries imported into Belgium in detached parts under lower customs duties, has been closed.

The new Belgian customs tariff has so increased the duties that the Ford Company decided to shut down, and 500 Belgian workers were discharged today. The company also has decided not to complete the factory under construction near Antwerp. Part of the staff that was employed at Antwerp will be transferred to Holland.

Oil Yield Passes Billion Barrels.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—World petroleum production reached 1,018,900,000 barrels last year, it was shown today in Government figures. The United States produced 732,407,000 barrels, or 71.9 per cent. of the total output. Mexico, second largest producer, had an output of 149,585,000 barrels, or 14.7 per cent.

HERRIOT SUSTAINED BY A CLOSE VOTE

ELECTION FUNDS INVOLVED

PARIS, Nov. 28 (Associated Press).—Premier Herriot and the members of his Government received a vote of confidence in the Chamber of Deputies tonight, 299 to 246—the smallest margin in a vote of confidence on strict party lines which M. Herriot and his colleagues have received since they assumed power.

The Chamber gave a virtually unanimous vote on the appointment of a special commission to inquire into funds used in the 1924 elections, but an effort by the Right parties to extend the investigation to the 1923 elections was opposed by the Government, M. Herriot making it a question of confidence.

The decision to investigate the "slush funds," with which it was charged all parties financed their elections last May, came after an acrimonious debate, growing out of the statement by Deputy Taittinger that M. Raynaldy, Minister of Commerce in the Herriot Government, had accepted 10,000 francs from the electoral organization of the Right parties and then had campaigned for the Left parties and become a Minister of a Left Government.

M. Raynaldy admitted having received money from Right organizations in November, 1923, when he was a member of the Right, but he broke with that organization in December, 1923. The Chamber was plunged into an uproar, enraged Deputies of the Right shouting "Resign!" "Give back the money!"

The Minister explained that the money was not used for personal or electoral purposes, but was put into his newspaper, Courrier de l'Aveyron. Extracts from the newspaper, dated December, 1923, bitterly attacking the Right group's policy, brought the Right Deputies to their feet and the disturbance was so great that the President of the Chamber threatened to suspend the sitting.

M. Raynaldy charged General de Castelnau, whom he defeated in the elections in the Aveyron Department, with being responsible for "M. Taittinger's manoeuvre." Mention of the General's name brought severe denunciation by the Opposition. M. Raynaldy, it was argued, had no right to attack such a "brilliant soldier and patriotic Frenchman."

M. Herriot then intervened, saying: "General de Castelnau is a great soldier, whose military character cannot be questioned, but when a soldier descends into the political arena, as is his right, his political acts may be challenged and discussed. The fact that he has worn a uniform does not mean that his political ideas cannot be discussed, especially when, like General de Castelnau, he directs against the republic assaults of which we are aware."

Premier Herriot gave M. Raynaldy a clean bill of health, saying he had no mandate to call upon his present colaborator to justify his political ideas in the last legislature. M. Raynaldy did not have to account to him for his acts before he became a member of his party in January, 1924; the only question for the Chief of Government was whether M. Raynaldy had been a loyal member since he joined. The Premier declared that he had.

M. Herriot's speech was punctuated by interruptions from the right and shouts of "Give back the money!" which phrase was being handled about on the boulevards as the Deputies emerged from the chamber.

CALLS FRENCHMEN TO FIGHT REVOLUTION

Cardinal Dubois, Fearing Communist Upset, Declares Hour Is Grave.

PARIS, Nov. 28 (Associated Press).—France is threatened with a Communist revolution, according to a declaration by Cardinal Dubois, to be published tomorrow in the Semaine Religieuse, an official Catholic organ:

Appealing to all French Catholics to "fight against the danger which menaces us so imminently," the Cardinal writes:

"The hour is grave. We must react today; tomorrow, perhaps, will be too late. God protect France."

The Cardinal's manifesto, which is circulated throughout France by the Agence Havas, deals with the Red demonstration at the ceremony attending the transference to the Pantheon of the ashes of Jean Jaures, the martyred Socialist leader. It continues:

"Is victorious France, six years after the war, to be a victim of revolution? One may well fear it if immediately all good citizens do not resist for the honor and safety of the country."

Cardinal Dubois goes on to speak of the Jaures parade last Sunday, in which were "numerous Freemasons decorated with their insignia, with only a few French tricolored flags." He continues:

"And there was a Communist army, compact and disciplined. They numbered 25,000, mobilized under the shadow of a multitude of red flags stamped with the hammer and scythe of the Soviets. They advanced to the sound of the 'International,' shouting cries of disorder and calls for violence.

"It was a fearful revelation. The danger that one believed to be remote appeared suddenly, and the spectre of Sovietism showed itself on our horizon. How many of us then opened their eyes at the passage of the cortège in which the Communists triumphed, and began to reflect on the consequences of a policy that can lead France to the worst of catastrophes?

"For communism would be the ruin of that which is dearest to us—religion and country. It would bring upon us the most awful tryanny. Will we let it force itself upon France and renew the horrors of Soviet Russia?

"To ease our conscience as Bishop and Frenchman, we wished, without delay, to sound the alarm. God grant it be heard by all who have the safety of the country at heart."

GEN. BUTLER WILL STAY.

Will Continue as Head of Philadelphia Police Three Years.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28.—Director Butler is to remain here as head of the police for three more years. He made the announcement in his weekly talk at City Hall today to the Police Lieutenants after a half hour conference with Mayor Kendrick. Soon afterward the Mayor gave out a statement saying:

"General Butler called on me this morning and we had a very satisfactory talk. We are in perfect accord. The General desires to stay and I will take up the matter with President Coolidge at the President's convenience."

Later General Butler said to a group of lieutenants:

"We're going to clean up this city and make it sparkle. You men are going to stand up or you're going to step out. Your Mayor has lifted the standard. He has taken his Roman Eagle and marched out in front to lead this procession, and we're going to rally around him."

FORBES CASE READY FOR TAKING EVIDENCE

CHICAGO, Nov. 28 (Associated Press).—Opening statements of counsel were completed late today and the way cleared for introduction of testimony on Monday in the trial in Federal Court here of Charles R. Forbes and John W. Thompson for defrauding the Government in the allocation of veterans' hospital contracts while Forbes was head of the Veterans' Bureau in 1922.

The enmity of Elias H. Mortimer, chief Government witness, was incurred by Forbes, according to defense counsel, when Forbes notified one contractor he could do no work for the Veterans' Bureau if Mortimer was his agent.

"This whole case is built up on a cleverly contrived fabrication by Elias H. Mortimer," declared Colonel James S. Easby-Smith, Forbes's counsel. "In the Fall of 1922 Mortimer began to spread a small part of these charges against Colonel Forbes, but no one in Washington paid any attention to Mortimer. This story grew as Mortimer obtained additional information from Government files, but of all these thirty-two overt acts charged in this indictment, only three are even open to suspicion."

Rudolph Loughlin, counsel for Thompson, a St. Louis contractor, told the jury he would prove that Thompson never had a dollar invested in the companies which secured hospital contracts and bid on only one project, his bid in that case being rejected as too high.

The $15,000 loan to Mortimer from Thompson's partner, James A. Black, of which sum Forbes is charged with receiving $5,000, was participated in by Thompson only at Black's solicitation, Mr. Loughlin declared.

The defence indicated today its list of witnesses would depend largely on the extent of the Government case. Defense counsel reviewed many "overt acts" only remotely related to the awarding of veterans' hospital contracts. Among these were the Goodheil case, in which Thompson sued in the Court of Claims for $800,000 more than the Government paid him for the Steamer Goodheil, salvaged by Thompson and taken over by the navy during the war, and the Colombian syndicate, composed of Thompson, Black and others to build railroads in Colombia, of which Forbes declined the post of chief engineer at a salary of $25,000 a year.

WILL CONFER TO CUT DISTRIBUTION COSTS

Merchants and Manufacturers to Be Represented at Washington Meeting.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Consideration of all the factors entering into the distribution of merchandise from the producer to the consumer will be given at a conference here in January of representatives of retail, wholesale and manufacturing interests in an effort to cut down expenses, with ultimate savings to the public.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States said tonight that the undertaking was the first of its kind from the viewpoint of the distributer.

Various phases of the investigation into such costs, which some investigators have held represent about half of the price paid for articles by the consumer, will be handled by business men and economists. Their recommendations will then be taken up by merchandise distributers to map out a definite plan.

The announcement said in part:

"There are very good reasons why this situation should be uppermost in the mind of the average person, since the cost of living is about 60 per cent. above that prevailing in 1913.

"Profits not only seem too large, but the public suspects that too many people are getting them, and it is eagerly trying to arrive at an understanding of distribution."

Mention was also made of the fact that owners of establishments employed in distribution constitute the largest single class of business men in the country, numbering 1,500,000.

LAUDS NEW YORK BUILDINGS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The newest New York skyscrapers are buildings of classic beauty but they would not suit London, according to the view expressed today by G. Topham Forrest, Architect of the London County Council, who was in the United States the last two months, studying town planning and building methods.

Mr. Forrest declared that his visits to the Brooklyn and Manhattan slum areas had convinced him that London had nothing to learn about slum conditions, but that the Americans were far ahead in the sanitary and domestic arrangements of working class tenements. He added that the science of scaffolding during building construction was absolutely the last word in America, and that British builders could learn much from it.

The new Municipal Building in New York is probably the finest architectural conception he had ever seen, he said, and he added that he went to America with the idea that skyscrapers were boxlike factories. But now his opinion is that while some of the older buildings there are bad architecturally, the newer ones are modeled on classic lines and are really beautiful.

In London skyscrapers are not necessary, Mr. Forrest said, and would cause such congestion of traffic as to make their adoption impossible.

Night lighting has been brought to a high pitch of perfection in New York, Chicago and Washington, these cities being much lighter than London, the official concluded in his statement.

AMERICA AND INDIA CLASH OVER OPIUM

WARNING BY BISHOP BRENT

He Quotes Garrison in Declaring This Country Won't Compromise on Drug Evil.

GENEVA, Nov. 28 (Associated Press).—The attempt at killing the opium scourge has suddenly caused new and serious difficulties, and the international opium conference stands tonight in a somewhat perilous position by reason of a collision between the delegations of the United States and India.

Although in the debate, which never ceased to be courteous in manner, the word "lie" was never employed, behind the entire discussion, which became so tense that the conference had to be adjourned until Monday, lay the mutual accusation of untruth.

The trouble started when H. M. Clayton, who represents India, asked that a resolution of Stephen G. Porter, United States, be ruled out of order. This resolution requested discussion of the question of control of production of raw opium and coca leaves so that no surplus would be available, except for medical and scientific purposes and for smoking. Mr. Porter contended that the subject was a competent one for discussion, and in this he was backed up by Bishop Charles H. Brent, United States, who attacked the position of the Indian representatives.

Both Mr. Porter and Bishop Brent made eloquent addresses in support of the American position, which were applauded both by the public and the delegates. On the contrary, the speeches of Mr. Clayton and John Campbell, chief of the Indian delegation, received no applause.

The incorporation of the clause suggested by Mr. Porter in the conference agreement would mean that India would be obliged to stop growing a considerable quantity of opium for her natives to eat.

Mr. Campbell, as chief delegate for India, asserted that the American delegates at the meeting last year had withdrawn their objections to India's reservations concerning opium eating in India and had clearly said they did not wish to interfere in domestic matters. Mr. Campbell added that the question could not be reopened and announced that if it were put in the agenda India would find it extremely difficult, and perhaps impossible, to continue in attendance upon the conference.

Bishop Brent spoke calmly but sharply in answering Mr. Campbell. He regretted, he said, that the question of honor, national and personal, had been raised. The Americans attributed no evil motive or conscious unfairness to Mr. Campbell and wished he had attributed honorable motives to them. The Bishop denied that there ever had been a compact with Mr. Campbell not to take up the Indian affair.

"I believe in a gentleman's agreement," Bishop Brent continued. "My word is as good as my bond. So is that of my country. Had a document bearing the proposition of the Indian delegate been presented to me I would have refused to sign it. Had our delegation signed such a document and reported it, our Government would have repudiated it."

Bishop Brent declared that India must take her chances like all others. America, the Bishop went on, did not wish to impose her will on others and would welcome suggestions, but we are at the parting of the ways.

"The question is," said the Bishop, "Shall we try to make a compact with an evil or shall we declare a war of extermination upon it?"

Raising his arms and speaking solemnly, Bishop Brent concluded:

"With William Lloyd Garrison we say, in the words of his great liberation challenge to the bureaucrats and the vested interests of his day, 'I will not retreat; I will not equivocate; I will not compromise; I will not be silent. And I will be heard.'"

Ringing applause broke out as Bishop Brent ended. This was followed by tense silence when Mr. Campbell arose and said:

"When I spoke before I stated facts. Have they been challenged? No!"

The session was now full of tense feeling and suddenly Señor Aguero, Cuban Minister to Germany, jumped up and proposed adjournment. He characterized the situation as exceedingly serious. President Zahle fixed the next session of the conference for Monday.

Speed Traps for Football Motorists.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 28.—"Speed traps" for New York and New Jersey motorists traveling to Baltimore for the Army-Navy game were set today by Pennsylvania police and a large number of football enthusiasts were hailed before Justices of the Peace and fined, according to F. H. Boone of New York City. Mr. Boone said that a Justice of the Peace at South Langhorne had boasted that sixty policemen had been stationed along the Lincoln Highway with express orders to pick up New York and New Jersey motorists on any charge whatsoever.

BOARD TO DISCUSS THE FRENCH DEBT

informally with statesmen and financiers. His suggestions included the granting of a five-year moratorium, the idea being that France, as a result of benefits obtained through successful operation of the Dawes plan, would then be in a position to meet her obligations to the United States.

PARIS, Nov. 28 (Associated Press).—Finance Minister Clementel, after today's Cabinet meeting, said Ambassador Jusserand's conversations with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in Washington were all that had taken place so far between representatives of the two countries concerning the French debt to the United States.

The Minister expressed belief that the American Government would grant a decided reduction in the rate of interest on the debt and hoped there would be a similar substantial reduction in the principal.

TALK OF STARTING AIR MAIL TO EUROPE

has been suggested that the Post Office Department take over the ZR-3 for transatlantic service, and that plan has been discussed but no decision has been reached.

"A transatlantic service would be only a question of law. The performance of the ZR-3 is such that we all recognize that all doubt has been swept away and the service could be placed in operation easily."

Eckener Predicts Weekly Service.

BERLIN, Nov. 28 (Associated Press).—There will soon be a weekly mail Zeppelin service between the United States and Europe, the correspondents here were informed today by Dr. Hugo Eckener, Director of the Zeppelin Company, who had charge of the ZR-3's transatlantic flight.

The Zeppelin-Goodyear combination does not intend to establish a passenger service for the present, he indicated, but he believes one Zeppelin each way weekly, carrying a half million letters at 25 cents per letter, would be a business success.

Dr. Eckener expects soon to leave for Spain to arrange for a Madrid-Buenos Aires service operated on the same basis as the proposed weekly service to and from the United States. The dirigibles on this route would make four days going from Europe and four and a half days returning, he estimated.

The airship of the future will be larger than the ZR-3, according to Dr. Eckener, who predicted the capacity at from 100,000 to 110,000 cubic meters. With such a ship, he declared, the North Pole region could be easily explored.

As a measure for effecting an easy landing for the big dirigibles, making a repetition of the trouble experienced on the occasion of the Washington christening of the Los Angeles unlikely, Dr. Eckener suggests starting and landing at night, when the sun is not shining and little gas need be blown off.

Plan a Huge New Zeppelin.

Special to The New York Times.

AKRON, Ohio, Nov. 28.—There has been considerable discussion among experts here of a transatlantic mail service, but officials of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation said tonight they are not prepared to make any statement as to when it would be started.

The corporation has started work on plans for a zeppelin to be used in commercial flights between America and Europe. It will be 1,000 feet long, nearly twice as large as the Los Angeles.

Construction of the zeppelin at the Goodyear plant will be under the direction of Dr. Karl Arnstein, formerly chief of design of the German Zeppelin Corporation, and new chief engineer and Vice President of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation.

COOLIDGE READY TO ACT ON THE SUGAR TARIFF

Changes in the Personnel of the Commission Reported Likely to Follow His Decision on Report.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—A change in the personnel of the Federal Tariff Commission may follow in the wake of President Coolidge's decision on the proposed reduction in the duties on sugar. In the midst of the recent campaign the Tariff Commission, or least three of its members, representing a majority, submitted a report to the President recommending that the Cuban sugar differential be reduced, on the ground that the difference in the cost of production here and in Cuba did not justify the rate of $1.76 per hundred pounds carried by the McCumber-Fordney tariff law.

This recommendation was made by Commissioners Culbertson, who is a Progressive; Costigan, an Independent, and Lewis, a Southern Democrat. The Republican members, Commissioner Marvin, the Chairman, and Commissioner Burgess, urged the retention of the McCumber-Fordney rate. They took issue with the conclusion of the majority, which, it is understood, fixed $1.32 a hundred pounds as an adequate protective duty.

It was made known at the White House today that the President is ready to act on the report of the commission. Under the flexible provisions of the law he is authorized to make the reduction proposed. His decision will probably be made known before he leaves for the West next week. Just what it will be is not known. Doubt is expressed, however, that he will concur in the report of the majority of the commission.

It was said today that if the President fails to sustain the Republican Commissioners they are likely to resign. Republican leaders in Congress declare that they look to the President to stand by the present sugar duty.

GERMAN EX-PRINCES UNITE THEIR FORCES

Republicans Believe an Agreement Has Been Made to Fight Together for Monarchy.

OLD FEUDS ARE PATCHED UP

Rights of Hanoverian and Bavarian Dynasties Said to Have Been Recognized by Hohenzollerns.

By T. R. YBARRA.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—Princelings of Germany's numerous monarchical dynasties, dethroned when Imperial Germany collapsed, have made a secret agreement to help each other to destroy the German republic and regain their thrones, according to anti-Monarchists here. This accusation is being used as a weapon against the Monarchist parties in the Reichstag electoral battle now raging which is becoming more and more a fight to a finish between those who do and those who do not believe in kings.

Even the bitter enmity between the ex-royal houses of Prussia and Hanover has been forgotten, it is reported, the Prussian Hohenzollerns having agreed not to hamper the Hanoverian Guelphs in attempts to regain the Hanoverian throne whence the Prussians toppled them nearly sixty years ago.

It is furthermore declared that the ex-German Crown Prince reached an understanding recently with ex-Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria as a result of which Rupprecht will not meet Hohenzollern opposition in his attempts to make himself King of Bavaria, irrespective of whether or not he thereby curtails the old Honenzollern supremacy in Germany. In short, the gist of the Republican accusation against the Monarchists is that the latter have decided they must sink or swim together and that therefore they have dropped quarrels which formerly divided them for the sake of doing away with the hated German republic and making Germany again a combination of big and little monarchical States.

German anti-Monarchists are particularly worried over the report that the Prussian and Hanoverian royal dynasties are inclined to bury the hatchet. The heir-apparent to the Hanoverian throne is none other than the Duke of Brunswick, husband of ex-Kaiser Wilhelm's only daughter. Their marriage was the first step toward reconciliation between the Hohenzollerns and Guelphs, who had been at daggers drawn since 1866. In that year Prussia went to war with Austria, and the Hanoverians sided with the Austrians, whereupon the Prussians gave them a sound thrashing, dethroned their King, confiscated royal property and annexed Hanover to Prussia. When that is borne in mind it is easy to understand the sensation caused in Germany when a son of the Guelphs married a daughter of the Hohenzollerns. If the next step toward burying the hatchet is a secret agreement whereby the Hohenzollerns pledge themselves not to object to the Guelphs again becoming Kings of Hanover, it is small wonder that anti-Monarchists are alarmed.

Such a miracle makes them fear that Germany's throneless princelings will stick at nothing to scramble back onto their thrones.

As regards Bavaria, anti-Monarchist apprehensions are just as lively. Bavaria, formerly an independent kingdom, retained more semblance of autonomy than any other State entering the German Empire when the latter was welded together by Bismarck. This caused constant friction between Prussians and Bavarians. Therefore it was only natural to assume that when ex-Bavarian Crown Prince Rupprecht had his recent serious quarrel with the Prussian Ludendorff, the latter would find a zealous supporter in the German ex-Crown Prince, scion of the Prussian house of Hohenzollern. Instead, however, Frederick William Hohenzollern sided with Rupprecht against Ludendorff. This is considered by Republicans as additional proof of a secret agreement between aspirants to the unoccupied German thrones. Were there no such agreement, it is argued, a Prussian Hohenzollern would surely side with a Prussian Ludendorff against a Bavarian Rupprecht.

The German Nationalist Party, according to its enemies, the German Republicans, is actively working toward the restoration of the monarch. They level similar accusation against the People's Party, whose leader is Foreign Minister Stresemann, which they declare particularly favors replacing Guelphs on the Hanoverian throne.

DAVIS SAYS 850,000 CAME HERE ILLEGALLY

Secretary Tells of Immigration During Year Via Mexico and Canada.

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 28 (Associated Press).—Speaking before the American Club, where he was the guest of honor at luncheon today, James J. Davis, United States Secretary of Labor, said he estimated that 850,000 persons had entered the United States clandestinely during the fiscal year 1923-24.

Secretary Davis said that much of this illegal immigration come over the Mexican and Canadian borders, and that the Immigration Department did not know exactly how it was done. He estimated that 85,000 foreign seamen arrived in United States ports and never took the return voyage.

The Secretary of Labor cited these figures as showing what would happen if America should throw the immigration doors open. He estimated that there were 10,000,000 Europeans who wanted to enter the United States, and declared that the country could not absorb this number economically.

"It is better that we look after our own workmen," he said, "that we rehabilitate the disabled to make them capable of renewing their work, as we are now doing through our vocational educational system, than to throw them in the scrap heap and let the millions of immigrants in."

The speaker told the 200 Americans present that the more American goods they sold Argentina the better for American labor because it meant that more were employed in manufacturing.

Mr. Davis promised that when he returned to the United States he would be a booster for the project of exempting Americans in business abroad from the income tax. He paid a tribute to Dr. Honoris Pueyrredon, Argentine Ambassador to the United States, who was present at the luncheon, for his work in strengthening the amicable relations between the two countries.

The Secretary concluded by saying that when his parents emigrated from Wales it was virtually a toss-up between going to the United States or joining the Welsh colony in Chubut, Argentina.

MONTREAL, Nov. 28.—Of the 57,367 persons departing from Montreal for a "temporary visit" to the United States in five months, 40,197 did not return, L. D. Wixon, the United States Immigration Commissioner, said today. Mr. Wixon asserted that 72 per cent. of those crossing the line from this district employed subterfuge to enter and remain in the United States.

Gives $190,000 to Dalhousie.

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 28.—A gift of $190,000 from the Carnegie Corporation was announced today by the Board of Governors of Dalhousie University. Of this sum, $90,000 will reduce deficits, while the remainder will be divided into five annual payments of $20,000 against future deficits.

2 RINGS AT MARRIAGE OPTIONAL, SAYS RECTOR

Not Many Requests Made Except by Foreigners, Says Dr. Ray, Explaining Service.

"Personally, I prefer just the one ring for the bride," said the Rev. Dr. J. H. Randolph Ray, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Transfiguration, known as the Little Church Around the Corner, in Twenty-ninth Street, last evening, discussing the rejection on Thursday by the House of Clergy of the Church of England of a proposal requiring men as well as women to wear wedding rings.

"I find that the couples coming here to be married who ask for the double marriage ring, are usually German or French," he said. "There does not seem to be much call among the English and American couples for the bride to give the bridegroom a wedding ring. Recently, however, there have been some who wanted two rings. We attribute that fact to the growth of the idea of equality between the sexes, especially political equality.

"I think it is rather a nice thing for the bride to give the bridegroom a ring, but I don't see why the Church should require it. We do not object in the least to using two rings in the weddings here. If the two who are about to be married request the use of two rings, we place the bridegroom's ring as we do the bride's, but in silence, as there is nothing in the Prayer Book about it."

Asked whether he approved of the omission of the word "obey" from the marriage ceremony, Dr. Ray said: "I think the use of the word 'obey' ought to be optional. I don't suppose that one in ten of the couples who present themselves here for marriage ask to have the word left out."

STONE EXPLAINS AIM OF PUBLICITY SUITS

Says Purpose Is to Learn What Congress Meant in the Income Tax Law.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The Department of Justice made public today the statement that indictments had been brought against corporations and persons publishing newspapers "solely to ascertain the intent of Congress" in passing legislation bearing on the question of the publicity of income tax payments, and that the names of individual taxpayers used in the indictments had been "picked at random," and not because of any complaint they had made to the Federal authorities.

"The several indictments thus far returned were made necessary in order that various phases of the tax law might be clarified in those jurisdictions wherein the violations occurred," the statement said. "For each separate count of an indictment a name, with the amount of tax reported paid, was selected from the published list, and in no instance has it been found that those whose names happened to be singled out ever made any complaint of any character to the Federal authorities prior to the return of the indictment.

"Three cases have now been instituted to test the question of the legality of the publication of information based upon portions of income tax returns in three different districts of the United States. In New York The New York Tribune, Incorporated, was made defendant in an indictment charging illegal publication of income tax returns. In Baltimore a similar case is pending against The Baltimore Post. The third case was started this week by the indictment in Kansas City of Walter S. Dickey, owner and publisher, and Ralph Ellis, managing editor, of The Kansas City Journal-Post.

"These cases will be brought to trial early in December. Defendants are cooperating with the Government in securing an early determination of the legal question involved, which is solely to ascertain the intent of Congress in passing Section 257 (b) of the Revenue act of 1924, and Section 1918 of the same act, which embodies Section 3167 of the Revised Statutes as amended."

BOY KILLED BY A BUS.

Knocked Down While Running After a Truck—Injured Girl Dies.

While running after a motor truck to get a ride, last night, Nichola Amiole, 10 years old, of 436 Pacific Avenue, Jersey City, was knocked down and killed by a motor bus in Pacific Avenue and the Morris Canal, near his home. John Reilly, driver of the bus, who lives at 248 Pacific Avenue, was arrested.

Miss Eva Brown of 108 Seaman Avenue, Baldwin, died yesterday of a broken neck. She was in a collision on Thursday while out riding in a car with Miss Agnes Kennedy of Baldwin on the Massapequa Road near Hicksville, L. I. Coroner Morey said that the police reported the accident was due to a misunderstanding of signals.

store immediately beneath the apartment occupied by the slain man, was displaying a bolt of silk to a customer shortly after 11 A. M. when the Chinese, later arrested as the slayer, came hurtling through the window to the sidewalk, about eight feet below the window, with the window sash around his neck. This man ran south to Canal Street, where he was captured by a policeman just as the victim of the stabbing leaped to the pavement through the same window and staggered into the arms of another policeman near the corner of Hester Street, a block north of the tenement.

The wounded Chinese was hurried to a drug store near by and the prisoner was taken in to face him. The wounded man, according to the policemen, immediately identified the prisoner as the man who had stabbed him while he lay on a couch in his tenement. The prisoner was taken to the station, and an ambulance removed the wounded man to Gouverneur Hospital, where he died within an hour.

Shortly afterward policemen walked into the station with Eing and Lai. They said that they had to break down the door of the apartment to arrest them.

Believes It Was a Private Feud.

All three prisoners refused to tell anything about themselves. Then detectives sent for Eddie Gong, Secretary of the Hip Sing Tong, and asked him to question the men. Gong spoke only a few words to the three prisoners, when they readily told their names and addresses. Gong said he was certain they were not members of the Hip Sing Tong, and that he thought the killing was the outcome of a private feud between the slayer and the victim. The police learned, however, that the slain man was a member of the On Leong Tong and later detectives obtained information in Chinatown which led them to believe that the slayer was a member of the enemy tong.

Soon after the murder Consul General Chang went to Police Headquarters and was closeted for about two hours with Acting Commissioner Leach. Mr. Leach said afterward that the Consul General had explained to him that he was the representative of the Chinese Republic in the territory east of the Mississippi River and that he felt it his duty to exert himself to the utmost to stop the renewal of the tong warfare. He asked Mr. Leach to do everything within his power to prevent Chinese not connected with either tong from becoming the victims of the gunmen, hatchetmen and dagger wielders engaged in slaying and wounding his countrymen. He outlined the work undertaken by himself and a committee of the Chinese Merchants' Benevolent Association, a nation-wide organization unconnected with either tong, to bring about a cessation of hostilities, and of the failure of the temporary peace pact after an armistice of four weeks.

Police Vigilance Is Renewed.

Within fifteen minutes after the departure of the Consul General the following order was communicated by Acting Commissioner Leach to the commanding officers of every inspection district and precinct in the city:

"Instruct all members of your command to be extra vigilant and give special attention to all Chinese laundries, restaurants and localities where Chinese reside or congregate, with a view to preventing commission of homicide and other criminal offenses."

Immediately afterward groups of detectives searched the apartments of Chinese in the vicinity of Doyers and Pell Streets in quest of seventy Chinese—said to be gunmen and hatchetmen—who, according to members of the On Leong Tong, had been smuggled into the district to begin a reign of terror. The detectives said that they found no Chinese who seemed to be new arrivals. The On Leong Tong men had asserted that assassins had been imported within the preceding twenty-four hours from San Francisco, but no Chinese from that city could be found.

In the mean time, Lee Har and Moy Yiek Tong, who were arrested Thursday after the murder of Goag Chong Fooc in his laundry at 1,419 Brook Avenue, the Bronx, were held without bail on a murder charge when arraigned before Magistrate August W. Glatzmayer in the Bronx Homicide Court.

EX-CHIEF OF TONG IN COURT.

Chin Jack Len Balks Extradition as an Embezzler.

Chin Jack Len, formerly General President of the On Leong Tong, but more recently connected with the Hip Sing Tong, who is wanted in Cleveland, Ohio, on an indictment charging that he stole $76,000 of the On Leong funds there before he was expelled and attempted to turn the branch into a Hip Sing organization, was brought yesterday before Judge Morris Koenig in General Sessions on a charge of being a fugitive from justice. He was arrested here Nov. 8 on his arrival from Chicago.

Counsel for Chin asserted that the Cleveland authorities had no right to his client because Chin had been arrested as a fugitive on the Cleveland charge in Chicago, had jumped $10,000 bail and must be returned to that city first. Judge Koenig ignored this contention, however, and turned Chin over to detectives from Cleveland.

As they were leaving the Criminal Courts Building with their prisoner, they were served with a writ of habeas corpus by Chin's lawyer, which had been signed by Justice Lydon in the Supreme Court. Chin immediately was taken before Justice Ingraham in the Supreme Court, where he was released in $30,000 bail pending a hearing on a motion that Judge Koenig's action be set aside.

MAID WHO KILLED EMPLOYER IS INSANE

OFFERS $4,640 TO THE POOR

Special to The New York Times.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Nov. 28.—Mary Kusmak, Polish domestic servant in the home of George H. Davey, who murdered her employer and wounded his wife and daughter with an axe, is insane according to two physicians who spent several hours examining her today in the Union County Jail at Elizabeth. A report on her mental condition will be presented to County Judge Alfred A. Stein within a few days and it is considered probable that she will be committed to the State Hospital for the Insane at Morris Plains.

The girl had considerably recovered from the religious mania which on Wednesday night impelled her to seize a hatchet and attack the members of her employer's family. Mr. Davey was almost instantly killed when the girl struck him in the neck with the axe. His invalid wife was seriously hurt when the maid attacked the bedridden woman. The daughter, Winifred, was slashed on the face when she confronted the crazed domestic after her father had been killed.

At the Muhlenberg Hospital the physicians say that it is quite likely that Mrs. Davey will recover. Miss Davey's wounds are not serious.

After being placed in a cell last night the maid sobbed and cried for several hours, and it was not until 3 o'clock this morning that she fell asleep. She slept until 10 o'clock and after breakfast she was visited by Dr. Michael Vinciguerra and Dr. Horace Livingood, the prison medical officer. The physicians examined her thoroughly, their tests occupying several hours.

During the rest of the day she refused to discuss the crime with any one, but spent several hours on her knees praying. It was learned today that she had attended the Greek Orthodox Church at Perth Amboy, though it was not definitely established that she was a member of that congregation.

The girl told Chief of Police Patrick S. Kiely that she had about $4,000 hidden in a satchel in her room at the Davey house and that she would like to have the money distributed among the poor. At the house Chief Kiely found $4,640 wrapped in a newspaper in a bag that was on the shelf of a wardrobe in the girl's room. He took possession of the money and deposited it in a bank to await the instructions of the Court regarding its disposal.

The funeral of Mr. Davey will be held from the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church tomorrow afternoon. The service will be private and will be conducted by the Rev. John J. Moment, pastor of the church.

WEBSTER R. MILLER IS SUED.

Woman Asserts Brother of Ex-Governor Broke Promise to Wed.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Nov. 28.—Miss Margaret Rodman has instituted an action in Supreme Court here against Webster R. Miller of Cortland, brother of former Governor Nathan L. Miller, to recover $10,000 damages for alleged breach of promise. The wedding was to have taken place on Monday of this week, the plaintiff asserts.

One of the preparations on the part of the bride, the papers charge, was the sale of her business. On Sept. 16, a letter from Mr. Miller announced his change of mind, according to the complaint.

A general denial has been entered by Mr. Miller.

De Valera Reaches Dublin.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, Nov. 28.—Eamonn de Valera was released from the Belfast jail this morning and arrived in Dublin at 11 o'clock. His release was not expected until tomorrow, and consequently his arrival passed unnoticed. He drove at once to the Republican headquarters in Suffolk Street. Mr. de Valera was sentenced to one month in jail after an abortive attempt to address a public meeting in Londonderry in the general election last month in defiance of the order of the Northern Government prohibiting his entry into the six counties.

Dry St. Patrick's Day in Ireland.

BELFAST, Nov. 28.—The Irish Free State Senate yesterday amended the liquor bill so as to make St. Patrick's Day entirely "dry," like Good Friday and Christmas, according to a Dublin dispatch.

ILKWORTH CASE TO THE JURY TODAY

INT OF PERJURY CHARGE

ederal Prosecutor Threatens Rearrest of Former President of Consolidated Exchange.

Counsel engaged in the trial of William S. Silkworth, former President of he Consolidated Stock Exchange, and thers before Federal Judge A. N. Hand nd a jury on an indictment charging raudulent use of the mails, spent about ight hours yesterday in summing up. he Court will charge the jury this orning.

Federal Prosecutor Peter J. McCoy, n presenting his case, intimated that Silkworth was acquitted he would be alled upon to defend a charge of perury because of statements made by him n the witness stand. One of these tatements was that when he had testified to "irregular trading" by the Raynor, Nicholas & Truesdell, a defunct brokerage concern, as a member f the Consolidated Stock Exchange, he merely meant trading after hours but hat bucketing was meant. It is also lleged that Silkworth did not tell the ruth when he testified that he had never showed Raynor the clearing house sheets and told him that they disclosed the illegal character of the business done by the firm.

Mr. McCoy tried to impress upon the jury his belief that Silkworth knew very well that the Raynor concern was bucketing orders and that no attempt was made by Silkworth to put a stop to it. Raynor, who pleaded guilty, and testified for the Government, swore that for several months before the failure of the firm more than 90 per cent. of the orders were bucketed. To get this point home Mr. McCoy discussed the entire bucket shop situation.

Judge Hand suggested that the prosecutor was making a "dangerous error," in this review of a time when many bucket shops were failing. Mr. McCoy told the jury that his information was to the effect that Silkworth had received $10,000 from E. M. Fuller & Co. at a time when Silkworth's salary was only $10,000. Philip C. Samuels, Silkworth's counsel, objected because no evidence had been offered concerning his client's salary. The objection was sustained and Mr. McCoy stated that, "Under Silkworth's régime fifty members of the Exchange failed." Mr. Samuels again objected, and moved that a mistrial be declared. The motion was denied, and the Court asked Mr. McCoy to deal only with the facts brought out during the trial.

Mr. McCoy asked the jury if they thought members of the exchange could do business resulting in heavy losses to investors without Silkworth's help, and Judge Hand again interposed, by telling Mr. McCoy he could discuss the case but he must not draw inferences as to the sort of business done on the floor of the exchange.

Counsel for the other defendants spoke more briefly and spent some time in attacking Raynor, the man who confessed and who did what he could to help the Government get a conviction.

AUTO WRECKS BEAUTY SHOP

Ten women were seated in the chairs of a beauty parlor at 2,295 Broadway yesterday afternoon while nimble-fingered attendants hovered over them. Suddenly there was a crash of glass and a burst of steam from a broken radiator, as George Norford, 22 years old, a negro elevator boy, backed into their midst seated at the steering wheel of an automobile.

Norford, employed in an apartment house at 2,297 Broadway, immediately adjoining the beauty parlor of "Charles and Ernest," had been annoyed by seeing the automobile parked in front of the house. It had been left there by its owner, Miss Mary Cole, of 323 West Eighty-third Street, while she phoned to a garage for a man to drive it into the runway at her home.

Norford, knowing nothing about automobiles, entered the machine, bent on driving it to a place less objectionable to him. He haphazardly shifted into reverse. The car hopped the curb, sped over the sidewalk, crashed through the window and broke off the radiator. Clouds of steam filled the parlor, and in the first scramble for safety neither patrons nor attendants noticed that Mary King, 23 years old, the cashier, had been severely scalded. The steam was quickly shut off and a physician from the Knickerbocker Hospital was sent for. He treated the cashier's burns.

During the excitement the manager of the beauty parlor, Rhinelander Grimm, called a policeman. He had scarcely arrived before he was reinforced by five others, who rushed to the scene after by-standers, thinking that they had seen a hold-up, had called the nearest station.

Norford was locked up charged with felonious assault and with operating a car without a license.

SAY JUDGE WILL RESIGN.

Charles F. Lynch of New Jersey Expected to Quit the Federal Bench.

Federal Judge Charles F. Lynch, of New Jersey, it was rumored yesterday, is to retire from the bench to enter a law partnership with Joseph Tumulty, Secretary to the late President Woodrow Wilson. Judge Lynch would not affirm or deny the rumor, but the belief persisted among members of the New Jersey bar that his resignation would be forthcoming within a short time.

Judge Lynch married two months ago and returned to Newark last Tuesday from an extended honeymoon abroad. His wife was Miss Marie Kearns, of Paterson. The rumor that he would resign first became current shortly after his marriage. When asked about it yesterday he smiled, but would make no comment. Mr. Tumulty could not be reached.

WOLVES CHASE A WOMAN.

Special to The New York Times.

RHINELANDER, Wis., Nov. 28.—Timber wolves, their hunger unappeased by deer, almost took the life of a woman near here today.

Mrs. Daniel Burns of Eagle River became lost while hunting, and after throwing away her rifle, wandered for hours until dark.

Set upon by a wolf pack, she dashed through the woods until she fell exhausted on a main highway, where a party of hunters arrived in time to drive away the wolves.

Mrs. Burns was unconscious for several hours after being taken home.

Nansen Disclaims Race to Pole.

CHRISTIANIA, Nov. 28.—Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, Arctic explorer, told the Dagblad today that there would be no race to the North Pole between himself and Roald Amundsen. The latter plans to make an attempt to reach the Pole next Spring by airplane, whereas the airship expedition in which Dr. Nansen expects to participate will require much longer preparation and probably will not start before 1926.

GOING SWIMMING?

Not so absurd as it sounds. Go down to Coney Island almost any day,

And you will see hardy men, and women too, braving the chill of the ocean and enjoying it.

But for the most of us who prefer to do our winter ocean-bathing by proxy

It is more fun to walk briskly down the Boardwalk, and then have dinner at CHILDS.

OCEAN FARES RISE ON NEW YEAR'S DAY

THIRD CLASS IS REDUCED

Twenty Per Cent. Cut Ordered to Go Into Efect Dec. 15—Increase to Continental Ports.

According to cable dispatches received yesterday from Paris by the steamship companies regarding the meeting of the Transatlantic Passenger Conference in that city on Nov. 24, virtually all passenger rates have been increased except the round-trip excursion third-class fares, which have been decreased 20 per cent., except to continental points. The cabin and first-class rates will go into effect Jan. 1 and the third-class rates on Dec. 15, unless a change in date is agreed upon at the conference here.

The first-class fares on the big liners like the Majestic and the Leviathan have been increased $15 on the minimum fares, while the rates on ships like the Aquitania and Olympic have had $10 put on to their minimum fares. The liners on Grades 4 and 5 will be increased $5 above the present minimum rate.

All grades of what are called cabin vessels—those only carrying that class and third—have been raised $15 on the minimum, including the prepaid tickets from this side. The second cabin fares on the big ships like the Leviathan and the Majestic will be raised $12.50 and those on liners like the Olympic and Aquitania increased $10 above the present minimum, while the rate on the older steamships carrying three classes of passengers, like the Baltic and the Celtic, will remai nunchanged.

Passage on the large modern liners in the Scandinavian trade will be raised $15 above the minimum and the smaller steamships $10, including the prepaid tickets to bring realtives from Europe. Third class fares to Continental ports like Cherbourg, Antwerp, &c., will be advanced $12.50.

Round trip excursion fares for third class passengers to the Continent will be $175 on the Majestic, Aquitania, Leviathan and Olympic, $172 on the Homeric, Columbus and Mauretania and $171 on the French liner Paris.

In view of the fact that the steamship companies will have to pay 33 1-3 per cent. more for oil fuel in 1925 and on account of the increase in operating expenses next year, they assert that they cannot afford to make any reduction in the first, second or cabin fares.

During the dull season in the transatlantic trade, which is in full swing now, there is keen competition among the steamship lines to capture what little trade there is. Some travelers are aware of this and take full advantage of it. They go from one office to the other, it is said, and demand an outside room, if not one with private bath, at the minimum fare. It is with a view to getting an extra $15 out of them that the companies have increased the first class minimum.

The increase in the rates of the "cabin" ships was justified, it was argued, because of the number of fine new first class passenger steamships which had been converted into the two-cabin class of ships, and the fares were even lower than those of the ordinary second cabin in the three-class ships.

ESCAPE WITH $177,000 AFTER BANK HOLD-UP

Two of Five Robbers Resemble Portraits in Cleveland Rogues' Gallery.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 28.—Bertillon photographs of two robbers were picked from the Rogues' Gallery tonight by A. R. Andress, manager of a Lakewood branch of the Cleveland Trust Company, as bearing a strong resemblance to two of five men who robbed the bank of nearly $177,000 this morning. First reports were that between $20,000 and $22,000 had been taken.

The photographs were the only clue the police had of the quintet which held up Andress, Miss Elsie Hellriegel, the bookkeeper; Chester Thumm, a teller, and J. B. Gordon, a depositor.

From the depositor they took $400.

An automobile, in which the robbers escaped, was found and identified as having been stolen from Robert I. Ward on Wednesday.

DOCTOR DIES IN STREET.

Is Stricken by Heart Attack and Falls Off Embankment.

Dr. Richard Rice, 50 years old, a resident of the Allerton House at 45 East Fifty-fifth Street, who had been connected for the past year with the American Mutual and Liability Insurance Company, 247 Park Avenue, died suddenly of heart disease last night while escorting Miss Grace Macdonald, also employed by the insurance company, to a moving picture theatre.

The physician, after dining at the Macdonald home, 1,076 Nelson Avenue, the Bronx, was nearing Anderson and Shakespeare Avenues, the Bronx, when he became dizzy. He sat down on a near-by rock at the top of a forty-foot embankment for several minutes. Then he arose, staggered an instant and plunged into the gulley. When an ambulance arrived from the Lincoln Hospital he was dead.

Dr. Rice had retired from private practice in Hartford only a short time before coming to this city. He had suffered previously heart attacks and had filed a note with the clerk at the Allerton House instructing him to notify S. G. Rice of 167 Washington Street, Hartford, if anything ever happened to him.

3 MONTHS FOR SHOPLIFTER.

Woman With Three Previous Convictions Sent to Workhouse.

With a record of three previous convictions as a shoplifter, Mrs. Mary Jones, 38 years old, of 157 Forsyth Street, yesterday in Special Sessions was sentenced to three months in the workhouse when she pleaded guilty to the theft of an overcoat, valued at $49.75, from Macy's on Nov. 12 last.

Detectives of the Stores Mutual Protective Association told Justices Herrman, Edwards and Murphy that when they caught her walking out of the store with the garment she said that she had taken it for her husband. They added that Mrs. Jones had been placed on probation on a shoplifting conviction in 1917, that five years later she was sentenced to ten days for a similar offense, and that only last July she received a sentence of thirty days for a theft from a store.

GREENWICH, Conn., Nov. 28.—The residence of W. J. Wayte in Bell Haven was gutted by fire this morning, the loss being estimated at over $35,000, besides the destruction of several thousand dollars' worth of valuable furnishings and household effects.

Members of the family were at breakfast when the fire was discovered, at 8 o'clock, appearing first in the roof around the chimney. Mr. Wayte believes it was caused by a fire in an open fireplace on the main floor which was started yesterday.

PRESIDENT WILL SEE SERVICE GAME TODAY

EVEN ON LONG SERIES

Each Team Has Won Twelve Contests, With Two Tied, Since 1890 —Rain or Snow Predicted.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 28.—On a scale of unequaled magnificence and pomp the Army mule and the Navy goat will air their annual differences of opinion here tomorrow afternoon in Baltimore's new half-million-dollar stadium.

In more ways than one the game will set up a new landmark along the road of Army-Navy battles, which stretches back to the year 1890. For one thing, it will be the first service game ever played in this city and one of the few ever staged in recent years outside New York and Philadelphia. Moreover, the series is now tied, at twelve victories apiece and two ties, and each team is anxious to win the edge.

More important yet, the game will be played before the greatest crowd that ever saw the Cadets tackle the Midshipmen. At least 78,000 persons will see the game. And if one seeks quality rather than quantity, among the spectators will be President Calvin Coolidge, the Secretaries of War and the Navy, other Cabinet officers, high ranking Generals and Admirals, diplomats, Senators and Representatives, a handful of Governors and a Mayor or two.

Weather Doubtful Factor.

Tonight the stage directors and scenic experts of Baltimore had arranged everything but the weather. There a hitch developed. The official forecast was vague and not favorable so far as it went, for the local bureau hinted at either light rains or snow. If the weather is fairly warm, it will be rain. If it stays cool or turns colder, snow will be in order. Since the forecaster was inclined to lean toward coldness, it looks like snow and generally unsettled conditions. But it is doubtful if either the rain or the snow will be heavy and in that case cool crisp weather of the ideal football variety is to be expected.

In rain or snow or mud or sleet the Army is likely to win, according to the advance predictions of the experts tonight. The betting was rather fragile and indecisive, but in general the odds were eight-to-five in the Cadets' favor, whatever the state of the weather might be. With a better record for the season, with a stronger backfield and a superior centre trio, the critics could hardly see how the Army could lose.

However, there was a mysterious air of optimism in the Navy ranks today. Also a mysterious pessimism among the Army coaches and some of the players. In many respects the situation was identical with that before the Harvard-Princeton game—Princeton, the underdog, utterly confident; Harvard, the heavy favorite, making gestures of caution and despair.

Will history repeat itself in the short space of a few weeks? Will the Goat suddenly bolt its confines and send the Mule spinning to defeat? These were the questions of the hour in Baltimore tonight, and they were being discussed in thousands of homes by natives who have as much chance to see tomorrow's classic as if they lived in Alaska, Moscow or Budapest. Tickets were a rare commodity that not even the local sidewalk vendors had been able to corral. Baltimore, the host at the party, will be represented by not more than 2,000 of the 78,000.

For a few hours tomorrow, however, the city will bask in the warm glare of the football spotlight. Hither will come thousands on thousands of visitors from other cities, the cadet corps swinging down from the banks of the Hudson and the midshipmen marching in from the banks of the Severn. Here will come the President and his distinguished party, with most of official Washington flocking also to the twenty-seventh meeting of Army and Navy.

President to Motor Over.

The President and Mrs. Coolidge will motor from the capital to Baltimore, arriving about noon under a heavy escort of Secret Service men and police. The Presidential party will go immediately to the Administration building at the Baltimore Stadium, where they will be the guests of the city at a luncheon to which 250 have been invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns of Boston, intimate friends of the President and Mrs. Coolidge, have been invited by the Chief Executive to watch the game from the Presidential box. Others in the party will be Senator O. E. Weller of Maryland and Mrs. Weller, Mayor Jackson of Baltimore and Mrs. Jackson, and J. C. Boyd, President of the Park Board, and Mrs. Boyd.

Mr. Coolidge will keep both cool and neutral during the game. Following out the custom set by the few of his predecessors who have seen a service game, he will sit along one side of the field for the first half and then move over to cheer for the other arm of the service. This being the Navy's home field, in a sense, the President will be on the Navy side during the first half and a West Point rooter during the second.

Secretary of the Navy Wilbur and Secretary of War Weeks will have fixed stations with their respective commands and nothing short of an Executive order will budge them. Neither will there be anything neutral about Admiral Wilson, Superintendent of the Naval Academy, and Brig. Gen. Sladen, Superintendent of West Point. Governor Albert Ritchie of Maryland is included in the list of boxholders.

People who are expert in such matters declared that this was the quietest eve of the game they had ever seen. There were no jostling, crowding, hilarious students to make the welkin ring, for the simple reason that the students, under strict discipline, will not entrain for the contest until tomorrow morning.

There were few outside spectators from Washington, New York and Philadelphia here this evening. The hotels were potentially crowded, but most of the reservations were for patrons who were not due to arrive until late tonight or tomorrow morning. The lobbies and streets were quiet, but in the liberal display of banners and a certain tenseness in the atmosphere you could get a hint of the excitement to come on the morrow.

Ticket Distribution Criticized.

By tonight a certain petulant undertone had begun to creep into Baltimore's comment on the game. The distribution of the 78,000 tickets has been severely criticised, and there was a widespread fear when advertisements were found in New York and Philadelphia papers telling of many tickets for sale by speculators.

The procession of the Cadets and Midshipmen from the railroad station to the Stadium and then around the field to their seats promises to give Baltimore a recompensing thrill. The Annapolis regiment, numbering about 2,000, will leave the Academy at 10:30 A. M. and arrive at the Clifton Station at 11:45. The Cadets will come in two trains, reaching the same station at 12:13 and 12.35.

After the game the two higher Annapolis classes will be at liberty but the entire cadet corps will march back to their special trains and depart for West Point.

The only cadets and middies at large today were the football players who romped through light finishing drills. Quartered in a dormitory at Johns Hopkins University, the Army practiced in the afternoon at the Baltimore Stadium, but the Navy squad stayed at Annapolis.

Hopeful and confident are the brave Midshipmen and they predict a merry little surprise party for Coach John McEwan's doughty eleven. The Navy got much comfort out of Columbia's 14—14 tie with the Generals. In that game the highly touted centre trio of Captain Garbisch, Ellinger and Farwick was consistently outplayed, notably Garbisch. Columbia showed that the Army's defense is pregnable, almost flimsy, and it was also demonstrated that without Harry Wilson, Penn State's former all-American halfback the Army is not exactly devastating on the offense.

If the middies can stop Wilson, something they did not do in his three years at Penn State, they believe they will win. Still, on paper the cadets have an unquestionable edge with Wilson, Gillmore and Wood in the backfield and Garbisch, Farwick and Ellinger in the line. Wood's punting has been far superior to anything uncovered by the Navy, although Coach Bob Folwell may start Chillingworth at right guard to get the benefit of his long kicking.

Middies Strangely Confident.

The Army has the call, yet the admirals are strangely confident. Perhaps they have found a magic elixir to stop Wilson and Gillmore while a revivified offense is shooting forward passes over and line thrusts through the Army defense. The backfield of Hamilton, Flippin, Wellings and Shapley has distinct possibilities which may be realized tomorrow. Stranger things than a Navy victory have happened in this season of upsets.

In Captain Taylor and Caldwell the Navy has stronger ends, and this points to an opening up of the air attack by the Folwellians. More conservative football by the Army is to be expected.

Whatever the football, the game will attract greater national attention than any other played during this season. In scope the spectacle will be more magnificent and mammoth than ever. When you have the President of the United States sitting in the midst of 78,000 spectators, in a gigantic bowl that resounds to the tramping feet of 4,000 uniformed cadets and midshipmen, when you have that and scores of other distinguished onlookers lend tone, you have more than a football game.

For Baltimore it will be one of the great social events of the year. The game will be the centre of a round of luncheons, banquets, dances, teas, receptions, coming-out affairs and theatre parties.

What a contrast to that first game back in 1890, when a few army and navy officers and a handful of interested neutrals traveled up the Hudson to a small field with almost no stands to speak of and few to sit in what there were. From that day at West Point the service series has passed through twenty-six games, but from West Point's handful to Baltimore's 78,000 is a longer jump yet.

CADETS IN ROUSING RALLY.

Are Confident That Army Eleven Will Beat the Navy Today.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 28.—The movement of the corps of cadets to Baltimore to witness the Army-Navy football game will start shortly after 5 o'clock tomorrow morning. Reveille will be sounded at 3:45 A. M., and, following a light breakfast, the cadets will march to the waiting trains for the long trip.

As the hour for the game approaches confidence grows in the Army's ability to score a victory tomorrow. A monster football rally, attended by all the cadets and officers of the post, was held in the area of barracks tonight. A huge bonfire, with music, speeches and refreshments, marked the event.

The cadets playing their last game for the Army tomorrow are Captain Garbisch, Bill Wood, Ellinger, Fraser, Farwick, Griffith and Gillmore, all of whom will be graduated in June. The States of the Union represented on the Army eleven are New York, two; Pennsylvania, three; Maryland, Texas, Illinois, South Dakota, West Virginia and California, each one.

G. Levi to Lead Haskell Eleven.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 28.—George Levi was elected captain of the 1925 Haskell Indians at a Thanksgiving dinner here last night. The new captain is a brother of John Levi, famous fullback, who graduates this year.

NOTRE DAME READY FOR CARNEGIE TECH

35,000 Expected to See Rival Elevens Clash on Forbes Field Today.

ROCKNE'S TEAM IS FAVORED

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 28.—Notre Dame and Carnegie Tech in their meeting at Forbes Field will ring down the curtain on college football in Western Pennsylvania tomorrow afternoon. A capacity crowd of 35,000 is expected.

Rockne's men are expected to meet with much opposition from their lighter opponent. The diversified attack which Tech unleashed last Saturday against the Quantico Marines is taken as an indication that the Carnegie men are fit for battle.

Notre Dame is the favorite, but Rockne in a talk to the players today cautioned them against overconfidence. He said he realized that Coach Steffen has a well-drilled and fighting team. Both teams were guests at the Pitt-State game Thanksgiving.

The Notre Dame team was taken to a near-by gridiron this afternoon for a final workout and to perfect the plays to be used tomorrow. Rockne said his men were in tip-top shape for the battle. Coach Steffen said that a number of his stars, on the hospital list for a week or more, had reported for practice and would be able to play.

The Notre Dame line-up is still uncertain, but it is considered likely the same line-up which appeared against Northwestern last week will get into action for the South Bend school. Carnegie will put its best aggregation on the field at beginning of play.

The probable line-up:

HOLY CROSS IS READY FOR BOSTON COLLEGE

Crowd of 50,000 Expected to See Rival Elevens Clash at Braves Field Today.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Nov. 28.—It is expected that the seating capacity of Braves Field, which accommodates about 50,000, will be taxed to its capacity tomorrow when the Holy Cross and Boston College elevens clash in their annual battle here. For the last two seasons Boston College has been returned the winner, but only after hard-fought battles. Two years ago the Bostonians won 17 to 13, and last year took the measure of the Purple eleven by a score of 16 to 7.

Unusual conditions exist this year as both teams will be minus several star players, although Darling, whose terrific line plunging spelled defeat for Holy Cross last year, will again be in the Boston College backfield. Glennon, one of the outstanding Holy Cross stars, will be unable to play against the Purple's ancient rival.

W. VA. TO PLAY PENN STATE.

Will Meet in Stadium Dedication at Morgantown Nov. 14, 1925.

Special to The New York Times.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 28.—The football team of Pennsylvania State College will meet West Virginia here Nov. 14, 1925, in a game which will mark the formal dedication of the new Mountaineer stadium now being rushed to completion. The game was agreed upon definitely today by Graduate Manager Neil Fleming of State College and H. A. Stansbury, West Virginia Director of Athletics.

Penn State and West Virginia first played football nearly twenty years ago, and the last game played was at the Yankee Stadium, New York, in 1923, which ended in a 13-13 deadlock.

FORDHAM TO CLASH WITH GEORGETOWN

LAST-MINUTE SHIFT MADE

Graham Will Play Halfback for Local Team, While Slane Will Call the Signals.

Fordham and Georgetown will clash today at the Polo Grounds in the twelfth annual meeting of the two Jesuit institutions. The game promises to be the most thrilling of the long series. Fordham, however, will be handicapped in having its head coach away from the game. Frank Gargan today is in a hospital recovering from an operation for appendicitis, but the Maroon team is determined to complete the work which he has started. Captain Brennen visited the Fordham coach in the hospital last night and told him that the men were ready to do their best.

Not in years has the Fordham-Georgetown game, which was played for the first time in 1907, excited the interest which is evidenced in the contest today. A few weeks ago Georgetown surprised the football world by holding Penn to a 3-0 score. Lou Little, who was a star tackle at Penn, has developed an old Penn defense at Georgetown, while Mike Palm has built up a typical Bezdek attack. Although the Blue and Gray was not playing its usual game of football in the early part of the season, it has now hit its stride.

Fordham, on the other hand, has built up a defense which was strong enough to hold the fast Holy Cross combination scoreless until the final four minutes of the game at Worcester early in the year, and an attack which has run up many points on its opponents. The Maroon has constructed, under the guidance of Coach Gargan, a strong forward passing attack. A fast and aggressive running attack, the pivot of which is Graham, also has been built up at the Bronx college.

Graham to Lead Attack.

A last-minute change was made by Gargan in the line-up before the Maroon coach was removed to the hospital. Graham was moved to a halfback position and Slane was delegated to call signals.

In its past few games the Fordham line has shown increasing strength, while the backfield has been coming along in the final preparation for the big objective of the season. Graham will do the kicking and will also be the safety man. His running back of kicks has been the feature of the Fordham season. The little Maroon pack will also feature in the running attack and forward passing of the Fordham game. Manning and Zakszewski will take on the responsibility of bucking Georgetown's line.

The eleven which will wear the Blue and Gray today at the Polo Grounds is a different eleven from Georgetown teams in the past. For years the Glenn Warner system was taught at the Washington college by Al Exenine and last year by Jack Maloney, but Little is now teaching the Senator team the Pennsylvania game. The styles of line play are different both on the attack and defense.

Georgetown Line Heavier.

Georgetown's backfield will be composed of Bramley, Hagarty, Metzger and Degassis. Planaky, a versatile athlete, will not start the game. Brooks will do the punting. The visiting line will have the edge over the Fordham forward wall in weight. The Blue and Gray average is pulled up considerably by Connaughton, a 280-pounder. He will make quite a contrast to Minihan, who weighs only 154 pounds.

Both teams concluded the season's practice yesterday at the Polo Grounds in light workouts. Ward, who now has charge of the Maroon squad, put his men through a punting drill and a forward passing workout. Little gave his huskies a similar drill. Both teams will go on the field today with their full strength.

Officials of the Giants have made arrangements to handle a big crowd. The kick-off will be at 2 o'clock.

The probable line-up:

FORDHAM.		GEORGETOWN.
Stanford	L. E.	McGrath
Bisell	L. T.	Connaughton
Bruce	L. G.	Murtagh
Brennen	C.	Minihan
Chester	R. G.	Sheridan
Bill	R. T.	Busch
Leary	R. E.	Brooks
Slane	Q. B.	Bramley
Manning	L. H. B.	Hagarty
Graham	R. H. B.	Metzger

SERIES STARTED IN 1907.

Fordham First Victor, but Georgetown Has Edge With 4 in Row.

The Fordham-Georgetown series, to be continued at the Polo Grounds with their twelfth meeting, was started in 1907 with a Fordham triumph, 27—0. In recent years Georgetown has had the edge, for the Maroon has not won since 1918. The Fordham totes are high to break the Blue and Gray's string of four straight victories. Georgetown has won six, Fordham has taken three and two have resulted in scoreless ties. Last year the Senator eleven won 6—0.

1908—Fordham 22, Georgetown 0.
1909—Fordham 0, Georgetown 0.
1914—Fordham 0, Georgetown 0.
1918—Georgetown 13, Fordham 0.
1917—Georgetown 12, Fordham 0.
1918—Fordham 14, Georgetown 0.
1920—Georgetown 40, Fordham 16.
1921—Georgetown 28, Fordham 7.
1922—Georgetown 28, Fordham 13.
1923—Georgetown 6, Fordham 0.

De Witt Clinton and Commerce Clash Today in Annual Game.

De Witt Clinton High School's football team this afternoon will play the High School of Commerce, when the schoolboy elevens line up for their twenty-first annual game at Baker Field. Since the start of the series, back in 1904, when the teams battled to a 6-to-6 tie, the Clintonians have captured ten games, Commerce has won eight and two have resulted in drawn battles. Clinton will take the field this afternoon favored to win, but the Commerce squad will have a legion of supporters confident the West Sixty-fifth Street school will upset expectations.

Army Lost Only One Game; Navy Was Beaten Five Times

The Army eleven has lost only one game this year, that to Notre Dame, while the Navy has been defeated five times in seven games. The West Pointers were held to a tie by Yale and Columbia and scored victories over St. Louis University, Detroit University, Boston University and Florida. William and Mary and Vermont were the only teams to lose to the Navy. The Midshipmen were beaten by Marquette, Princeton, West Virginia, Wesleyan and Penn State in consecutive games. Bucknell also defeated the Navy.

The records of the two teams for the season follow:

FOOTBALL OUTLOOK PLEASES COLUMBIA

STADIUM CAUSES WORRY

With the close of its most successful football season since 1905 Columbia will lose no time in preparing for its 1925 campaign. There is little concern about the personnel of next year's varsity eleven, as practically every player will return for another season. In addition, the Lion will have fine freshman material from which to draw in filling the few vacancies that will be caused by graduation. Captain Walter F. Koppisch, who has been the foundation of Columbia elevens for the last four years, will be among the missing. Some critics maintain, however, that Norris, the star of this year's freshman aggregation, has the makings of a Koppisch in him and will satisfactorily fill the place of the departed captain.

Koppisch's athletic record has been a brilliant one and it is not likely that Morningside Heights will forget his performances on the gridiron and track. During his four years of football he played in every game and was on the injured list only once. That was in the final game with Dartmouth last year, when his shoulder was fractured and he had to leave the field at the end of the first half. Koppisch has averaged almost a touchdown a game in the four seasons, having played in thirty-five contests and scored thirty-two touchdowns.

The other regulars who probably will not return are Price and Smulin. Eagles and Kuehne will substitute back-field player and Columbia's best goal kicker. But the other positions will remain more or less intact. Manning, Wagner and Hyde will be ready for another year of end duty, as will Schmidtetich, centre; Wiberg and Raphael, guards; Pease, quarterback; Sesit, Empringham and Kirchmeyer, back-field men.

Athletic authorities of the university have been reticent about giving any information as to the coaching staff, but it is understood from fairly reliable sources tht Dr. Paul Withington will return as head coach with the same group of assistants that made up the staff this year. It is certain that Dr. Brides, the line coach, who took over his duties the week before the Army game, again will be on hand.

The main worry of the athletic association is the building of the stadium at Baker Field. During the present season Columbia has attracted larger crowds than ever before, and with a team next year of the calibre of the present one a much larger stadium than the temporary stands that have been in use at Baker Field will be needed.

The Columbia undergraduate and alumni bodies were not displeased at the showing of their team in the Syracuse game. The elevens were almost evenly matched and the football world was given conclusive proof that the Blue and White eleven was one of the East's best teams this year. From all standpoints Columbia's 1924 eleven eclipsed all other Lion elevens of the last ten years in its play. If nothing else, it achieved the goal that it has been striving for over a period of ten years, a position of recognition on the football map. The election of a captain to lead the 1925 varsity will take place the early part of next week.

CRAIG MAY NOT PLAY AGAIN.

Injured Penn Star Not Expected to Face California.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28.—The college football playing days of Clark W. Craig, Penn's veteran left end, who suffered brain concussion in the Cornell game yesterday, are probably at an end. Although the Western lad was resting easily today in the University Hospital, attending physicians said that he is not likely to play in the New Year's Day game against the University of California at Berkeley, Cal.

George Thayer, who made the first touchdown against Cornell, probably will take his place.

PHILADELPHIA POLICE LOSE.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28.—The Philadelphia police today played the Penn junior varsity eleven and were soundly beaten, 60 to 7. In all the blue coats were penalized 90 yards for holding and unnecessary roughness. Time and again the referee removed half the police team from the back of a Penn ball-carrier and exacted a penalty.

Adoption of Modified Form by Minor League Ends Eight-Year Fight Against Majors.

SCHEDULE TO BE CURTAILED

Club Owners Vote to Play 154 Instead of 168 Games Next Year —Will Open April 15.

The modified form of the draft which was accepted by the Pacific Coast League and the American Association last year was adopted by the International League yesterday at the annual meeting of its club owners held at the Hotel Commodore. The action in accepting the draft was unanimous after it had been proposed by Lawrence Solomon, President of the Toronto club, who, with Jack Dunn, President of the Baltimore club, strongly opposed any form of the draft in past years. It also ended an eight-year fight by the International League against the two major leagues on the draft question.

A "most valuable player award," similar to that now made annually by the National and American Leagues, was discussed by the representatives of the various clubs, but it was decided to defer action on the proposal until the league meeting next Tuesday in connection with the meeting of the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs at Hartford, Conn.

The club owners voted to play a schedule of 154 games next year, instead of one of 168 games as in past seasons. The 1925 playing schedule will be adopted at a league meeting to be held in Toronto on Feb. 10. John Conway Toole, President of the International League, will draft the playing schedule for next season. The clubs will play their first games on April 15 and close their campaigns on Sept. 20.

With the modified form of the draft in effect during the next playing season, the International League magnates believe that the race for the pennant will be keener and more interesting than for a number of years past. For the past six years the Baltimore club has won the championship and in most of these seasons it has met with little dangerous opposition and has captured the pennant usually by a wide margin. It is now hoped that several of the other clubs will put up a strong fight against the Baltimore club in the latter's efforts to win the pennant for the seventh time in succession next year.

May Take Optional Players.

Under the modified form of the draft adopted by the league yesterday, any club in the league that so desires may take optional players from the major leagues and players by sales agreement from the big leagues under a contract containing a provision that players so acquired by the International League clubs shall be subject to selection by the major league teams.

This means that players taken by option or purchase by an International League club can be recalled or repurchased by the major league club sending them to the International League before Sept. 15 of the playing season. After that date, the combined major leagues can draft only one player from each International League club through a drawing system.

Under the existing agreement, each major league club can send eight players to an American Association club or a Pacific Coast League team. This means that one of these clubs can have an offering of 128 players if the maximum number were offered by the major league teams. Beginning with next season, therefore, the International League will be able to strengthen many of its teams by obtaining talent from the two major leagues. Heretofore the major leagues would not send players to the International League because they were not granted the right to recall these players whenever they saw fit to do so.

If by Sept. 15, under the modified draft system, the major league club lending the player or players does not decide to recall them, all of the other major league clubs can draft only one player from each International League team. The players demanded in the draft are to be drawn for in a hat by the major league clubs, with a fixed draft price of $5,000. Only the players taken by option can be recalled or drafted by the major leagues. All other International League players will be immune from such recall.

Further Deals Expected.

From trades and deals and farming out of players in past years, it is believed that there will be further dealings between the following sets of major league and International League clubs: Detroit and Toronto, St. Louis Cardinals and Syracuse, the Giants and Rochester, the Yankees and Buffalo, Washington and Reading and the Athletics and the Baltimore, Newark and Jersey City clubs.

The text of the resolution on the draft adopted by the International League is as follows:

"Be it moved and seconded that any club that so desires may take optional players from the major leagues and players by sales agreement from the major leagues under an agreement which has a provision that any player so acquired may be subject to selection."

The method of assessment for meeting league expenses was changed yesterday from the per capita system to an assessment system to be regulated by the President of the league.

In addition to President Toole, William J. Manley, Secretary to the President, Dunn and Solomon, the officials present at yesterday's meeting were: Daniel Howley, Toronto; S. L. Robertson, Buffalo; Michael J. Kelly, Syracuse; George S. Stallings and Walter E. Hapgood, Rochester; Charles Knapp, Baltimore; Spencer Abbott, Reading; William Ashton and Bernard Moan, Newark, and John Morris, P. J. Donnelly, Frank Donnelly and William Donnelly, Jersey City.

WHITE SOX SCOUT WINS $7,500 CLAIM

National Board Rules Muskegon Club Must Pay Fisher 3-Year Salary as Manager.

The National Board of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues yesterday opened its session at the Hotel Biltmore, adjusting claims and disputes that have arisen during the year in the minor league clubs. This board, of which John H. Farrell of Auburn, N. Y., is Chairman, functions in the same manner for minor leagues as Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis does for the major leagues.

Among the cases adjudicated by the board last night was the allowing of a $7,500 claim to C. G. Fisher, a scout of the Chicago White Sox. The claim is levied against the Muskegon Club of the Michigan League, which engaged Fisher as manager on March 15, 1923, under a three-year contract and then released him. The board ruled that the Muskegon Club should pay Fisher his salary for the three years, $7,500, less salary and other advances paid him.

Bert Griffith of the Brooklyn Robins was awarded his claim of thirteen days' back pay from the Nashville Club. A claim by Albert Gould of the Salt Lake City Club that he is a free agent was disallowed. Many other minor disputes will be handled by the board at the continuation of its session today.

Milan to Manage Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 28.—Clyde Milan, former manager of the Washington Americans and last season pilot of the New Haven Club of the Eastern League, will be the manager of the 1925 Memphis Southern Association Club. He succeeded John Dobbs, who has signed a contract to act as manager of the Birmingham Club.

Diseases traced to constipation are many —get permanent relief with Kellogg's Bran

Why does constipation breed other diseases? Because it floods your system with dangerous poisons. And the longer you suffer, the more poisons accumulate. That is why constipation should be relieved at once.

Doctors recommend Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled. They know it brings results because it is ALL bran. And only ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective in relieving constipation.

ALL bran — Kellogg's — sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine. It acts as nature acts. It makes the intestine function naturally and regularly. If eaten regularly, it will bring permanent relief in the most chronic cases of constipation—is guaranteed to do so or your grocer returns your money.

Eat at least two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. You will like the wonderful Kellogg flavor—so crisp and nut-like—so different from ordinary bran, which are most unpalatable.

Eat Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. And by all means try it in the recipes given on every package.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, made in Battle Creek. Is served in individual packages by the leading hotels and restaurants. Sold by all grocers.

SIX TIJUANA BARNS DESTROYED BY FIRE

PLAN TO REBUILD AT ONCE

Coffroth, Jockey Club Head, Says There Will Be No Interruption— Last Two Races Called Off.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 28.—With six barns containing the stables of more than fifty owners burned to the ground, a fire which broke out in the Eastman stable at the Tijuana track late this afternoon threatened to destroy the entire racing accommodations.

The fire was put under control at 5 o'clock and reconstruction work begun immediately. The fire started shortly before the finish of the fifth race and more than 100 horses were immediately turned into the great oval.

James Coffroth, President of the Tijuana Jockey Club, announced tonight that racing will not be interrupted by the fire and that Saturday and Sunday programs will be run. No horses were lost.

Because of this disastrous fire it was found necessary to call off the last two races on the card.

J. M. Cooper's four-year-old gelding Pud, by Wrack—Medora II., won the six-furlong dash for three-year-olds and upward, which had the place of honor on the abbreviated Tijuana card. The winner was in light under 104 pounds and ran the distance in 1:13. Edwards had the mount on the gelding, which paid $12.20 for a $2 ticket in the mutuels.

Pud went to the front with the rise of the barrier and showed the way throughout, holding on to win handily by a length from J. Marchbank's three-year-old Barn Dollar, the 6-to-5 favorite. The latter was weakly handled and lost much ground on the turn, gaining the place by a head from Wilmer the Wizard.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE—For two and three-year-olds; maidens; claiming; purse $600; five furlongs. Timely Thoughts, 96 pounds (Berg), $3.90, $3.40, $2.80, first; Enette, 91 (McIvory), $5, $4, second; Pirouette, 96 (Hoagland), $5.60, third. Time—1:01. RACING WILL START TODAY AT HAVANA

Eleventh Annual Winter Meeting Will Get Under Way at Oriental Park.

HAVANA, Nov. 28.—The eleventh annual race meeting of the Cuba-American Jockey Club will be ushered in here tomorrow when the gates of the Oriental Park course are thrown open. Tomorrow's attractive program of six races will mark the beginning of more than 100 days racing here.

Many improvements have been made in the Oriental Park plant since last season's meeting. Landscape gardners have gone over the entire course and the track proper has been resurfaced. Over 600 horses are stabled here and it is expected that well-matched fields will be the order throughout the Winter meeting.

H. D. Brown, the managing director of the Cuba-American Jockey Club, and also the builder and promoter of the course, has arrived for the opening and predicts that the racing here will become even more popular with the visiting American tourists this year than in seasons past.

The Inaugural Handicap, which was to have been the feature of the first day, was called off because of a muddy track.

The size of the purses has been made larger this year. For ordinary races purses of $600 to $800 are to be offered, of $1,000 to $5,000.

LEOPARDESS TAKES THE HILDA VAUGHN

Mrs. Payne Whitney's Filly Beats Battle Shot in Dash at Jefferson Park.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 28.—Leopardess, carrying the colors of the Greentree Stable of Mrs. Payne Whitney, led four others over the six-furlong course of the Hilda Vaughn Purse, a dash for three-year-olds and upward, which had the place of honor on the card for the second day of the meeting at Jefferson Park. The three-year-old daughter of Dominant and Fresnay, in well with 102 pounds, gained an easy victory, being five lengths in front of the Derby Stable's Battle Shot at the winning post. She was the odds-on favorite at 2 to 7.

Harvey had the mount on the filly, got her away well from the post and had her under wraps throughout. She had all the speed of the lot, winning well in hand. Battle Shot, the 30-to-1 outsider of the field, was nearest the leader throughout the trip and ran an excellent race to take the place by six lengths from J. A. Coburn's Rigel. The latter saved ground turning into the homestretch and outstayed Sympathy to take third money by the margin of half a length.

Two favorites rewarded their followers during the afternoon's racing. Riding honors were well apportioned, three boys getting two winners each. In addition to winning the feature, Harvey was first with Little Alfred in the first race. Mergler won with Chemiserie in the second and with Wapiti in the last. McDermott had two in succession—Foxmore in the fifth and Fair Orient in the sixth. S. Gooch's three-year-old colt Broomfield, by Olambala — Genesta, dropped dead just before the parade started for the post in the last race.

LIEUTENANT II. WINS FEATURE AT BOWIE

BIG DAY FOR OUTSIDERS

Only One Favorite Gets Home In Front—Jockeys Weiner and Hudgins Score Doubles.

Special to The New York Times.

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 28.—Lieutenant II., R. E. Potts's four-year-old gelding by Junior—Casquette, this afternoon won the Consolation Handicap, for all ages, the featured number on the card at Prince George Park for the next to the last day of the meeting. Lieutenant II. carried 107 pounds and ran the mile and seventy yards in 1:46 flat, only four-fifths of a second slower than the track record for the distance. Weiner had the mount and the winner paid $18.90 for a $2 ticket.

Despite the fact that the meeting will close tomorrow, large fields ran in all the races, averaging better than ten to each event on the card. Weiner and Hudgins divided the riding honors, each bringing in two winners. In addition to winning the feature Weiner had the mount on Cardiff, winner of the first race. Hudgins rode Eagerness and Belcross to win the fifth and sixth respectively. He was also second on Jacques in the last and third with Flagship in the handicap. Only one favorite rewarded his fellowers.

Seven ran in the Consolation Handicap, with E. K. Bryson's Setting Sun the favorite at 12 to 5. Lieutenant II. ran in his best form. Weiner got him away with a rush from the barrier and he drew clear immediately. The gelding was rated in front all the way and always held the other safely, beating E. B. McLean's four-year-old colt Noel by more than a length.

Flagship Is Third.

Noel was the best of the others. Williams had him under slight restraint during the early racing and saved ground entering the stretch, but was unable to overtake the leader. Flagship, Mrs. W. M. Jefford's two-year-old Man o' War colt, ran good race under 97 pounds to finish third, a length in front of Setting Sun. The latter broke slowly and was unable to improve his position. The fractional time of the race was 0:24 2-5, 0:49, 1:13 2-5, 1:46.

J. W. Young's Cardiff scored in the opening race, a dash of six furlongs for two-year-olds. The Rancocas cast-off has been knocking at the door on several occasions and this time gained his brackets with ease, beating a dozen other juveniles. The bay son of Vulcain and Gatin Belle was in command all the way and was never seriously threatened, winning from the Triple Springs Farm's Harry Baker by the margin of three lengths. Transformer took third money. In the absence of Bruns, the winner was the favorite, paying $6.60.

The second of choice came home in front in the dash of six and a half furlongs for all ages, second on the card, the winner being the aged gelding Camouflage, owned by G. C. Winfrey. The winner was coupled with Lady Boss and the entry paid $10.30. There was a poor start for the thirteen that went to the post. Camouflage came around the leader with a rush entering the stretch and went to the front, but Howard had him under pressure at the finish to beat Apex by a couple of lengths.

Apex, with the leaders all the way, held on gamely and outlasted Lady Audrey in the stretch drive to nose the filly out of the place. The latter was the favorite. She was in close quarters during the early part of the race, saved ground on the turn into the stretch, but weakened toward the end. Camouflage carried 107 pounds and ran the distance in 1:21.

A dozen two-year-olds took the word in the claiming event at six furlongs, the winner being the Joaquin Stable's Clavichord, chestnut daughter of Manager Waite and Claxonette. She hadn't earned brackets since the Aqueduct meeting and paid the good price of $29.40 to her backers. Clavichord was held closest to the leader and drew away in the stretch to beat Young April by a length and a half. The colt had clear sailing after the field had been sent away to a poor start and finished stoutly to take the place by a length from the favorite, Peter Paul. The latter made up a lot of ground in the first quarter mile and gain the lead, but tired from his efforts in the stretch, just lasting to nose out Night Shade for third money.

Eagerness Pays Big Price.

W. A. Rosen's three-year-old filly Eagerness took the measure of seven others in the claiming rate over the course of a mile and seventy yards, beating the favorite, B. B. Williams's Marsdale, by half a length in a driving finish. The winner paid $20.80. Eagerness was in under the feather of 95 pounds and ran the distance in 1:48 with Hudgins in the saddle.

The field was sent away to a good start and Eagerness was rated off the early pace, being able to save ground all the way. She held on well when challenged by Marsdale. The latter suffered interference on the stretch turn, recovering rapidly and slipping through on the inside three-sixteenths from home. He made a game effort and was up to take the place by a head from Procyon.

MAY 16 LIKELY DERBY DAY.

Probable Date of Annual Kentucky Classic Is Announced.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 28.—The fifty-first renewal of the Kentucky Derby probably will take place Saturday, May 16, it was announced today after the Kentucky State Racing Commission approved the dates requested for the Spring meet at Churchill Downs.

The Kentucky Jockey Club, which operates the Downs, requested nineteen days, beginning Saturday, May 9, and ending May 30. The Derby has been run on the second Saturday of the meet for several years.

Dates for the Lexington, Latonia and Ashland tracks also were approved.

C. C. N. Y. TO PLAY TONIGHT.

Basketball Team Will Open Season Against St. Francis Five.

The City College varsity basketball team opens up its 1924-25 season tonight in the home gymnasium. St. Francis College will be the opponent. C. C. N. Y. does not have the individual stars this year that it did last, but two months of constant drilling have built up a system of team work that the coaches feel will prove effective.

Captain Match and Palitz will wear the Lavender for the third consecutive year and they will again hold down the guard assignments. Hodesblatt and Goldberg, forwards last season, again will be in the same positions. The centre post will be occupied by a newcomer in Lavender basketball circles, Josephson, pitching ace of last year's nine.

St. Francis will bring to the 138th Street court three men of last year's team—Captain Kenny, guard; Raye, centre, and Crane, forward.

The probable lineup:

C. C. N. Y.		ST. FRANCIS.
Goldberg	L.F.	McDonald
Hodesblatt	R.F.	Crane
Josephson	C.	Raye
Palitz	L.G.	McCrea
Match	R.G.	Kenny

BILLIARD BODIES END CONTROVERSY

COMMITTEE IS APPOINTED

Each Names Two Men and Turk Is Selected as the Fifth to Act on All Differences.

The National Association of Amateur Billiard Players and the New York Billiard Roomowners' Association, after a break of more than ten years, have come to terms and in the future the two organizations will work harmoniously, it was announced yesterday by John T. Doyle, President of the roomkeepers' association. Conditions agreeable to both sides have been approved and amateur tournaments will be held in the leading billiard academies in New York. The break in working relations between the two organizations came up two years ago, when the roomkeepers charged that the N. A. A. B. P. was assuming too much power in the allotment of tournaments and that the roomkeepers had no representation.

A committee of five has been named which will pass on all tournaments and also will act in the case of all disputes in the future between the two organizations. At first two men were chosen from each organization and later it was decided to name a fifth, to act in case of de

HYDE HARD PRESSED TO WIN AT SQUASH

Champion Drops a Game to Guernsey Before Scoring in Princeton Club Play.

FINK ALSO IN DIFFICULTY

Beats Whitlock After Stirring Battle, 15-8, 7-15, 15-10—Cordier and Coward Easily Advance.

Otis L. Guernsey, former Yale football star, put Fillmore Van S. Hyde, the national squash tennis champion, to his first severe test yesterday in the invitation tournament of the Princeton Club. Playing by far the best squash he has shown this season and probably as fine a game as he has ever put up, the Yale Club representative gave his opponent from the Harvard Club a terrific battle and took a game from him before a gathering that crowded the championship gallery almost to capacity. The score was 15—11, 17—18, 15—8.

Hyde was not the only favorite who had a struggle on his hands. R. Earl Fink of the Crescent A. C., who preceded Hyde as the holder of the title, dropped a game to Frederick S. Whitlock of the Harvard Club, who played remarkably well and gave the Crescent man trouble all the way before losing at 15—8, 7—15, 15—10. Dr. Harold R. Mixsell, No. 1 man on the Princeton Class A team and a member of the ranking ten for a number of years, was forced to call upon all his speed and court craft before he was able to dispose of Clyde Martin, another Yale star. Martin, following the ball like a hawk and attacking with the utmost impetuousness, took the first game and pressed Dr. Mixsell closely throughout the second. The pace told on him in the third chapter and the Princeton star's greater reserve and crushing power brought him through by a comfortable margin. The score was 6—15, 15—11, 15—9.

Cordier at His Best.

Auguste J. Cordier and Thomas R. Coward of the Yale Club, both former champions, won with ease. Cordier was at his best against B. H. O'Connor of the Montclair A. C. and won at 15—4, 15—6. In view of the fact that O'Connor holds a victory to his credit this season over Charles M. Bull Jr. of the Crescents and defeated Gavin Brackenridge in his preceding match in the tournament, the decisiveness of Cordier's victory speaks for the character of squash he played. Coward defeated William Adams Jr., a club-mate, at 15—4, 15—6. William Rand Jr. of the Harvard Club won easily from G. A. Walker Jr. of the Princeton Club at 15—1, 15—1, while R. B. Haines of the Columbia Club was hard pressed to defeat H. S. Thorne of the Yale Club at 17—15, 15—8.

This afternoon at 3 o'clock Hyde will plan Haines. At 3:30 Coward will meet Bull, who eliminated Frank M. Loughman of the New York A. C. at 15—8, 18—15. At the same hour Mixsell will meet Rand. Fink and Cordier will go on the courts at 4:30.

Not even against Thomas Coward, former national titleholder, in the final round of the championship last year, was Hyde compelled to labor so hard to win as he was in defeating Guernsey. The Yale star stroked with crushing power, leaped about the court with the agility of a featherweight to make the most beautiful gets and put his opponent's strategy and tactical skill to nought. It was only by meeting speed with more speed that Hyde was able to overcome his attack. The champion can hit a ball with terrific impact and it was only when he sent the ball around the court or straight to the front wall with cannonball speed that he scored points in the brilliant rallies.

Hyde's Service an Asset.

Hyde's service also was an asset in his victory. He kept the ball close to the side wall and while the bound was not high Guernsey found it difficult to handle accurately, and he repeatedly drove it into the telltale. At times the pace of the play was nothing short of dizzy. At the end of the first game Hyde unleashed his greatest speed and Guernsey was helpless before his whirlwind attack, striving in vain to get to the ball as it streaked around the walls or was catapulted straight up and down the court from Hyde's racquet. Hyde, going into his last hand with the score 11 to 10 against him, won 5 points in quick succession and then continued to get 5 more in his first hand in the second game, making a run of 10.

The summaries:

Third Round—F. Van S. Hyde, Harvard Club, defeated Otis L. Guernsey, Yale Club, 15—11, 17—18, 15—8; R. B. Haines, Columbia Club, defeated H. S. Thorne, Yale Club, 17—16, 15—8; R. Earl Fink, Crescent A. C., defeated F. S. Whitlock, Harvard Club, 15—8, 7—15, 15—10; Auguste J. Cordier, Yale Club, defeated B. H. O'Connor, Montclair A. C., 15—4, 15—6; Thomas R. Coward, Yale Club, defeated William Adams Jr., Yale Club, 15—4, 15—6; Charles M. Bull Jr., Crescent A. C., defeated Frank M. Loughman, New York A. C., 15—8, 18—15; Dr. Harold R. Mixsell, Princeton Club, defeated Clyde Martin, Yale Club, 6—15, 15—1, 15—9; William Rand Jr., Harvard Club, defeated G. A. Walker Jr., Princeton Club, 15—1, 15—1.

RIDING CLUB TRIO VICTOR.

Beats 101st Cavalry Team at Indoor Polo, 16 Goals to 4.

The Riding Club polo team defeated the 101st Cavalry of Brooklyn in the weekly invitation cup matches yesterday at the Riding Club by the score of 16 to 4. The game was played on the flat. The Riding Club showed its superiority at the outset, scoring five goals in the first chukker. The 101st Cavalry got better results in the second chukker when Lieutenant Mortenson went in at No. 1 in place of Rudkin, who started the game, and held the Riding Club on even terms, both teams tallying three times.

In the third period the home combination again proved too strong for its opponents, scoring five times in quick succession. One of its goals was kicked in by a pony, as also was one of the five in the first chukker. In the final chukker the Riding Club added three more points, while the 101st Cavalry scored once. Burgoyne Hamilton, No. 2, scored six goals for the Riding Club, while Lieutenant Mortenson was responsible for two of the visitors' points.

The line-up:

1—F. V. Burton.	1—Lieut. Mortenson.
2—Burgoyne Hamilton.	2—Colonel Howlett.

Referee—R. A. Granniss. Scorekeeper and Timekeeper—C. A. Hamilton. Time of periods—10 minutes.

3 POLO GAMES TONIGHT.

Yale to Meet Squadron A Class A Trio in Feature Match.

Squadron A will open its indoor polo season tonight at the armory, Ninety-fourth Street and Madison Avenue, with three games, the principal one of which will bring together the Yale team that won the intercollegiate title and the Squadron A Class A trio. In the other two contests the Riding Club Class B team will oppose the Soldiers Class B team, and the N. Y. C. A. Class C riders will meet three players from the squadron's Class C ranks.

Those in charge of activities expect this to be a banner season as more than sixty candidates have come out for places on the various teams. This is the largest number ever to report for polo at Squadron A. Several new first string ponies have been purchased.

U. S. Rifle Team Wins Match For Peruvian Cup; Cuba 2d

LIMA, Peru, Nov. 28.—The United States rifle team, by a scant margin of three points out of a possible 1,350, yesterday won the Peruvian Cup match. Cuba was second, Peru third and Argentina fourth. The winner was in doubt until the last five shots. The Peru and Argentine teams offered little competition, scoring 36 and 53 points, respectively, under the winning score.

Lieutenant R. E. Vermetta, United States Infantry, won the special individual Argentine Trophy by one point. This event was over four, five and six hundred-meter ranges. Diaz of Cuba was second in this event. The Argentine Cup match tomorrow, which is the feature event, will conclude the Pan-American tournament. The United States team will sail for New York Dec. 3, according to present plans.

BRITISH GOLF PROS ARE HERE FOR TOUR

Duncan and Mitchell Will Play Matches in the South and on Pacific Coast.

Returning for their third tour of America, George Duncan and Abe Mitchell, two of Great Britain's leading golf professionals, arrived here yesterday morning on the Mauretania. They will remain in New York only until tomorrow, when they will begin the first stage of their 7,000-mile jaunt to Florida, from there to the Pacific Coast, back through the South and up North again for the return to their clubs in England at the opening of the 1925 season abroad.

The two stars were met at the pier by John G. Anderson, holder of the French amateur golf crown, Gene Sarazen and Johnny Farrell.

Leaving here on Sunday they will go to Asheville, N. C., where they will play their first match on this side. From there they will go to Tampa, where they will face Johnny Farrell, Quaker Ridge professional, and Bobby Cruickshank on Sunday, Dec. 7. They will next play in the Miami open tournament, where they will be called upon to pit their skill against practically all of the leading American professionals. Their next engagement will be at St. Augustine, where, on Sunday, Dec. 14, they will play Hagen and Sarazen a thirty-six hole match.

Following these matches, they will travel westward toward the Pacific Coast, where they will be busy during the entire month of January. En route they will play matches in Dallas and El Paso.

Duncan and Mitchell's first American tour was in 1921, when they had one of the most successful tours in the history of the game, winning practically all of their matches and finishing up with an unparalleled record. They returned the following year and again completed their tour with a good record. Duncan was the British open champion in 1920 and Mitchell, while he has failed to win the open crown, has been regarded as one of the world's greatest golfers, his long-driving record being especially notable.

TERRIS MATCHED FOR BOUT.

To Meet Whitey Fitzgerald in Philadelphia Ring Dec. 15.

Sid Terris, fast east side lightweight, does not intend to remain idle despite the triumph he scored a few nights ago over Luis Vicentini. On the contrary, Terris intends to keep active in the ring, engaging in a series of matches calculated to earn him the desired chance at the lightweight championship. This was the announcement made yesterday by Dan Caplin, manager of Terris, when he closed arrangements for the east sider's next ring engagement. This match will bring Terris into the ring with Whitey Fitzgerald of Philadelphia in a ten-round bout at the Ice Palace, Philadelphia, on Dec. 15. Caplin has under consideration several other offers for bouts for Terris.

McKETRICK GETS POST.

Will Act as Matchmaker for Henderson's New Sports Stadium.

Dan McKetrick, former manager of boxers and Eastern representative of Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, has been engaged by Promoter Charles L. Henderson to serve as boxing matchmaker for the huge sports stadium Henderson plans erecting in Long Island City before the arrival of the next outdoor season. McKetrick's selection was announced yesterday by Henderson, who reiterated that he is proceeding with building plans for the proposed arena upon which work will commence next week.

3 AMATEUR BOXERS PICKED.

Team of Four Will Leave for Boston Tomorrow for Tourney.

A team of four amateur boxers of the local district will leave this city tomorrow night for Boston, where the squad will compete for Gotham against boxers of the Hub in a tournament to be held Monday night. Three members of the team have been selected. They are: Ed Christiansen, Norwegian Turn Society, and Al Irving, Ascension Parish House, 135-pound entrants, and Ed Herbert, Clark House A. A., 147-pound boxer. A 118-pound representative is to be named today.

WEINERT TO MEET FUENTE.

Charlie Weinert, Newark veteran, who recently defeated Luis Angel Firpo, yesterday was selected as the boxer to meet Tony Fuente, Mexican heavyweight, in his metropolitan debut. J. Frank Black, speaking for the National Sportsmen's Club, announced that he had completed arrangements for a twelve-round bout between Weinert and Fuente to be held in the 113th Infantry Regiment Armory, Newark, on Dec. 15.

Sharkey to Box at Pioneer.

Matchmaker Frank Bartley of the Pioneer A. C. yesterday announced he had completed arrangements for a bout between Jack Sharkey, veteran West Side featherweight, and Frankie Fasano, another local lad, as the feature attraction for the club's boxing show on Tuesday night.

BOXING BOUTS TONIGHT.

WALKER WINS, 1 UP, AND REACHES FINAL

Beats Bydolek on Home Green at Pinehurst After Close and Stirring Match.

HERRING ALSO IS A VICTOR

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 28.—A. Lucien Walker Jr. of the Richmond County Country Club and Donald G. Herring of the Springdale Club, Princeton, N. J., will meet in the final of the ninth annual Carolina tournament here tomorrow.

Walker advanced to the final at the expense of Joe Bydolek of the Buffalo Country Club. Bydolek put up a great fight, and lost only on the home green by the margin of 1 up. The feature of the match was Bydolek's incoming round. Two down at the turn, Bydolek started a streak of great golf, negotiating the difficult last nine in 35, one under par. Walker came home in 36, however, and won the match.

The cards:

Out—
Walker	4	5	4	3	4	4	3	5	5	—37
Bydolek	4	6	5	4	4	5	3	4	4	—39
In—
Walker	3	5	6	4	4	2	5	5	4	—36—73
Bydolek	4	4	5	4	4	3	4	5	4	—38—77

Herring defeated Robert E. Harlow, a New York man, by 2 and 1. They were even at the ninth. But the former Princeton golf star won the tenth when Harlow topped into the water, and the eleventh when Harlow hooked into the scrub oaks. Harlow came back nicely to win the next two holes in par and square the match. They halved the fourteenth in par and Herring won the next two. The seventeenth was halved in 3s.

The summaries:

First Division—Donald G. Herring, Springdale, Princeton, defeated Robert E. Harlow, Boca Ceiga Country Club, Florida, 2 and 1; A. Lucien Walker Jr., Richmond County, defeated Joseph Bydolek, Buffalo Country Club, 1 up.

Second Division—Joe Hotchkiss, New Haven, defeated Walter T. Stall, Brockton, Mass., 4 and 2; J. L. Weller, Hamilton, Ont., defeated R. C. Steese, Youngstown, Ohio, 2 up.

BALTIMORE GAINS FINAL AT HOCKEY

Special to The New York Times.

MARMARONECK, N. Y., Nov. 28.—Philadelphia and Baltimore will meet in the final of the intercity field hockey tournament tomorrow in progress on the grounds of the Oakmere school as a result of the former's victory over Boston, 7 to 0, and the latter's defeat of Richmond, 2 to 1, today. Four games in all were played today, only two of them, however, having a bearing on the final result in the tournament. The other games resulted in victories for the Philadelphia seconds over the New York seconds, 9 to 1, and for the Fairchester firsts over the New York firsts, 3 to 1.

The Philadelphia-Boston contest was hard fought all the way, despite the rather one-sided score, which the losers threatened to change time and again as they pushed the ball toward their opponents' goal, only to be turned back by the air-tight Quaker defense. The Philadelphia team after its victory yesterday over the English coaches, was expected to overwhelm the Bostonians. At the outset the attack, led by the Misses Goodman, Townsend, Weiner and Adams, bade fair to accomplish this expectation, but before half time the Philadelphians were fighting to protect their own goal, with the score 5 to 0 in their favor.

Each of the two points scored in the second half by the Philadelphians was fiercely contested, with Boston's excellent forward line forcing the play in their opponents' territory. The most this aggressiveness could accomplish, however, was to keep down the size of the score and turn the Quaker attention from offense to defense.

The Baltimore-Richmond contest was in doubt until the last minute of play with no appreciable advantage on either side. The Baltimore goalkeepers were perhaps a little steadier than their rivals, thereby preventing the Richmond backs from tying the score in the second half when three thrusts at the Baltimore goal were only turned aside by the narrowest of margins.

Tomorrow will see the end of the tournament, which is the third to be played in this country, the former matches being played in Philadelphia. On Dec. 6 the English coaches will sail for home after a season on this side of the water, during which increased activity has been developed in many cities among field hockey followers.

PHILADELPHIA (7).		BOSTON (0).
Adams	R. W.	Talfrey
Goodman	C. H.	Snyder
Weiner	C. F.	Thompson
Tyler	L. I.	Fessendon
Morgan	L. W.	Bruner
Townsend	C. H.	Peterson
McLean	R. H.	Norris
Rollins	L. H.	Armstrong
Jacobs	R. F.	Jones
Carpenter	L. F.	Sewell
Ferguson	C. F.	Drennan

A. A. U. POLICY PRAISED.

Hulbert Receives Many Letters Commending Pan-American Plan.

That the initiative exhibited by the Amateur Athletic Union in launching plans for establishing a Pan-American Athletic Federation for the purpose of encouraging competitions among athletes of this country, Canada and South America is meeting with general favor among athletic officials of the country was announced yesterday by Murray Hulbert, newly elected President of the A. A. U. Since the announcement of America's wholehearted entry into the plan the approval of the country's athletic authorities has been manifested in a flood of letters received by President Hulbert. These letters come from all sections of the country, President Hulbert said, and indicate the widespread popularity of the plan to affiliate the athletic governing bodies of the South American countries, Canada and America.

HAVANA BOXER BEATEN.

TAMPA, Fla., Nov. 28.—Martin Harris of Philadelphia received the judges' decision over Angel (Soldier) Diaz of Havana in a ten-round bout at Benjamin Field here tonight. Diaz's style was a puzzle to Harris in the opening rounds, but the Philadelphian adopted the same tactics after the first three rounds and accumulated enough points to get the unanimous verdict. Diaz weighed 122 pounds and Harris 126.

ROMERO GETS DECISION.

Gibbons Is Due Here Today To Begin Training for Norfolk

Tom Gibbons is expected here this morning on the Twentieth Century Limited to begin training for his fifteen-round bout with Kid Norfolk, Baltimore negro light-heavyweight, which will be the feature of The American's Christmas Fund carnival to be held in Madison Square Garden on Dec. 9. The St. Paul veteran will be accompanied by his manager, Eddie Kane, and Sammy Mandell, Rockford (Ill.) lightweight, who is coming to seek a match with Sid Terris, east side lightweight. Gibbons has arranged for training quarters in the Garden gymnasium. Kane is desirous of engaging John Lester Johnson, Bill Tate, Jack Townsend and Jamaica Kid, four negro heavyweights, as sparring partners for Gibbons.

GOULLET TO RACE WALTHOUR TONIGHT

A match race between Alf Goullet, America's premier cyclist, and Bobby Walthour Jr., son of the once famous "Dixie Flier," will be the principal attraction tonight in Madison Square Garden where the customary sprint bicycle carnival will be held as a prelude to the thirty-seventh international six-day race, which gets under way tomorrow at midnight. Goullet and Walthour will be rivals in a race to be decided in heats of one mile each, best two in three heats to determine the winner.

The match promises one of the most interesting competitions on an attractive card arranged by Manager John M. Chapman for local followers of cycle racing. Plans for remodelling the Garden were completed yesterday when a force of carpenters joined the saucer-shaped track and then went carefully over the incline to eliminate causes for tire trouble for the cyclists.

Oscar Egg, speedy Swiss cyclist, and Franco Georgetti, Italian youngster, are scheduled for another feature. Like Goullet and Walthour, they will participate in a one mile match race to be decided best two in three heats. Another attraction will be an Australian pursuit race in which Constant Girardengo and Gaetano Belloni, Italy's foremost road cyclists, will be rivals. In this event the principals will start on opposite sides of the track and the race will continue until one of the riders has been overtaken by his rival.

A four-cornered match race will provide competition among Pete Van Kempen, Holland cyclist; Anthony Beckman, Secaucus, N. J. rider; Harry Horan of South Orange, and Reggie McNamara, Australian veteran who now makes his home in Newark. Two other professional events and as many amateur races also have been arranged for the sprint program.

YALE HARRIERS NAME SMITH

Honor Sophomore Who Won Every Race He Entered This Season.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 28.—At the annual banquet of the Yale Varsity cross-country squad here tonight, MacAuley Smith, 1927, was elected Captain for next year. He is the first Sophomore elected to that position for some years, but has earned the honor by winning every race he has entered this year and breaking several records.

FINNS MAY EQUAL RECORD

Will Try to Score Their Fourth Straight Victory of Season Over Van Cortlandt Trail.

A total of eight clubs will struggle for the Amateur Athletic Union's national senior cross-country championship this afternoon in the annual title chase, to be held over the six-mile trail in Van Cortlandt Park. The event, the closing competition of the hill and dale season, is regarded as the blue ribbon attraction on the Fall calendar of the A. A. U., and is expected to attract a throng to the Kingsbridge trail.

The eighth team to enter was the Meadowbrook Club of Philadelphia, last year's title winner. The Quaker City club sent in its entry yesterday. The squad will be led by Arthur Studenroth, who enjoyed the distinction of being the second American to cross the finish line in the Olympic Games cross-country race in France last Summer. The Meadowbrook Club squad will be composed of seven harriers, making a total of fifty-five entries received for the race. This entry includes Johnny Bell of Syracuse University, Fred Wachsmuth, Glencoe A. C., and Alile Maack, Knights of St. Antony, who are entered in the test as individuals and will not score in the team title struggle.

The other clubs entered are the Finnish-American A. C., Millrose A. A., St. Christopher Club, Dorchester Club of Boston, Mohawk A. C., and New York A. C. Georgetown University also has nominated a team. In the race this afternoon the Finnish-American Club will seek its fourth straight cross-country triumph of the season. The hardy runners of the Bronx club have started the season with a triumph in the district's junior title chase, and followed this with a victory in the Metropolitan A. A. U. senior championship. In the A. A. U. national junior title race the Finns registered their third triumph, and this afternoon they will seek to equal the record made eight years ago, when Morningside A. C. carried off four hill-and-dale team title struggles in a row.

The complete list of entries follows:

Meadowbrook Club, Philadelphia—Arthur A. Studenroth, Frank A. Worthington, William A. Miller, J. Kenneth Mullen, William G. Ritzler Jr., Fred Tobasen and George A. Ramsey.

Finnish-American A. C.—Louis Tikkanen, Gunner Nilson, August Fager, Ilmar Frim, Carl Willberg, Nestor Erickson, William Koski and Olli Vanttinen.

Millrose A. A.—Verne H. Booth, Frank T. Zuna, Victor Veteretsas, Patrick Flynn, John Costello, Nick Glannakopoulos, Samuel D. Richman and Irving Osborne.

St. Christopher Club—William Stokeley, Arthur Hall, Aaron Morris, Gilfton Mitchel, Wilson Jackson, Julius Grant and John Goff.

Mohawk A. C.—William Beck, Fred Travelens, Mike Dwyer, William O'Donnell, Thomas Hynes, John Cain, Samuel Weiss and Edward Muller.

P. S. A. L. Cross-Country Championship to Be Decided Today.

Scholastic harriers representing nineteen schools of the city will compete this morning for the Public Schools Athletic League's city championship cross-country title in the annual run to be held over the two and one-half mile course at Van Cortlandt Park starting at 10 o'clock. Paul Pilgrim, New York A. C. athletic official, has accepted an invitation to officiate as referee of the race.

Originally the run was scheduled for last Saturday but the rain caused a postponement. This additional week of training is reported to have improved the condition of the contending teams and a spirited race is expected.

School Swim Meet Today.

Swimmers of De Witt Clinton High School will seek to strengthen their hold on the leadership in the Public Schools Athletic League's senior high schools dual meet swimming tournament, when the eighth series of meets is conducted this afternoon in the pool of Columbia University.

Zivic Beats Mendelsohn.

DETROIT, Nov. 28.—Jack Zivic of Pittsburgh received the decision in a 10-round bout with Johnny Mendelsohn of Milwaukee here tonight. They are lightweights.

Cooper Union Five Wins, 55-20.

Cooper Union Institute's night school basketball team opened its season last night with a victory over the Cooper Union varsity, 55 to 20, on the Stuyvesant High School Court.

BIG STATUE BROKEN IN BROOKLYN EXHIBIT

Five-Ton Bas-Relief Sent Here by Yugoslavia Falls at Museum.

IVAN MESTROVIC'S WORK

Toppled After Being Hoisted to Platform—Valued at $40,000 and Was Not Insured.

"The Maiden of Kosovo," a marble bas-relief of heroic size, owned by the Yugoslav Government, was broken into pieces at the Brooklyn Museum while being hoisted into position by employes of a firm of riggers which specializes in moving works of art.

The piece weighed more than five tons. The riggers had hoisted it into an upright position on a platform, but it tottered. The riggers fled and the marble fell on the floor.

It was the work of Ivan Mestrovic, famous Serbian sculptor and pupil of Rodin. It was borrowed by Mestrovic from the Yugoslav Government to be placed in the exhibition of 100 pieces of Mestrovic's work which is now going on at the Brooklyn Museum.

The bas-relief was insured on its trip through Europe and on its trip to this country, but through a misunderstanding, it ceased to be insured when it entered the Brooklyn Museum. The sculptor supposed that the museum had insured it and the museum authorities supposed that this had been done by the sculptor. The work is valued at $40,000.

There is no model or copy, and according to the sculptor, he is obligated to make another bas-relief just like the broken one, in order to play fair with the Yugoslav Government. William Henry Fox, Director of the Museum, said yesterday that he believed that the bas-relief could be repaired so that its art value would not suffer.

"None of the faces or figures are defaced," he said. "It broke in three or four large pieces, and I believe they can be bolted together successfully so that the work will not really suffer. We are extremely sorry that it happened, but the Museum has assumed no responsibility. The bas-relief is now on exhibition and, even in its broken state, has attracted considerable attention."

'GOING, GOING'—AND IT WENT

Surrounded by a crowd of interested listeners and possible purchasers, John Sidney Wolff, an auctioneer, was disposing yesterday afternoon of a part of the jewelry took of Shay & Co., at 5 Cortlandt Street.

He dangled before the crowd a small open-face gold watch. The bidding started at $15 and had slowly mounted to $22.

"Why, my friends, it's an outrage!" he cried in his most seductive tone. "This timepiece is worth $30 if it's worth a sou. Do you want me to give it to you?"

But no higher bid was offered and Wolff, still declaring that it was a "crime" to let it go at such a figure, raised his gavel and cried: "Going at $22, going, going—"

At that moment an arm shot upward toward the auctioneer's outstretched hand, the watch was yanked from his grasp and a voice from the throng completed his sales formula by crying: "Gone!"

A man shouldered the interested listeners and possible purchasers to left and right as he dashed through the doorway and out into the street. Wolff leaped from his auction block in pursuit and all the possible purchasers followed, yelling: "Stop thief!"

The chase had covered half a block when the quarry was run straight into the arms of Policeman James H. Masterson of the Old Slip station. Wolff and the proprietor identified the open-face watch and appeared against the prisoner in Night Court. Pleading guilty, he described himself as Robert David, 45 years old, of 25 East Forty-fifth Street, Bayonne, N. J. Magistrate Brodsky held the prisoner in $500 bail for General Sessions after the auctioneer had described the incident dramatically. David said he thought the sale was going rather slowly and "needed something to jazz it up a bit."

TO HONOR BLIND WOMEN.

Eight of Them, All in Business, Will Be Guests at Reception.

Eight blind women actively engaged in business in New York City will be guests at a reception given by the New York League of Business and Professional Women at the latter's clubhouse, 23 East Thirty-ninth Street, tonight at 8 o'clock, it was announced yesterday.

The women and their places of employment are: Nora Gillette of the State Commission for the Blind; Margaret Foley of the Iron Age Publishing Company; Beatrice Harahan of McKinley, Stone & Mackenzie, book publishers; Anna O'Neil of R. H. Macy & Co.; Martha Bowers of the Boy Scouts of America; Agnes Hamilton of the Fidelity and Casualty Company of America; Agnes Erimrose of the United Cigar Stores, and Gertrude Smith of the State Commission for the Blind.

Miss Foley will speak on "The Outlook for the Blind in Business," and her department manager, Mrs. Julia C. H. Allen, will talk on "The Blind From the Business Viewpoint."

"Eight of these girls," the league announced, "are now as successful in big offices that their employers all have sent commendatory letters. Besides being independent as wage earners, these young women all have additional musical or other talent which they are contributing to the program of the reception."

HOLT STATES HIS CREED.

Connecticut Democratic Nominee for Senator Favors World Court.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 28.—Hamilton Holt, Democratic candidate for United States Senator to succeed Senator Brandegee, in a statement issued tonight, announced his platform as follows:

"I favor America's entry into the World Court as proposed by President Harding, Secretary Hughes and President Coolidge.

"I favor a statesmanlike revision of Federal taxation based on economic fact, and I hope to see abolished the outrage of publishing income tax returns.

"I uphold the Constitution of the United States and the Supreme Court, the bulwark of our rights and liberty.

"I deplore the tendency towards Federal encroachment on traditional local self-government and home rule.

"The tariff should never be a political issue. It is economic. I favor having the tariff placed in the hands of experts."

Mr. Holt will make speeches in the principal cities of the State, developing in detail his stand on the declarations in what he terms his political creed.

Captain Bairnsfather Returns.

Captain Bruce Bairnsfather, the author of "Old Bill" and the cartoonist of the war with the British Army, returned yesterday on the Mauretania to put on his new play, which is now in rehearsal. Miss Peggy Worth, who played in London last season in "Peggy Be Careful" and recently starred in films, also returned on the Mauretania with her Pekingese, which she calls Peaches. The animal has been taught to perform in the movies.

Sommer Resigns Post in Newark.

Frank Sommer, former Sheriff of Essex County, New Jersey, and now dean of the New York University Law School, resigned yesterday as general counsel to the North Jersey District Water Supply Commission at Newark. He accepted the post four years ago when Spaulding Fraser became ill. The commission extended him a unanimous vote of thanks for his services.

LEFORTIER ANTIQUE SALE.

Second Session Brings $18,222 for Furniture and Tapestries.

The second sale yesterday at the American Art Galleries of Mme. Lefortier's antique French furniture, tapestries and textiles, brought $18,222.50, the total to date being $41,220.

The highest price, $870, was for No. 384 of the catalogue, a Louis XIII. needlework walnut canapé, and was paid by Peter Cariyle. The gros and petit-point needlework shows groups of Chinese mandarins and attendants amid scrolls of flowers and birds. James A. Hayden paid $360 each for Nos. 311, 312 and 378. Nos. 311 and 312 are four Louis XVI. period needlework laqué armchairs, and 312, two Régence period carved walnut fauteuils with petit and gros-point. Seidlitz & Van Baarn paid $410 for No. 288, an Aubuson bergère tapisserie; $360, for No. 297, a seventeenth century Renaissance tapestry, and $380 for 298, an early seventeenth century Felletin French tapestry.

G. W. Higgins paid $450 for No. 300, a Louis XV. needlework panel with the field of point d'Hungroise in Havana brown. The Rosenbach Company paid $360 for No. 369, an eighteenth century Venetian lacquer cabinet with serpentine front, painted a light tan, with chinoiserie decoration in brown, red and gold. W. B. Crowell bought No. 387, a Louis XIII. carved walnut chaise longue, with gros and petit point needlework. Alavoine bought No. 386, a Ch'ien-lung period Chinese polychromed incised lacquer screen, the centre showing a Chinese palace and landscape, for $625, the third highest price, and Ginsberg & Levy paid the day's second highest price, $740, for No. 380, a Régence period carved walnut seat coverdin gros and petit point, executed in rich greens, crimsons, blues, ivories and golden yellows on a black ground.

PAINTINGS BRING $31,415.

Two by J. Francis Murphy Go for $5,000 at Sale.

The sale last evening at the American Art Galleries of paintings from the collections of James Smith Jr., the late Mary Clark Thompson and other private sources amounted to $31,415. Thomas W. Dunbar acquired No. 59 of the catalogue, "Hills and Fields," by J. Francis Murphy, for $2,400. W. W. Seaman, agent, paid $2,600 for No. 54, another Murphy, "A Hillside Farm." Mr. Seaman also bought No. 64, "A Portrait," by Antonio Mancini, for $975. E. M. Nelson bought three pictures, No. 46, "Moonlight," by Ralph A. Blakelock for $725; No. 60, "The Green Brook," by George Inness, for $1,850, and No. 67, "Milking Time," by Winslow D. Homer, for $700.

J. C. Foster purchased No. 30, Ross Bonheur's "Les Taureaux." C. W. Kraushaar paid $700 for No. 53, "Brooklyn Bridge," by J. H. Twachtman. The Milch Galleries bought No. 61, "Lake George From Bolton," by Homer D. Martin, for $2,150.

GIVE CONCERT OF BRAHMS.

Elshuco Trio and Festival Quartet Again Play Chamber Works.

The second concert of the chamber compositions of Johannes Brahms by the Elshuco Trio and the Festival Quartet of South Mountain took place last night in Aeolian Hall. The assisting artist was Gustave Langenus. The program consisted of the A major sonata for piano and violin, played by Hugo Kortschak and Aurelio Giorni, the clarinet quintet, and the F minor quintet, Op. 34. Whereas the first concert of this series had presented compositions of Brahms's earlier and formative period, the program last night revealed him in the maturity of his conceptions and style.

The sonata in A major, as transparent and beautiful a creation as any modern work in its form, was played with marked sympathy and musicianship. The two quintets have long since gained a place among enduring masterpieces of ensemble music. Other concerts of Brahms's chamber compositions might entail the performance of works meriting attention partly for historical reasons. The works heard last night would hold a high place on any program. The performances were always sympathetic to their spirit and generally of a brilliant character. There was an appreciative audience of good size.

SUPPER TO KOUSSEVITZKY.

Conductor of Boston Symphony Orchestra Entertained at Lido-Venice.

Prominent persons in artistic and social life attended the supper last night at the Lido-Venice in honor of Serge Alexandrovitch Koussevitzky, conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, which began its thirty-ninth season in this city on Thanksgiving night at Carnegie Hall. Mrs. Richard T. Wilson, Mrs. James Lowell Putnam, Mrs. Newbold Morris, Mme. Marcella Sembrich, Mrs. Daniel de Menocal of Boston and Josef Stransky were members of the Reception Committee.

Among those present were Mme. Frances Alda, Miss Queena Mario, Miss Marie Dressler, Mr. and Mrs. Giovanni Martinelli, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Rothier, Giulio Setti, Edward Seidle, Carl Schlegel, Miss Janet Adamson and Edmund Burke. Also Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Thieriot, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Gifford, Mr. and Mrs. Willard S. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Griswold A. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. John Peltz, Mrs. Oliver Harriman and Mr. and Mrs. Morin S. Hare.

SINGS FOR FISK'S GLORY.

Roland Hayes's Concert Nets $5,000 for University.

Roland Hayes sang in Carnegie Hall last night to the gain and glory of Fisk University at Nashville, Tenn., where the now world-famous negro tenor had spent the earlier formative years of his musical education. The benefit netted over $5,000 for that institution's endowment out of the evening's total receipts of some $6,200 from a sold-out house and crowded stage.

It was the singer's second appearance this season, and his high voice rang clear and bell-like through the great assembly in classics of three languages. His program comprised airs of Bach and Handel, Beethoven, Brahms, Wolf and Schoenberg, together with lyrics of Rachmaninoff, Roger-Quilter and Santoliquido, and American negro "spirituals" arranged by Hellman, Percy Parham and Avery Robinson.

"Der Rosenkavalier" Sung Again.

Richard Strauss's "Der Rosenkavalier" was repeated at the Metropolitan last evening, when a crowded house, including many holiday guests in New York, enjoyed the brilliant orchestration and the grandiose Viennese comedy performance. Mmes. Jeritza, Easton and Mario, Messrs. Ottolle and Bender reappeared and Mr. Bodansky conducted.

Whiteman Repeats Old Successes.

Paul Whiteman's orchestra, in its return to Aeolian Hall yesterday, reverted to its original successes in a "popular composers' day" of jazz dances, all recognised by the matinee's many listeners. There were solos for Perella and Pingitore and one for the tenor voice of Norton Downey in Boutelje's "first Irish Fantasy for the modern American orchestra."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Gemier and the Odeon company will close their season at Jolson's today with two performances of "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme."

Ulrich Haupt and Lucille La Verne have been engaged for "Undertow," in which Dorothy Dalton will be starred.

Emma Trentini will return to vaudeville at Christmas week at the Riverside. W. C. Fields will be seen on the Hippodrome bill next week.

The advance sale of seats for "The Miracle" in Cleveland, where it will begin an engagement on Dec. 22, is said to amount to $131,000.

Jeanne Eagels played her role in "Rain" again at the Gaiety last night, after an absence from the cast of four days, due to illness. The play will end its New York run with the two performances today.

SAYS OCEAN'S LEAKS CAUSE EARTHQUAKES

Captain See Also Ascribes Volcanoes to Seepage of Water Through Earth's Crust.

HOT MOLTEN ROCK SWELLS

Then a Creation of Steam Follows and Two Mighty Forces Are Brought Into Action.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—Leaks in the bottom of the ocean are the prime cause of earthquakes and volcanoes, Captain T. J. J. See, Government Astronomer at Mare Island, Cal., told the Commonwealth Club today. Captain See is a United States Navy professor of mathematics and a leading opponent of the Einstein theory of relativity, which he holds is founded upon an error in elementary mathematics he has discovered in Professor Einstein's calculation.

Basing his earthquake-volcano theory upon a study of such phenomena since the San Francisco disaster of 1906, Captain See has come to the conclusion that sea floors contain certain "leaks." Water seeps down through the earth's crust, to merge with the hot, molten rock far below and, by increasing the volume of the molten mass, as well as by the creation of steam, sets two mighty forces at work alternating the contour of the enveloping earth crust.

"The molten rock swells," he said, "and causes periodic readjustments of the lava beneath the crust. The expanding mass finds relief by expulsion toward the land and thus builds up a mighty mountain wall along the seashore.

Captain See cited the world ridge which surrounds the Pacific and Indian Oceans and the Andes of South America as typical samples of "readjustments." He held that the classification of earthquakes as volcanic and tectonic and without a common origin was an error.

"The only difference between volcanic and tectonic quakes is that in one case (volcanic) a vent exists for the escape of vapor into the atmosphere and in the other case (tectonic) the forces are relieved by adjustment of the earth's crust without a visible eruption," he contended. "The cause is everywhere the same—ocean leakage."

Of seismatic waves Captain See said: "In the expulsion of lava from under the sea it pushes generally toward the continent, because, owing to leakage, steam saturates the lava under the sea but not under the land. In this agitation for the readjustment of the underlying molten rock the crust opens along cracks and the blocks of the earth's crust are so displaced that a fault moves, perhaps several hundred feet, vertically. Sometimes the coast is uplifted visibly, as in the great Chilean earthquakes of 1822.

"The floor of the deep sea often is left without support as the underlying lava and steam surge shoreward. A section of the floor as large as an American State may sink several hundred feet. The sea level over the sunken area is depressed and water, in a rushing wall called a 'seismic wave,' surges in on all sides to fill the depression.

"The level of the neighboring seashore is thus lowered, leaving ships stranded and helpless. When the onrushing water meets at the centre of the depression the sea level is raised into a mound several hundred feet high, which slowly collapses, sending a mighty ripple ashore to wash the stranded ships farther inland."

The Pacific is not so deep on the American side as on the Japanese. Therefore, according to Captain See, there is less seepage and fewer readjustments of earth crust. Great earthquakes occur in Japan about every thirty-three years; in North and South America about every half century. Together, however, they gradually are uplifting and broadening the American continents westward and the continent of Asia eastward, the Pacific meanwhile becoming, in the lapse of millions of years, narrower and narrower.

Captain See believes that volcanoes gradually die out as they are pushed inland by the rise of adjacent sea bottoms. They die for lack of water to keep them going, he said. He pointed out that all active volcanoes are within 100 miles of a sea, and that 999-1000 of the vapor emitted from craters is steam.

PROVISIONS VESSEL AT SEA.

Fort Victoria Stops to Supply Schooner Bound From Africa.

A radio message was received yesterday at the office of the Furness Bermuda Line from Captain Mackenzie of the steamship Fort Victoria, stating that he would be a little late in arriving at Hamilton, because he had encountered the schooner Bluebird on Thanksgiving Day and had to stop to supply her with provisions and water. The Fort Victoria then proceeded on her way to Bermuda.

There was no mention in Captain Mackenzie's message that the schooner had been damaged. She left Axim on the West Coast of Africa on Aug. 31 and Ceara on Nov. 15, and was bound for Boston. She is a three-masted schooner of 1,230 tons, Captain Quick, master.

PUCCINI NOURISHED THROUGH NASAL TUBE

MILAN, Italy, Nov. 28 (By Associated Press).—The family of Giacomo Puccini, the composer, who is suffering from malignant growths in the throat and is under treatment in Brussels, are daily receiving comforting news concerning the progress of his illness. His recovery, although slow, is considered sure, according to the last report, and within a few days he will leave the sanitarium where he has been undergoing radium treatment and return to his hotel.

Signora Puccini, wife of the composer, who has been detained here by a bronchial affection, expects to be able shortly to leave for Brussels to join her husband, who is being nursed by their son and daughter, Antonio and Tosca.

A dispatch to the Tribuna from Brussels says Puccini's physicians are most encouraged by daily statements concerning the progress of the patient, but they hope for a favorable outcome of his illness. The maestro is being nourished by means of a nasal tube. He is very weak, but his heart is in good condition and he seems not to be depressed.

Queen Elizabeth of Belgium daily telephones to the hospital for news concerning the condition of Signor Puccini, while important personages in Brussels frequently call at the hospital for information. Among the latter are the Papal Nuncio, the Italian Ambassador and several of the members of the diplomatic corps.

MUSIC NOTES.

The Marianne Kneisel String Quartet, in which Franz Kneisel's daughter has associated with herself the Misses Jerzy, Kalman and Kreuter, will make its bow in a free Sunday concert at the Educational Alliance.

Feodor Challapin, recovered from his cold, is announced to sing with a Metropolitan cast in "Boris Godunoff", tonight at the Brooklyn Academy.

MRS. MORGAN'S WILL CANCELS ALL DEBTS

Directs That Those It Had Been Her "Pleasure to Help" Be Not Called On to Pay.

GIVES $25,000 TO BUTLER

Special to The New York Times.

MONROE, N. Y., Nov. 28.—The will of Frances Tracy Morgan, widow of the elder J. P. Morgan, was admitted to probate here today by Surrogate Elwood C. Smith.

Mrs. Morgan's last testament gives no hint of the size of her estate. Her son, the present J. Pierpont Morgan, who is named an executor, receives a portrait of Mrs. Morgan's mother. The residuary estate is divided among Mrs. Morgan's three daughters after two sisters have shared the Pullman Palace Car capital stock owned by the testatrix, and small annuities have been provided for four nieces.

Miss Florence W. Blyth also receives an annuity of $8,000 in "appreciation of her untiring and loving care and companionship during many years," and James Duthie, Mrs. Morgan's butler, receives $25,000 outright.

The Text of the Will.

The text of the will follows:

"I, Frances T. Morgan, do hereby make, publish and declare this as my last will and testament.

"First—I hereby empower and direct my executors hereinafter named to forego, release and discharge, without consideration, any and all claims and demands which I may have against any one at the time of my death for advances or loans at any time made by me, or for any unpaid balances on such advances or loans, and to cancel and give back the notes or other evidences of such indebtedness, if any there be, to my debtors or their personal representatives, it being my desire that those whom it has been my pleasure to help financially during my lifetime shall not be called upon to pay back what they owe to me.

"Second—I give and bequeath the portrait of my mother by Daniel Huntington to my son, John Pierpont Morgan.

"Third—I give and bequeath one-half of the shares of the capital stock of the Pullman Palace Car Company now held by me, or the proceeds of the same in whatever form invested in case the said shares are sold before my death, to my sister Clara T. Hoppin, of Providence, Rhode Island, and in the event that she dies before me, to the children of her son Tracy equally. I give and bequeath the other half of the said shares of the capital stock of the Pullman Palace Car Company or the proceeds thereof in whatever form invested at the time of my death to my sister Julia M. Brown of Flushing, Long Island, but if she dies before me I give one-third of her said one-half share to her son, Thornton, one-third thereof to her daughter, Helen Keppel, and one-third thereof to her grandson, Gordon. I also give to the beneficiaries named in this paragraph the pro rata share of the dividends payable on said Pullman Palace Car Company stock after my death.

Annuities to Her Nieces.

"Fourth—I give to each of my nieces, Frances S. Hoppin and Helen Keppel, an annuity of $3,000 to be paid to her in equal quarterly payments from the time of my death.

"Fifth—I give to each of my nieces, Frances Archershee, Helen D. Tracy, Anne Tracy and Grace Cook, an annuity of $1,000 to be paid to her in equal quarterly payments from the time of my death.

"Sixth—I give to Miss Florence W. Blyth of Toronto, Canada, as an expression of my appreciation of her untiring and loving care and companionship during many years, an annuity of $8,000, to be paid to her in quarterly payments of $2,000 from the time of my death, and in case her father survives her, I direct that one-half the said amount be paid to him during his life.

"Seventh—I give to my butler, James Duthie, the sum of $25,000 absolutely in recognition of his many years of conscientious, effident and devoted service, to be paid without discount as soon after my death as may be convenient.

"Eighth, all the rest, residue and remainder of my estate, real and personal, of whatsoever kind and wheresoever situate, including all property over which I have the power of appointment, I give, bequeath and devise subject to the foregoing annuities to my daughters, Louisa Pierpont Satterlee, Juliet Pierpont Hamilton and Anne Tracy Morgan, the survivors or survivor of them, share and share alike absolutely.

"Ninth—I direct that all transfer or inheritance taxes imposed upon any part of my estate shall be paid out of my residuary estate.

"Tenth—I nominate and appoint my three daughters, Louisa Pierpont Satterlee, Juliet Pierpont Hamilton and Anne Tracy Morgan, and my son, John Pierpont Morgan, executors of this my will and I direct that none of them shall be required to give any bond or undertaking for the faithful performances of his or her duties as such executor. I hereby authorize my said executors to retain any investments of which I may die possessed and in making distribution of my estate in lieu of making payment in cash to deliver transfer securities or other property at a fair valuation to be fixed by them.

Authorizes Sale of Possessions.

"I also authorize my said executors to sell any real or personal estate of which I may die seized and possessed at public or private sale and on such terms as to them may seem best. I hereby give to such of my executors as may be at any time qualified and acting all the powers herein given to my said executors. The word executor or executors whenever used in this will shall include executrix or executors.

"Hereby revoking all other and former wills by me made, I have hereunto set my hand and seal this 11th day of December, nineteen hundred and twenty-two. FRANCES T. MORGAN.

"Signed, sealed, published and declared by the testatrix above named as and for her last will and testament, in the presence of us, present at the same time, who at her request in her presence and in the presence of each other have hereunto subscribed our names as witnesses.

CROSSING CRASH INQUIRY.

Investigation Begins Into Death of Two Teachers Killed by a Train.

Acting Coroner Cortland Johnstone of Cedarhurst commenced an investigation yesterday into the cause of the accident on the Long Island Railroad on Armistice Day when Miss Josephine Jay and Miss Harriett Loet, two teachers at the Far Rockaway High School, were killed at Hewlett Crossing, Hewlett, L. I.

The young women were riding in Miss Jay's automobile when the machine was struck by a Long Island electric train and both were killed. The investigation was held at the Lawrence Police Court and ten witnesses were examined. Others will be heard today.

The Acting Coroner said that as far as he could see there had been no criminal negligence on the part of officials or employes of the company, but that he would withhold his decision until he had completed the examination of all the witnesses.

GIVES UP PRIZE PAINTINGS.

Patron Donates Fourteen in Thumb-Box Exhibits to Salmagundi Club.

When the Thumb-Box Exhibit, an annual showing of small paintings, was opened at the Salmagundi Club last night, W. Granville Smith, President of the club, announced that Charles Vezin had made a gift of fourteen paintings that had won the prize he donates each year for the picture that is adjudged the best.

Mr. Vezin, himself a painter, was a business man until he retired five years ago. Since 1911, a first prize of $200 has been awarded by him in the Thumb-Box Exhibit, the winning picture becoming his property. As there were two Thumb-Box Exhibits in 1922, the collection numbered fourteen in all.

In making the gift, Mr. Vezin, writing to Frank De Haven, Chairman of the Art Committee of the club, said that he did so in a "desire to enrich the club and to honor these artists by placing their work in a more conspicuous place than my home." He offered to defray the cost of reframing the paintings and of having adequate lighting installed.

The collection includes paintings by W. Granville Smith, John F. Carlson, Arthur E. Fewell, J. Scott Williams, Ernest D. Roth, Frank De Haven, Joseph H. Boston, George M. Bruestle, George Elmer Browne, Charles S. Chapman, Murray P. Bowley, Carl Rungius, H. Sloan Bredin and John E. Costigan.

The winner of the Vezin prize this year was announced last night as Hobart Nichols, a former President of the club. This painting, a harbor sketch, also will be added to the group that now becomes the property of the club.

Mr. Vezin was in the dry goods business. He was approaching middle age when a desire to paint came upon him. He attended night schools, and in the Summer would rise at 4 o'clock in the morning, paint until 9, go to his office, leave there at 5 in the afternoon and paint until 7 or 8 o'clock at night. Five years ago he retired from business, a wealthy man, to devote his life to painting. He lives in Yonkers.

YELLOW TAXI RATES CUT.

Fifteen Cents for the First Quarter, Then 10 Cents a Half Mile.

W. E. McGuirk, President of the Yellow Taxi Corporation, announced a cut yesterday in Yellow Taxicab rates to 15 cents for the first quarter of a mile and then 10 cents for each half mile thereafter to anywhere in the city for from one to five persons.

The new rate is a reduction of about 33⅓ per cent. and goes in effect Monday morning, Dec. 1. It was said at the company's offices that the meter in every one of the fleet of 1,750 cabs would be adjusted to the new fare by that time.

"This reduction brings to every New Yorker a cab rate lower than the celebrated cheap cab fares of European cities," said Mr. McGuirk. "It is the lowest fare ever attempted by any cab company of organized financial and moral responsibility in America."

MRS. HARDING LEFT ESTATE OF $500,000

$56,000 IN SPECIAL GIFTS

Marion Home Goes to Memorial Association—Former Employes Are Remembered.

MARION, Ohio, Nov. 28 (Associated Press).—Jeanne and George Neely de Wolfe, 15 and 12 years of age, respectively, grandchildren of Mrs. Warren G. Harding, receive the bulk of her estate, estimated to be in excess of $500,000, under her will filed for probate today.

They are children of Mrs. Harding's only son, Marshall E. de Wolfe, who died thirteen years ago in Colorado and from whose father Mrs. Harding obtained a divorce in 1884.

The estate, after special bequests totalling $56,000 have been taken, is to be placed in trust for the children until they are 29 years of age; until that time they will draw the interest from the property. H. J. Merchant, Marion banker, was named trustee.

The children's mother has remarried since the death of their father. Her name is now Mrs. Roscoe D. Messer and she lives here with the children and her husband. She receives $2,000.

The estate consisted principally of Marion property and securities.

Home for a Memorial.

The Harding home in Mount Vernon Avenue, from which the front porch campaign was conducted, and its contents go to the Harding Memorial Association. The home itself is to be converted into a library and "forever preserved to the public for the benefit of posterity."

Marion friends and retainers of the Harding regime in the White House were substantially remembered. Mrs. Malcolm Jennings of Columbus, a girlhood friend of Mrs. Harding, received $5,000, and Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, at whose sanitarium Mrs. Harding died, $10,000.

Mrs. Harding's will was drawn up on Oct. 14, 1924. In it she elects to accept the appraisement of her husband's estate, which was tentatively placed at $500,000. No final appraisement has been made public of Mr. Harding's estate. Charles O. Schaffner, executor of the President's estate, is named to the same position.

Other bequests included:

Major O. M. Baldinger, who was the President's military aid, $1,000.

Mrs. Hazel Longshore and Miss Louise Kling, nieces, $5,000 each and securities on which no value was placed. In addition, Mrs. Longshore is empowered to dispose of all of Mrs. Harding's clothes, jewelry and automobiles, in accordance with a letter which the latter wrote her some time ago.

Mrs. William Milroy Boyd, $5,000.

Miss Laura Harlan, daughter of Justice Harlan, who was Mrs. Harding's secretary at the White House, $2,000, and eleven shares of stock of the William Wrigley Jr. Corporation.

Mrs. George H. Van Fleet, $2,000.

Miss Katherine Wynne, Miss Ruth Powderly and Kathleen Lawler, White House employes under the Hardings, $1,000 each.

Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church of Marion, of which Mrs. Harding was a member, and Trinity Baptist, Mr. Harding's church, $2,000 each.

St. Paul's Episcopal Church of Marion, $2,000.

Hoke Donithan, Marion, $1,000.

D. R. Crissinger, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, formerly of Marion, $1,000.

Mrs. George B. Christian Jr., wife of President Harding's former secretary, $7,000.

Vetalis H. Kling, Mrs. Harding's brother, and his wife, $10,000 to be held in trust for them.

Mrs. Jane Wallace, sister of Mrs. George H. Van Fleet, whose husband was manager of the Star while the Hardings owned it, $2,000.

Harry Barker of the Boston office of the Department of Justice, who was a White House Secret Service operative during Mr. Harding's incumbency, $2,000.

TILE MEN WANT HIGH TARIFF

Manufacturers Fear Competition With Foreign Product.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 28.—To protect the American tile manufacturing industry from foreign competition, the tile contractors of this country favor a high tariff on the imported product.

This was declared here by Clarence W. McCaulley, President of the Eastern district of the National Tile Contractors' Association of America. The fifteenth annual convention of the Eastern district branch began in the Shelburne Hotel today and closes tomorrow.

"The imported tile cannot compare in quality and workmanship with the American product," said Mr. McCaulley, "but the factories abroad are rapidly improving their product, which is entering this country in increasing quantities.

"It will not be long before the foreign tile is equal to the American product, and then, unless there is a protective tariff, the foreign competition, because of cheap labor abroad, will injure the industry here."

Delegates to the convention declare that the tile industry in this country has been free from labor troubles, principally because of a satisfactory wage agreement with the workers, which has nearly two years yet to run, and partly because of arbitration.

South African Talks to Ad Men.

A. H. Tatlow of the South African Railways and a magazine publisher of Johannesburg was the speaker yesterday at a luncheon of the magazine group of the Advertising Club. He has been studying American railways and attempting to give to Americans a broader knowledge of his country.

PHYLLIS loves caramels. Barbara dotes on creams. Gwen says they're both right, but give her the nougatines—

Of course, we can't arrange every assortment so that every piece of candy suits everybody—but we have come pretty close to it. We inquired and studied and struck an average of some seven thousand separate tastes, and that is our guide.

That's why you so seldom see those two or three pieces that nobody likes, lying abandoned and forlorn in the bottom of a Park & Tilford candy box.

CASTING THEM OUT.

The Republican "pures" had their way in the caucus of Republican Senators yesterday. Mr. LA FOLLETTE, Mr. BROOKHART, Mr. LADD and Mr. FRAZIER were blacklisted and "read out." To these wanderers from the fold no more invitations to Republican conferences will be sent, and they are not to be allowed to fill any Republican vacancies on Senate committees. Mr. LADD was the only culprit who took the trouble to hear his sentence. Mr. LA FOLLETTE is used to throwing Republican invitations into the waste basket. He may be displeased, however, that the signal honor of being the one rebel beyond pardon wasn't given him, as Senator HARRELD desired. Senator REED'S resolution, sending the Lafollettian quartet to political Coventry, must be regarded rather as a belated expression of indignant virtue than of any immediate effect.

The wicked will continue to prosper in the short remaining life of this Congress. The majesty of the Republican majority has spoken; and the Committee of Committees, one of the most august collections of the most august deliberative assembly known to man, has added to its numbers Mr. SMOOT and Mr. REED, pitiless scourges of Progressive-Radical heterodoxy. Mr. LA FOLLETTE hasn't been a Republican for years. Mr. BROOKHART has crept back into the Senate after a surprising demonstration by the Iowa Republicans of their disgust with his two-facedness. Mr. LADD and Mr. FRAZIER, legitimate descendants of the Non-Partisan League which swallowed the Republican Party in North Dakota, are easier to forgive. The sheltering within a party of, and the use of its name for their own purposes by, men utterly opposed to its main policies is an unfairness and a hypocrisy not to be cloaked over by any pretenses of "independence."

The restoration of party integrity is necessary. Nobody will be more glad to see it than the real independents. From the point of immediate expediency, much could be said against the Republican course in regard to the extruded four, more or less sympathetic to Mr. HOWELL, Mr. NORRIS, Mr. BORAH, who are far from orthodox; and they will be needed by the Republicans in the coming session. Something has been done for fact, perhaps, when Mr. LA FOLLETTE'S Republican label is stripped off; but what difference will it make to him in Wisconsin? And what is a mild little resolution to the broken-hearted hero who sees his great Third Party no sooner blown than blasted?

The experienced and amiable Mr. CURTIS takes the place, waved away by wise Mr. WARREN, of "leader" of the Senate Republicans. "JIM" WATSON succeeds Mr. CURTIS as Vice Chairman and Whip. President, Vice President he sought to be. Then he turned his vaulting ambition to the leadership of the Senate. Now he is in line for promotion, and he has a post worthy of his bustling talents and his friendly temper.

UNCLE SAM AS ENUMERATOR.

Secretary HOOVER chose for the high spot in his annual report the question of eliminating national waste. Before one can speak of wastage and economy one must know the facts and figures. Included in Mr. HOOVER'S department, and contributing its own statement to his report, is the greatest fact-finding and figure-counting agency in the world; and that is the Bureau of the Census. The bureau was established for the simple duty of counting heads of population once every ten years as the basis for Congressional reapportionment. Its functions have multiplied in consonance with the growth and complexity of the national life. It is a far jump from the humble scope of the first decennial census to the permanent Census Bureau of today, with its monthly Survey of Current Business, its biennial census of manufactures, its approaching quinquennial census of agriculture and its special studies always under way. Of private agencies of social and economic research the number is steadily increasing. At bottom such agencies are agencies of interpretation drawing their raw materials from the data gathered by Uncle Sam's figure chasers.

Business men, as well as professional economists, find the Census Bureau of value. During the fiscal year ended last June the number of paid subscriptions to the Survey of Current Business increased from 5,435 to 8,492. Reports on more than two dozen specific industries are published every month, three months or six months. But the process of educating the business man to the utility of precise knowledge still has converts to make. Director STEUART records the refusal of some manufacturers to cooperate in the compilation of the industrial reports. Objection is based in part upon the trouble and cost involved, in part upon the advantage taken by rival interests of the information thus supplied. Mr. STEUART need not labor very hard to establish the margin of gain from such inquiries over the drawbacks. Mr. HOOVER'S entire creed of economic stabilization and scientific industrial engineering is hostile to this outworn fear of facts. It is a species of agoraphobia which is bound to disappear.

The real problem is not that the Census Bureau fails to impress itself as a useful agency for the public weal. It is rather a case of demands for information piling up on the bureau beyond its facilities to supply the answers. Since ten years ago there has been only a small increase in the personnel of the bureau, and the Congressional appropriations, according to Director STEUART, are no longer adequate. Here would seem to be a clear case of false thrift. It is hard to see how the Hoover campaign against economic waste, involving billions of dollars to be saved, can be carried on without the first essential for such an effort, which is information.

THE FORUM OF PEACE.

With his customary precision and trenchancy, Professor GILBERT MURRAY has outlined the position in which England finds herself with regard to the League of Nations. When recognizing Egypt as a sovereign State, she reserved four points for future agreement. There can be no doubt that under international law this reservation is valid. The only possible questions are as to its precise interpretation, and whether England's recent course of action has been within its scope. Professor MURRAY expresses his "trust" that if any doubt on either point were seriously raised by duly authorized parties "his Majesty's "Government would consent to submit "the question without delay to the "Permanent Court of International "Justice, or some similar tribunal." He did not add, what is indeed quite obvious, that if England refused under these conditions to do so she would stand before world opinion as an aggressor.

In Professor MURRAY'S opinion, England has acted strictly within her rights, and responsible observers everywhere seem inclined to agree with him. The protest of the Egyptian Chamber of Deputies is to be forwarded from Geneva to the Council in its approaching session. Whether or not it takes specific action, the League is functioning steadily. As ELIHU ROOT pointed out of late, the very fact of its existence insures that every cause of strife, so soon as it develops recognizable proportions, at once focuses attention upon the existing means of a peaceful settlement. Whatever the case with "automatic" military and economic sanctions, the function of the League in developing facts and informing public opinion is beautifully and instantly automatic.

Nor should we lose sight of the importance of enlightened opinion in relation to those very sanctions. Before Governments can move effectively and with sustained resolution, the mind of the world must be prepared. With regard to the crisis in the Mediterranean, by virtue of the mere existence of the League, this process has already begun and has a clear course of procedure. Under Article XI. "any member" may bring the situation before the Council. In due course the Court may be called on to render decision as to whether it falls within England's domestic jurisdiction. Thanks to the recent Assembly at Geneva, the question has even been raised whether, if a crisis threatens the peace of the world, the Council may not continue to hold it before the bar of public opinion even though the Court "shall make no recommendation" with regard to it. Never again can a situation like the present fail to develop in all its aspects and all its bearings in the open forum of peace.

And more and more we are coming to realize that so long as knowledge and enlightened opinion develop automatically there is little need of automatic mobilization, and almost equally little danger of mobilization of any kind. England's very rivals in the Mediterranean are already perceiving that her cause is their own, and are arraying themselves on the side of order. But their action also will be scanned and discussed, always with reference to their covenant under the League.

HELPING GERMANY'S RAILWAYS.

It was foreseen in the report made to the Dawes committee by the experts on railways that the new German railroad administration would require funds in order to tide over the period of readjustment after the transfer of the roads from the Government to the newly appointed railway company. Although in many respects the experts found the German railroads in excellent condition, their financial position demanded that severe economies be made and rates raised in order to place the roads upon a paying basis. Despite the small outstanding debts of the railroads, there was a large gap to be bridged between the uneconomic methods of administration which prevailed after the war and the new order which is now being inaugurated. The new credits are intended to supply temporary working capital.

It is particularly interesting to note that Sir WILLIAM ACWORTH, the great authority on railroads who made the special study of the German system for the Dawes committee, stressed the improvements in rolling stock and general equipment made in Germany since the armistice. Nearly all the rolling stock is less than ten years old, and all the deliveries made to the Allies under the Peace Treaty have been replaced by new equipment. As a result Germany today has more locomotives, freight cars and passenger cars than she had before the war. This rolling stock, to use the words of the committee's report, "is "very superior both in quality and "quantity to that which was in use "before the war. Speaking generally, it may be said that the equipment "of the German railways is modern "and fully up to the latest improvements in railway technique." No money has been spared upon it, and millions have been spent to enlarge stations and to double-track lines.

One of the difficulties which the new railway company faces is adjusting rates. German railroads were never on a strictly paying basis. The Government fixed rates with a view to aiding German export trade. Furthermore, the general disorganization in prices and in the costs of manufacture and of living during the period of the decline of the mark has made it hard to increase fares and freight rates rapidly. All of this, however, was foreseen by the railway experts who reported to the Dawes committee. They estimated that the net revenue, apart from the transport tax and after providing for adequate reserves, would be only $100,000,000 for the first year. This will increase annually.

The prosperity of Germany's railways will depend on the general improvement throughout the country. If this continues at the present rate, it will not be long before the railways, like the other sources of revenue for reparation payments, will be yielding in excess of the Dawes estimates. The recuperative powers of a great nation are astounding.

GENERAL BUTLER TO STAY.

Mayor KENDRICK of Philadelphia has confounded his critics by announcing that General SMEDLEY D. BUTLER will continue to be the head of the Police and Fire Departments of the city for three years after Jan. 1, if he can obtain leave of absence from the Marine Corps. It is for President COOLIDGE to say whether General BUTLER can be spared from the California command to which he was to be detailed in the event of being shown the door of the City Hall in Philadelphia. The President will doubtless consult the General. He is spoiling for a fight to a finish with the politicians, who would have got rid of him but for the rousing of the better class of citizens by the associated churches. General BUTLER received the news that he was to stay with a characteristic call for an advance upon the enemy: "Let's get out now and clean up this city."

There is a good deal of hard work to be done before the forces of evil are conquered. General BUTLER has taken the first line of trenches and occupied some strategical points, but it is a war in which no quarter is given and there are no discharges. The underworld, the gamblers, the bootleggers, their accomplices in the police force, and the anti-reform politicians compose an army which has its spies out in every precinct and may count many sympathizers among that class of citizens who are opposed to good government. Reform in Philadelphia always has a rough road to travel. The reformers win a battle now and then, but as soon as they move forward the enemy closes up behind them, prepared to take advantage of the first lapse in vigilance. There can never be a disbandment of the reform ranks in Philadelphia. In fact, leave of absence from the front is followed by eruptions of the wicked.

But time should work in favor of General BUTLER. The political freebooters could look with complacency upon an enlistment for a year. It would soon pass, and when his back was turned they could come into their own. But an engagement of three years more must give the politicians pause. All the decency in the community is behind Mayor KENDRICK and his field general. The mass meeting of protest in which the cry of "On to the City Hall!" was raised has not been forgotten. It seemed to be a toss-up whether General BUTLER would stay or be discarded. He had made mistakes of leadership, blunders in tactics, and his breach with Mayor KENDRICK was the opportunity of an enemy that never slept. But the voice of public opinion was all-potent. And BUTLER, who had made his peace with the Mayor, receives a new commission. The physical and the moral courage of these allies is of a character that should command success in the decisive battle to "clean up" Philadelphia.

SPEEDIER JUSTICE.

By a few changes in the rules the conference of Senior Circuit Federal Judges hopes to lessen delays in the conduct of business in the Federal courts and deflate their swollen calendars. The Federal District Judges have been notified of these proposed changes by Chief Justice TAFT, Chairman of the conference, who believes that the new rules would have the desired effect of quickening the dispatch of business. The suggested rules are four. If a case that might have been tried within a given year hasn't been, notice of the opening of the first term of court after the next Jan. 1 will be sent to litigants and counsel thirty days before that opening. If no step has been taken in the case, the court, on the first day of the term, shall dismiss it. That ought to stir up the laggards. Another rule would shut off the continuance of cases to another term of court by consent of counsel.

These gentlemen have no business to have or to pretend to have "other engagements." Plausible and convenient excuses are not to be accepted. Only substantial, imperative reasons, supported by affidavits, will justify a continuance. The courts are asked to make more frequent stated times to hear notices and settle issues. Postponements should be granted only on the same rigid terms that apply to continuances. Finally, the fruitful suggestion is made that, to avoid the tedious process of selecting a jury, the District Judges shall themselves examine the proposed jurors. If counsel on either side wish to go beyond the Judge's inquiry into the qualifications of a juror, the additional questions to be asked must be submitted to the Judge, at his discretion. For Judges and lawyers these proposals should have the weight of the experience and deliberation and authority that are their sources. To the layman they look like plain common sense.

AN OVERWORKED COMMISSION.

It seems that the Interstate Commerce Commission is overworked and underpaid in its expense account. This comes out through the appeal to President COOLIDGE of the National Industrial Traffic League for increased appropriations for the commission. Senator CUMMINS supports the request of this shippers' organization on the ground that appeals for lower railway rates are delayed in decision, and that unless valuation is completed the Government cannot compel the strong roads to distribute $100,000,000 excess earnings under the recapture clause of the Transportation act.

There is little doubt that the commission is overworked, having been given tasks which impede the work of regulation of rates. One example is the valuation work. It has been under way for a decade, and has cost $100,000,000. The result thus far is an approach to demonstration that completion is indefinitely remote, if either possible or desirable. The commission has given signs that it has wearied of the work, and it might be possible to expedite rate regulation by relieving the commission of this work, instead of increasing the waste on the futile task. Only a Philadelphia lawyer can foresee the collection of the $100,000,000 of excess earnings, after the completion of the valuation. The recapture clause is the sanction of the compulsory consolidation clauses, which are not in as high favor as they were before the election. Permissive consolidation has gained what compulsory consolidation has lost, and might be a quicker and cheaper method of reaching the objective than giving the commission more money instead of less work of an impossible or undesirable sort.

Thus relieved, the commission would be able to increase its efficiency of regulation of rates, already superior to the efficiency of Congress in that respect. Legislative direct action by edict has shown clearly that orders to do unreasonable things merely throw the matters into the courts and delay rather than expedite the execution of the orders. Shippers, including farmers, will find that rates can be reduced better by allowing the railways to spend liberally on betterment of their facilities than by recapture of excess earnings by what the courts might think confiscation. It would take the railways ten years of excess earnings to amass the billion dollars which they must spend each year unless they are to cripple themselves for the work of growing with the country. Under regulation of rates there is no possibility of extortion by the railways or of concealment of excess earnings. The building of the Castleton cut-off, opened the other day, reduced the excess earnings of the New York Central by $25,000,000, but it so reduced the cost of carrying coal into New England that the excess earnings will soon either reappear or will be spent in cheapening freight costs by betterment of service facilities again. The country cannot grow unless the railways are allowed to grow, as they have not grown while Congress was showing the unwisdom of its method of overworking the Interstate Commission by expensive fiats.

THE CONTAGION OF HEALTH.

Christendom has been taught that "evil communications corrupt good manners." Since SHAKESPEARE'S time the English-speaking world has had the notion that while the good is often buried in the grave, all evil that men do lives after them. In recent times the constant instruction has been to avoid contagious disease, which is everywhere in the earth in one form or another.

Dr. E. E. SLOSSON'S hint that, after all, health may also be contagious comes as news. To be sure, it is derived from a few cases of rachitis, otherwise rickets. It is reported that rats suffering from rickets due to defective diet and darkness "could be cured" by putting into their cage rats reared in the sunshine. Such "evil communication" with rickety rats it would be held under old theories could result only in harm to the non-rickety rats. But in this modern experiment the layman catches a glimpse of a new system of therapeutics.

For the present, however, it will be wise to continue to avoid contagious diseases with the same diligence; to keep all rickety children out in the sunshine; to make effort to acquire health or retain it through the contagion of exercise and observance of the rules of health. The Milbank Foundation is at the moment trying in this way to spread health in certain selected areas. Its objective is to prolong the average span of life by twenty years, and it has set out to demonstrate that this is possible. The experiment will include a half million people; 75,000 in a rural community, 200,000 in an urban community with varied industries and 200,000 in a New York City district. An intensive effort will be made to persuade these half million people to participate in this life-extension scheme, the belief being that by taking thought upon our ways of life we may add years to our lives if not cubits to our stature.

Dr. SLOSSON intimates that we may even perform the latter miracle, molding not only character but stature, determining size, shape, color, complexion and even sex. Yet it will doubtless be an achievement not of a generation but of ages. The mere suggestion of such a scientific possibility opens the way to the virtual re-creation of the vegetable and animal life on the face of the earth. But for the present it does not relieve us of the necessity of fighting the contagion of disease with sanitary provision and with daily habits of health.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Doesn't Think Himself a Columbus.

Though the Prince of WALES hardly can be called the most eloquent of after-dinner speakers, yet, even in the performance of that often arduous duty, he manages to reveal the qualities that win for him so much liking wherever he goes. Among those qualities is a certain modesty that enables him to reveal that he does not take himself and his position too seriously, but is able at times to laugh gently at both—a wise procedure, for it prevents others from doing it, as some would be apt to do in these days when royalty is more than a little out of fashion everywhere except in Great Britain and rather on probation there.

Both the Prince's modesty and his humor were illustrated at the Thanksgiving dinner in London, where he met and talked to a great gathering of Americans, including the American Ambassador. The impressions and experiences of his recent visit to the United States inevitably formed the subject of the Prince's speech, but he took timely occasion to announce that he did not regard himself as another Columbus who had discovered the New World.

This set him apart from the great majority, and perhaps from all, of our foreign guests, for it is their common custom, when they get back home after brief travels through our large land, to assume that their journeying has been through a wild and almost unknown land, and that their narratives of what they saw here are novel as well as important—in short, that they and COLUMBUS were of a kind.

The Prince did not make this amusing mistake—did not even hint that we are a different and therefore a queer lot of people, much in need of instruction. He only expatiated, gracefully enough, on the good time he had here, on the interesting things he saw, and on the generous hospitality and warm friendship he everywhere had enjoyed. So he made his usual hit with the assembled exiles, and did it just by being his simple, unassuming self.

Why the diners laughed when he referred with pleasure to his visit to our Museum of Natural History is mysterious. It must have been because of some joke unknown here, for that institution is capable of giving pleasure as well as edification to anybody of sense and intelligence, and the Prince of WALES has both.

Surprised as Well as Grieved.

WJZ, being the broadcasting station of the Radio Corporation of America, which is or comes pretty near to being the king-pin of ethereal achievements in this country and therefore particularly interested in all efforts to extend the activities and popularity of the ARMY greatest married should receive, in the persons of the station managers and announcers, a stern reminder to mend its manners and to do that quickly. Friday evening, when all other stations in the United States observed the agreement to "sign off" promptly at 11 o'clock every night this week in order that efforts to "get Europe" might be made by innumerable eager amateurs with the best prospects of success, WJZ, with only the very poor excuse of giving two quite unimportant entertainers a chance to display such skill as they had, continued for many minutes to send out its powerful waves.

The station officials insist that the period of interruption was brief, from two to five minutes, but it was longer than that—twelve, according to the more cautious, and at least twenty in the opinion of the more temperamental, radio enthusiasts. Whatever the amount of time thus inconsiderately misused, it was long enough to make difficult to forgive the offense that was committed. The only other guilty station that evening on this side of the Atlantic was 9CN, up in Moncton, N. B. It, too, made trouble for the "fans," enraging some of them as they pressed their earphones desperately to all their ears, and deceiving not a few others into believing that they were "getting" sounds from across the big water.

The radio listeners in this part of the country are at least as much indebted to WJZ as to any other station for excellence of the music, speeches and informative lectures it supplies, for they are far above the average merit, but it always is harder to pardon the offenses of a valued friend than those of a mere acquaintance to whom one is indifferent. Therefore this grievance long will be held against WJZ by those whom it surprised as well as annoyed.

Our Noses Must Be Different.

Chlorine gas, as a therapeutic agent, seems to have a mysteriously selective power. That is, it seems to work with great efficacy in some places and to refuse to do anything at all that is beneficent in others. For the army doctors in Washington, for instance, the gas consented to be almost a specific for the cure of colds, influenza and several other respiratory maladies. And now it is reported that the General Electric Company has established a chlorine chamber up in Schenectady which its employes can resort to for a few hours when they feel a cold coming on or even after it has gripped them fast. And there a like success has been achieved—prompt cures resulting in 75 per cent. of all cases treated and marked improvement in the others.

Down here in New York, for some reason or other, no worth-while effects from the administration of chlorine gas have been noted by our municipal health authorities. They tried it at two special clinics, but soon gave up the plan and sent out a most discouraging report on it.

The difference, of course, is deeply mysterious. Substances like chlorine are expected to pay no attention to geography, and everywhere to act in the same way. But chlorine evidently is an exception. It will cure colds in Washington and Schenectady, but here it just sits backs and says, "Nothing doing!"

It would not be safe, naturally, to ascribe the behavior of the chlorine cure in this city to the failure of the metropolitan doctors to find out how to use it before they made their experiment, and still more dreadful would it be even to hint that they wanted it to fail, and therefore carefully avoided what they knew to be the right way to administer it. Yet such things have been rumored before as occurring in medical circles, and, as everybody knows, the cynical and the suspicious delight in inventing baseless charges against good and great men.

These Questions Must Be Momentous.

One might think that the Church of England's House of Clergy could find at this time problems more in need of solving than those upon which its members for several days have fixed their powerful minds and massive intellects. However, it is to be presumed that the reverends know their business and have a sense of proportion, so it must really be that their time is well employed when the result is a decision that, though women must wear wedding rings, men need not ornament themselves thus unless they want to do so and can afford it.

In the other question with which the House of Clergy has been struggling—the question whether or not women shall be obliged to promise to obey their husbands—even the laity can see interest if not much more than academic seriousness. In that matter the grave verdict has been that the word "obey" shall be eliminated from one of the two paragraphs in the marriage service where it has had place, but shall remain in the other one.

A reason for that can be glimpsed—it is less sinful to break one promise than two, when neither is to be kept.

Joseph Jefferson's Letters.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In association with the sons of the late Joseph Jefferson, I am preparing a brief avocation of the great comedian as seen through his correspondence. If any of your readers possess letters from Mr. Jefferson, I hope they will do me the favor of communicating with me, care of P. O. Box 38, Madison Square.

MARGUERITE MERINGTON.

THE MOORS AND SPAIN.

Have you forgotten Tarik, O Granada,
Who freed you from the rule you did detest?
And have you buried Abdurrahman—he,
Magnificent and just, who gave you peace;
Who taught Alphonso, he you called The Learned,
What he revealed of wise philosophy?
And was't a blessing or a curse, that rule
Which gave you the Alhambra and the hall
You name Abencerages?—where I've knelt
Upon the marble floor and raised my eyes
To columns springing to a sculptured maze
Of gold and blue, and such a hue of rose!
Ah, Spain! Within your land of sun and wine
I've seen such grace of tint and vaulting line
Left by these selfsame Moors you now assault—
And not on Spanish soil, but on their own—
To bloodiest issue. Care not now that these,
Invited, aye, to stem the Visigoths,
Made thy Cordova centre of the world,
Supreme in art, in science and in learning,
And left pure gems in transit, such as now
You proudly wear as jewels on your breast?
But if not, then of this at least of thee
We plead thy boast of full Christianity.

GEORGIA FRASER.

AN ADVISER OF CLEVELAND.

The Late Charles S. Fairchild's Services to the Nation Are Recalled.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The death of former Secretary Fairchild, who had long survived his chief, President Cleveland, and all his colleagues, removes a man who was really an exceptional character in the history of his time. The Cabinet of which he was a member was naturally a very important one, as it was the first chosen by a Democratic President after the close of the Civil War. Naturally, a great deal was expected and much had to be done in order that it should fairly gain and hold the confidence of the country.

Mr. Fairchild entered into the official Cleveland circle as an Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, with Daniel Manning as his chief. The latter was never an applicant for this dignity, as indeed his associate was not, but both naturally and normally came into their work, Manning's party position in New York and his relation to the President-elect made it almost inevitable that he should remain as a close adviser when the Governor of New York went to Washington as President. Mr. Fairchild's position was more of a gradual growth. Never a party leader or manager, he had been State Attorney General under the Tilden régime, in which his father was one of the principal leaders.

So far as Mr. Fairchild himself was concerned, he never could be considered as a man of undue or extravagant ambitions. Whatever he became he grew into it almost as naturally as the night follows the day. He was young, active, though never aggressive in local or State politics; known to be a student of intelligence and character, with a thorough fidelity both to the men and the principles with which he was associated. It was perfectly natural upon Manning's retirement because of ill health that he should become Secretary of the Treasury, in which he served a little more than half of the first Cleveland term; but, whatever his place, from the beginning he had the confidence of his chief. He simply took his place and that was the end of it, and in it he carried out the policies of his chief, of his predecessor and of his party.

In addition to the large duties incumbent upon him, he had everything that could be named both to help him and to keep him in the right way, and from this he never swerved for a moment. Whatever was to be done that had any relation to safe and sound finance, Charles S. Fairchild was there ready to do it. Whenever it was necessary to combat the heretical element which was then very strong in modern finance Fairchild was able and ready to do it. There was no shock, no hitches in policy or men to jar the public confidence, so that all agreed in principle, and the transition from one head of the department to another was deemed natural and inevitable.

From the opening of the Administration Mr. Fairchild was familiar with every in and out of its financial policy. All his inclinations were to quiet methods, without any tendency to anything selfish, sensational or partisan, so that he was always ready for everything that might arise. No more fortunate selection has been made by any President for the work with which he was entrusted.

After his retirement Mr. Fairchild came to New York, where, without making himself pushful or active, he became the adviser not only of his former chief but of his party in general. It was perfectly well known that he was not a candidate for any elective or other office, that nothing could induce him to go into active politics or to become an aggressive force in the political life of the day. He gave some little attention to his profession, but entered at once upon an active banking business that grew naturally out of his former connections.

It so happened that I had an opportunity to know how closely he kept up with such things and how practical he was in dealing with them. In 1893, when Mr. Cleveland was selecting a Cabinet for his second Administration, the great question that then confronted the country was that of free silver. Upon this the President had taken such a positive stand and had so appealed to the imagination of the country that he was elected by an overwhelming, even an unexpected, majority. The great mass of the people of the country hardly realized what a strong position he was in after four years of quiet. Among other policies that were proposed was the re-enactment of the repealed Bland law, which had provided for the compulsory coinage of so much silver each month. While this making of the Cabinet was in process, a movement sprang up in the West in favor of the re-enactment of the old law to take the place of the Sherman act, which had superseded it. Strong representations were made to the President that this was the best, cheapest and easiest way out of a dilemma.

A very strange thing then happened when, for the first and only time in his whole career, the President-elect seemed to hesitate, a fact which he happened to communicate to me one day. This seemed to me one of the most dangerous turns that the then existing situation could take. Seeing Mr. Cleveland every day and knowing how contrary this solution was to his own better judgment, I sought for some way to ward off the blow. It occurred to me that the way to do this was to go at once to Mr. Fairchild, tell him what was in the wind, and to ask and take his advice.

I called upon him one afternoon on my way home, told him the story and at once had from him the judgment that this was the most cunning and dangerous thing that the silver people had proposed. It was then agreed that the only way to meet it was not by argument with the President-elect himself but publicly and openly. I arranged to go to his house the following day and took from him a statement setting forth the dangers of this method of dealing with a vital question. This was to be printed in a half dozen newspapers of which I was then a regular correspondent.

When I returned to Mr. Fairchild the following day I took from his dictation the proposed statement. It was about a column in length and every word was taken in longhand just as he had dictated it. It was published in all my papers within three or four days, and from that day to this nobody has heard of the proposition to tinker with the silver question on the old lines. That it was finally settled as the President really wanted it was largely due to the foresight, the knowledge and the courage in a crisis of Charles S. Fairchild.

GEORGE F. PARKER.
New York, Nov. 27, 1924.

Indiana's Land Grant College.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In an editorial entitled "Land Grant Colleges" in THE NEW YORK TIMES of Nov. 17, the statement is made that the land grant college is associated with a private institution in Indiana. Purdue University is the land grant college of the State of Indiana, and is not a private institution. It is supported by a State mill tax. Trustees are appointed by the Governor of the State. Purdue is the name of the founder of the institution, which was afterward designated by the State Legislature as a land grant college. The State took over the land grant and in turn obligated itself to Purdue University.

WILSON JURY PICKS WINNER OF $25,000

RECIPIENT IS NOT NAMED

President Norman H. Davis, on Return From South, Will Announce Identity.

The first annual award of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, amounting to $25,000, will be bestowed this year for "meritorious service of a public character tending to the establishment of peace through justice." This decision was reached some time ago by the Board of Trustees and was disclosed yesterday when the foundation announced that the jury of award had completed its deliberations in Boston and had forwarded a decision to Norman H. Davis, President of the foundation. The name of the recipient will be made public when Mr. Davis returns from the South next week.

The foundation was created two years ago by public subscription in recognition of the national and international services of the late President, "who furthered the cause of human freedom and was instrumental in pointing out effective methods for the cooperation of the liberal forces of mankind throughout the world."

Dr. Charles W. Eliot, President Emeritus of Harvard University, was Chairman of the jury which picked the winner from many nominations received from every corner of the world. The other members of the jury were: Florence E. Allen, Supreme Court Judge, Cleveland, Ohio; Dr. James R. Angell, President of Yale University; Mrs. Dorothy Canfield Fisher, author, Vermont; Raymond B. Fosdick, lawyer, New York City; David F. Houston, ex-Secretary of the Treasury, New York City; Thomas W. Lamont, banker, New York City; Henry Noble MacCracken, President of Vassar College; Ida M. Tarbell, author, New York City.

According to the by-laws of the foundation, the Board of Trustees is empowered from time to time to determine, in view of prevailing conditions, the sort of service most deserving of recognition. In addition to the service in behalf of peace through justice, awards may also be made for service "to democracy, public welfare or liberal thought."

The personnel of the present Board of Trustees is: Norman H. Davis, President; Tasker H. Bliss, Vice President; Mary E. Woolley, Vice President; Mrs. Katrina Ely Tiffany, Secretary; Edwin A. Alderman, Samuel Gompers, Hamilton Holt, Ernest M. Hopkins, William J. Mayo, Henry Morgenthau, George W. Norris, Franklin D. Roosevelt, William B. Scott, Mrs. May Ladd Simonson and William Allen White.

JAPANESE VISIT RUMANIA.

Official Mission Investigates the Oil Situation There.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 28.—An official Japanese mission, including Masaji Yamagochi, director of the Nippon Petroleum Corporation, and a number of geologists, arrived in Bucharest today to study the Rumanian petroleum situation. The authorities are arranging for an extensive trip over the oil fields.

Commenting upon the visit, the press says that "foreseeing an inevitable conflict with the United States, the Japanese Government is anxious to be assured of its sources of oil supplies. Hence its greatly increased interest recently displayed toward Turkey's and Rumania's oil fields."

In view of difficulties with American and British companies over the recent mining legislation, it is understood that the Government would welcome the entry of Japanese capital into the Rumanian petroleum industry. It is also considered that the friendship of Japan might be valuable in any possible future trouble with Russia over Bessarabia.

Rumania's petroleum production is still increasing. The month of November is expected to establish a new record, with production exceeding 1,250,000 barrels.

INCURABLES' HOME LEGACY.

The Home for Incurables, 183d Street and Third Avenue, receives the bulk of the estate of Charles Ross Keen of 417 West 120th Street, according to his will filed for probate yesterday.

"This I do," Keen stated in his will, "as a mark of appreciation of the kindness of the management of that institution when my father was in distress and needed hospital care. I particularly appreciate the kindness of the medical superintendent, Dr. Smith."

Mr. Keen had left his estate to Ella G. Gulles, who was named as executrix, but she died before he did. The will provided, however, that in the event of her death the Salvation Army should receive $1,000 and the Home for Incurables the residue. The value of the estate was not disclosed.

RULES ON LIBEL SUIT.

A decision in the Supreme Court dismissing a suit of Henry Woodhouse against The New York Evening Post, Thomas W. Lamont, Edwin F. Gay and Gordon Lamont for $1,000,000 damages for libel was reversed by the Appellate Division yesterday on the ground that the article on which Woodhouse sued was libelous per se.

The Appellate Division pointed out that the publication by the newspaper of an account of the plaintiff's activity in connection with raising a fund for the Aero Club was "susceptible of the meaning that as the story of the life of the plaintiff contained a crime of which the plaintiff was convicted, so the story of the fund contains a crime." Since Woodhouse denies this, the court rules that it is libelous.

HARVARD FACULTY CHANGES

Professor Powell of Columbia to Join Law School Staff.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 28.—The Harvard law school has gone to Columbia University for a Professor of Law. It was announced today that Thomas R. Powell, Professor of Constitutional Law at Columbia, would join the Harvard Faculty next September. Resignations announced today were those of Professor Herbert W. Smyth as Professor of Greek, and Richard Appleton as Secretary of the law school. Professor Smyth was made Professor Emeritus.

DEBUTANTES' FETES AGAIN HOLD SWAY

MISS STODDARD PRESENTED

There was a continuation of entertaining for the younger element of society yesterday afternoon and night. Many of the débutantes during the afternoon were at the reception held by Mr. and Mrs. Richard de Wolfe Brixey in their apartment at 820 Park Avenue, to introduce their daughter, Miss Doris Marguerite Brixey. Mrs. Benjamin L. Winchell was at the tea table.

In the receiving party with Mrs. and Miss Brixey were the Misses Betty Stoddard, Barbara Schieffilin, Helen Tefft, Josephine Scott and Constance McCann of New York, Betsy Farnum and Eleanor Joyce Sewall of Philadelphia. At the tea table were Mrs. Xavier M. Aulbert, Mrs. Lyman Hine, Mrs. Clyde Porter Shannon, Mrs. Charles Burnham Squier and Mrs. Frederick W. Anness.

After the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Brixey gave a dinner at Pierre's for the receiving party. The additional guests were the Misses Patty Pease, Mimi Brokaw, Mary Chester, Kathryn Murchison, Rhoda Low and Elaine McAlpin; George Grant Mason Jr., Henry Olmstead, Cormo Wood Lee Jr., Henry Scott, Arnold Wood Jr., Hunt Smith, Elliott Schieffelin, Robert Ryle, Carroll Thomas, J. Stewart Barney, Putnam King and Thayer Thorndike of Boston; Charles Talcott of Hartford, William Morris of Philadelphia, James Mitchell of Washington, William Adee, Clifford Brokaw Jr., Donald Williams, Austin Smithers, Curson Taylor and John Thomas.

Supper Dance for Miss Stoddard.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Brixey joined those at the supper dance given also at Pierre's by Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Stoddard, to introduce their daughter, Miss Betty Stoddard.

Mr. and Mrs. Stoddard's guests included 500 of their friends, among whom were débutantes of this season and last, also young men at home from school and college for the holiday. Among the girls were the Misses Jean Banks, Lois Wormall, Elsie Hoguet, Louise Hamlin, Emilie Bushnell, Helen Curtis, Cornelia Mackenzie, Dorothy Iselin, Mary Smedberg, Josephine Scott, Natica Nast, Caroline Curtis, Alice Post, Jane Watson, Margaret Brooks, Edyth Elliman, Betty Franklin, Mary Brokenridge, Katherine Garrison, Florence Havemeyer, Helene Edmunds, Alice Dodge, Eleanor Sparks, Katherine Potter, Zella Lentilhon Crook, Mildred Davis, Rita Delafield, Jennet Lloyd, Mary Hand, Lucy Gurnee, Mary Nicholson, Katherine Lapsley, Lydia Dadmun, Jane Hamilton Brady, Theodora Thorpe, Eleanor Fitz-Gerald, Bay Morris, Helen Russell, Lily Halsey, Aliph Whitehead, Eva Taylor, Marian de Gay, Elsie Bemhard, Helen Train, Frances Riker, Molly Boocock, Edith Colby, Mary Nettleton, Julia Crawford, Alice Morice, Eleanor Pettinos, Hope Iselin, Charlotte Vanderlip, Betsy Varnum, Zella Merrill, Eleanor Barry, Grace Sergeant, Julia Buckland, Lucy Brown, Elsie Robinson, Molly Angel, Lucy Kellogg, Bertha Bates, Fanny Wickes and Katherine Douglas.

Dr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Read Norton gave a dinner and dance last night at the Colony Club to introduce their daughter, Miss Bertha Weightman Norton. Receiving with the hostess and her daughter were Mrs. William A. Read and Mrs. Richard Waln Mains, the latter of Philadelphia.

Among the dinner guests were the Misses Phyllis Thompson, Helen Runkle, Emily Lincoln, Florence Norris, Carolyn Parker of Hartford, Priscilla Dodge, Elizabeth Holter, Jane Read and Elizabeth Carter. Also Duncan and Bayard Read, David Richardson, Theodore H. Price Jr., Henry S. Taylor, Ryland Sizer, Jarvis Meirs of Philadelphia, Douglas Debevoise, W. Stanton Barbour, John Kellogg, Walter Stearns, Frederick Gallatin Hoppin, William Van V. Lawrence and Albert Francke.

Guests at the dance included many of the older friends of Dr. and Mrs. Norton as well as the younger people who went on from the dances of the night.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McAllister Lloyd Jr. gave a dinner last night at Pierre's for their débutante sister, Miss Jennet Remsen Lloyd. Their guests included the Misses Muriel Wurts-Dundas, Alice Parsons and Paula Murray; Dexter Hawkins, Robert Canter, Lucius Wilmerding Jr., Henry Mali and Franklin Vilas. After dinner the young people attended the various débutante dances of the night.

Luncheon for Miss Jones.

Mrs. F. Robertson Jones gave a luncheon yesterday at the Cosmopolitan Club for her débutante daughter, Miss Eleanor Robertson Jones. The guests included the Misses Suzanne Armstrong, Mildred Fahnestock, Lucy Brown, Matilda Fowler, Cornelia Burchell, Mary Gallard, Elizabeth Carter, Marian Gray, Priscilla Chisholm, Christine Hayes, Colette Combemale, Lilly Halsey, Florine Dana, Helen Hooker, Christine Davis, Barbara Loines, Katharine Douglas, Marian Leary, Pauline Emmet, Rose Milmine, Emily Floyd, Alice Parsons, Roberta Roelker, Anna Roosevelt, Friede Smidt, Josephine Stetson, Helen Stokes, Theodora Thorpe, Nancy Wilson, Katharine Walker and Dorothy Wilmerding.

Mrs. Charles M. Wales and Mrs. Randolph E. Brown of Englewood gave a luncheon at Pierre's yesterday for their daughters, Miss Betty Wales and Miss Eleanor Brown. The guests included the Misses Alice Hall, Pauline Duryea, Mary McCall, Olive Bladwin, Mary Chamberlain, Beatrice Hall and Mrs. Walter M. Thomas.

Mrs. Charles B. Curtis of Litchfield, Conn., gave a reception at the Colony Club yesterday afternoon to introduce her granddaughter, Miss Caroline Cary Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Eliot Curtis of this city. Those who received with the débutante were the Misses Edith Wood, Mary Wood, Evelyn Eliot, Frances Chisholm, Charlotte Benjamin and Anne Petrasch.

Mrs. Mather Cleveland gave a small dinner last night at Sherry's for her sister, Miss Evelyn M. Colgate, the party going later to the supper dance which Mrs. James Colby Colgate gave at 270 Park Avenue for her daughter.

Mrs. Eric S. Hatch entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Lido-Venice. Among her guests were the Misses Lillian S. Bostwick, Katherine van Heukelom, Henrietta Erhart, Muriel Wurts-Dundas, Marian Wilson, Beatrice Rhodes, Lucy Gurnee, Edyth Elliman, Louisa Wilson, Paula Murray, Eleanor Sparks, Florence Havemeyer and Kathleen Hayward.

Miss Millicent Barnard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Barnard, gave a luncheon yesterday at the Lido-Venice for Miss Helene Edmonds. Some of the débutantes attending were the Misses Maude and Michele Bouvier, Elsie Benkard, Elaine McAlpin, Helen Train, Elizabeth Worthington Bull, Elizabeth Schroeder, Helen Curtis and Mary Merrill.

There will be another round of entertainments for débutantes this afternoon and tonight. Mrs. William G. Low Jr. will give a reception with dancing this afternoon at the Park Lane to introduce her daughter, Miss Rhoda Low. At Inisfad, Manhasset, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas F. Brady are giving a dinner followed by a ball for their débutante niece, Miss Jane Hamilton Brady, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Cox Brady. For the convenience of some of their young friends in New York Mr. and Mrs. Brady have arranged to transport them to Inisfad by motor buses which will leave 910 Fifth Avenue at 8 and 9 o'clock.

Mrs. Frederic Kellogg of Morristown will give a dinner tonight at Pierre's for her daughter, Miss Darcey Kellogg, afterward taking her guests to a theatre. Later they will go to dances of the night. At the Colony Club Mr. and Mrs. Walter Douglas will introduce their second daughter, Miss Katherine Douglas, at a large dinner, the guests to include many débutantes and after it there will be a dance in the ballroom of the club. Another dinner of tonight will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin O. Holter at 150 East Seventy-third Street for their débutante daughter, Miss Elizabeth Sage Holter.

SOCIAL NOTES

New York.

The marriage of Miss Marion Hoffman, daughter of Mrs. Charles Frederick Hoffman and the late Mr. Hoffman, to Aymar Johnson, a son of Mrs. Bradish Johnson and the late Mr. Johnson of this city, will take place today at noon in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. A reception and wedding breakfast will follow at the Ambassador.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Horace Harding tonight at their home, 954 Fifth Avenue, will give a dinner and dance for Miss Marion Choate and their son, Charles Barney Harding, who will be married next Wednesday in St. Bartholomew's Church. ALVA C. DINKEY JR. MARRIES ACTRESS

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 28.—The marriage today in Chicago of Alva C. Dinkey Jr., son of the former President of the Bethlehem Steel Company, to Mary Gayer, an actress, whose stage name is Marcia Byron, was confirmed tonight by Mrs. Dinkey, mother of the bridegroom, at her St. David's home.

Mrs. Dinkey said that she and the boy's father both knew Miss Gayer well, had entertained her several times and heartily approved of the wedding. The marriage took place in Chicago, she declared, because young Dinkey is employed there as a blower in the blast furnace department of the Illinois Steel Company, having resolved, since his graduation several years ago from Lafayette College, to work his way up in the steel business.

Though the marriage license was issued to "Mary Gayer," Mrs. Dinkey declared she had known the girl only as Marcia Byron, but explained that this was probably her stage name. Her home, she said, was originally in Baltimore, but she moved to New York when left an orphan some years ago. She is 25 years old, while the bridegroom is 29. None of the family attended the ceremony, having been prevented from so doing by the ill-health of the senior Mr. Dinkey. Mrs. Dinkey expressed the hope, however, that the couple would visit Philadelphia on their honeymoon.

Wed to W. Ryland Scott in Church of the Epiphany.

The marriage of Miss Katharine Cauldwell, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. S. Milbank Cauldwell of this city, to W. Ryland Scott, son of the late Dr. and Mrs. J. McPherson Scott of Hagerstown, Md., took place yesterday afternoon at the Church of the Epiphany, Lexington Avenue, at Thirty-fifth Street. The Rev. Stanley Brown-Serman officiated.

Mrs. L. Emmett Holt Jr. of this city and Baltimore was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were the Misses Pauline Cauldwell, sister of the bride; Phoebe Helmer, Janet Marchant and Elizabeth Williams of Newton Centre, Mass. Norman B. Scott was his brother's best man. The ushers were David W. Guy, Robert Snively, Hall Kirkham of Rochester and H. Seymour Colton.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Edward Milton Foote, 119 East Fortieth Street, uncle and aunt of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Scott will make their home in Mexico City, where he is in business.

Entertains Her Bridal Attendants.

Miss Laura Detwiller gave a luncheon yesterday at Pierre's for her bridal attendants and additional guests. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Detwiller of 580 Park Avenue, and her marriage to Paul Speer will take place this afternoon in the Chapel of St. Bartholomew's Church. The wedding will be followed by a reception at Sherry's.

TELLS OF BIG GAINS IN STATE EDUCATION

PRIVATE SCHOOLS GIVE WAY

Societies Warned to Discard Narrow Policies—Bishop Harris to Be Heard Today.

Private education, both higher and secondary, is giving way to instruction under State control, said Dr. John Martin Thomas, President of Pennsylvania State College, in an address yesterday before the sixteenth annual session of the Interfraternity Conference at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

The geographical centre of education, Dr. Thomas said, is moving westward, and no national fraternity can afford to ignore State colleges and universities. "The time may come," he continued, "when Harvard and Columbia and all the other distinguished colleges of the Northeastern section of America will play as small a relative part in the collegiate educatin n of the nation as the historic academies of the same section now play in secondary education. There are now 15,000 free public high schools in America. A hundred years ago there were no public schools of secondary grade; now we are building one a day, and many of them exceed in cost the entire plant of some colleges.

"The tendency is strongly toward increase in public education and comparative decrease of education under private control. From 1890 to 1919 the attendance at private colleges and universities increased 118 per cent., a remarkable growth. But in the same period the State colleges and universities increased their attendance 309 per cent. The property of so-called agricultural colleges has doubled in ten years and their annual income quadrupled. They are now enrolling more than 200,000 students a year.

"The fraternity world cannot afford to be indifferent to the expansion of higher education. No fraternity claiming to be national can keep the geographical centre of its chapters west of the Alleghanies or ignore the State colleges and universities. If it adopts such a provincial and prejudiced policy it will find in a few years that it is outside the main stream of the educational life of the nation."

More than two hundred delegates representing fifty-seven fraternities from 100 colleges and a score or more prominent educators were present at the conference. A. Bruce Bielaski of New York is Chairman.

Dr. Harry E. Mock, a Chicago physician, submitted a report on college hygiene and sanitation, the result of questionnaires sent to colleges and universities, which showed that only 25 per cent. make a thorough physical examination of the students.

The session will be continued today, among the speakers being Bishop Robert L. Harris of New York. It is expected that several national fraternities will be formed today.

Representatives of 100 local fraternities also met yesterday at the Hotel Pennsylvania for the second annual Interlocal Fraternities Conference.

MISS HOFMANN DEBUTANTE.

Josef Hofmann Plays at Reception He Gives for Daughter.

Gavrilov, the Russian dancer, danced to music played by Josef Hofmann, the pianist, at a reception given by Mr. Hofmann for his daughter, Miss Josefa Hofmann, at Gavrilov's studio last night. Earlier in the evening Mr. Hofmann gave a dinner for his débutant daughter at Pierre's.

As Mr. Hofmann played music by Chopin, Rachmaninoff and Schumann, Gavrilov danced. Among those present were Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt and her daughter, Lady Paul Dukes; Mrs. William Adams Delano, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Miss Fanny M. Cottenet, Rawlins L. Cottenet, Mr. and Mrs. Serge Rachmaninoff, Mme. Lucrezia Bori, Mme. Alma Gluck, Miss Grace Moore and Mrs. Monroe Robinson.

DENIAL BY COUNT MORNER.

Not Reconciled to Peggy Hopkins Joyce, He Says.

Count Morner said yesterday that a story published in THE NEW YORK TIMES on Thursday last that he had become reconciled with his wife, Peggy Hopkins Joyce, and that the couple were about to enter the movies was erroneous.

The Count denied that he and the Countess had made up and were living together at his apartment at 24 East Fifty-second Street, adding that he was living at 8 Fairway Close, Forest Hills, Queens. Count Morner said he had entered business and had no idea of a moving picture career.

Son In Sydney C. McCall's Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Clement McCall are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son last Wednesday at their home, 138 East Thirty-sixth Street. The child will be called John Augustus McCall after his grandfather, the late John McCall, for many years President of the New York Life Insurance Company. Mrs. McCall is the former Miss Katharine Adams, daughter of Mrs. Avon Franklin Adams of 150 East Fifty-second Street.

Gives Reception to Prince Kadgar.

J., will be held in Calvary Episcopal Church, Fourth Avenue and Twenty-first Street, at 10 o'clock Monday morning. Miss Hewitt is survived by a sister, Miss Sarah Hewitt, and two brothers, Erskine and Edward Ringwood Hewitt. The Princess Virgo of Denmark, formerly Miss Eleanor M. Green, is her niece.

MANY NEW NAMES IN 1925 SOCIAL REGISTER

Its Statistics Show Women in Society Stand Pressure of Life Better Than Men.

That very necessary book of reference for society, the Social Register for 1925, has been delivered to its subscribers in alphabetical order, the first numbers having been distributed on Nov. 20, the earliest date since pre-war days. This was accomplished in spite of the unavoidable delay through the listing of many new telephone exchanges and the consequent changes in telephone numbers.

An interesting change in the character of the book, which does not deviate greatly from preceding years, is the addition of new clubs, notably that of the Junior League. Since that organization has moved into its new quarters at 133 East Sixty-first Street it has arrived at the dignity of a regular club and its members now find against their names "J. L.," which gives them added importance. Their club now ranks as a social as well as a philanthropic organization.

In many instances there are changes in family groupings. Former "juniors" are now listed as débutantes, while there now are listed many whose names have not before appeared, owing to their youth. Apparently from the great number of names added there is not much chance that the ranks of New York society will be thinned at least for another generation.

Among the interesting statistics the register records that 784 persons have entered into the bonds of matrimony and there is an encouraging record regarding the general health of the community of society in that 516 deaths are recorded as compared with 569 of last year. Women in society seem to be standing the pressure of life better than men, for only 238 of them have died, with 278 men being recorded as among the dead.

The Social Register records the full names and addresses of members of prominent families grouped together with the clubs and societies to which they belong, and indicates the names of the children in order of their age, qualifying the younger children, daughters from 12 to 17 and sons from 14 to 20 as juniors.

When it is desired to seek the name of a married woman who may be remembered only by her maiden name, the column of "Married Maidens" in the back of the Social Register reveals the present married name. When married to residents of other cities, the "locater," which lists in the one alphabetical order the names in all of the twenty-four Social Registers issued by the association, indicating in which city they may be found and the head of the family under which they may be grouped.

DIES AT HIS DESK.

Oscar H. Montgomery a Produce Exchange Member 25 Years.

Oscar H. Montgomery, 60 years old, of 1,370 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, Secretary and Treasurer of N. T. Swezey's Son & Co., 224 Produce Exchange, was stricken with a heart attack yesterday afternoon while sitting at his desk and died a few minutes later.

He was talking with Louis F. W. Kahler, Vice President of the firm, when he collapsed. Mr. Kahler said that although Mr. Montgomery had not been in the best of health for the last few months he had appeared quite well yesterday. He is survived by a widow, a daughter, Mrs. Florence Halstead, and a son, Clarence.

Mr. Montgomery entered the employ of the firm thirty-five years ago as a clerk. When the firm was incorporated in 1894 he became Secretary and Treasurer, as well as a Director. He had been a member of the Produce Exchange for twenty-five years. He also was a member of the Crescent Athletic and the Pomonok Golf Clubs.

President of American Surgical Association Dies of Auto Injuries.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28.—Dr. John B. Roberts, distinguished American surgeon, died today as the result of injuries received a month ago when he was struck by an automobile. He was 72 years old.

Dr. Roberts was President of the American Surgical Association, former President of the American College of Surgeons, and former President of the American Academy of Medicine. He was Professor Emeritus of Surgery of the Graduate School of Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania, and the author of many books and articles on surgery and medicine.

George Chandler Whipple.

George Chandler Whipple, who died suddenly Thursday at his home in Cambridge, Mass., was Professor of Sanitary Engineering at Harvard University, and for the last twenty years had been a member of the New York firm of Hazen & Whipple, consulting engineers, 25 West Forty-third Street. He was at one time Chief of the Department of Sanitation for the League of Red Cross Societies and during the World War served on a special Red Cross Commission in Siberia and Russia. More recently he had been a member of the State Board of Health in Massachusetts. Among his books on sanitation the best known is "The Microscopy of Drinking Water."

Mrs. Whipple was born in Boston in 1866, and graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1889. From 1897 to 1904, he was biological expert for the Brooklyn and New York water works. He left a wife and two children. Services will be held in Appleton Chapel at Harvard at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon.

Worth W. Leland.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 28.—Worth W. Leland, aged 58 years, Vice President of the Preabrey-Leland Granite Company, New York, died at the Gibson Hotel in this city early today as the result of a sudden attack of heart disease. Mr. Leland was here on a business trip.

According to his wishes the body will be cremated at the Cincinnati crematory and the ashes sent to New York and probably later taken to New Canaan, Conn., where the widow and one son, Ernest Leland, reside. The funeral will be held here Saturday forenoon.

John L. Harper.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Nov. 28.—John L. Harper, Vice President and chief engineer of the Niagara Falls Power Company, died here last night after an operation performed last Monday. Mr. Harper, who was 51 years old, had been associated with Niagara Falls power developments since 1902 and was a recognized authority on hydroelectric engineering. He was the originator of a plan for the construction of remedial works in the upper Niagara River to distribute the flow of water over the falls and prevent uneven erosion of the famous Horseshoe Falls.

William Townsend Ropes.

William Townsend Ropes, a director in the realty firm of Horace S. Ely & Co., died last night at his home in Montclair, aged 52. He was a member of the Executive Committee of the Building Managers and Owners' Association, of which he was President in 1917-1918. He left a widow, daughter, sister and a brother, Major E. H. Ropes of the Second Engineers.

Major William G. Allen.

CHATTANOOGA, Nov. 28. — Major William G. Allen, 87, Confederate veteran and member of a pioneer Tennessee family, died here last night. He was a cousin of William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury.

EX-JUDGE LACOMBE, FEDERAL JURIST, DIES

He Succumbs at 79 Years After 29 Years' Service on the Circuit Court Bench.

COLUMBIA GRADUATE AT 17

Protege of W. C. Whitney Ably Served as Assistant Corporation Counsel After Tweed Rule.

Emil Henry Lacombe, who sat on the bench of the Circuit Court in this city from 1887 until his retirement in 1916, died yesterday in the Post Graduate Hospital. He was 79 years old, a widower, and lived with his son, Rufus Tryon Lacombe, in the Winthrop Apartments, 423 West 118th Street.

The grandfather of Judge Lacombe was a Frenchman, who fled from San Domingo on the revolutionary outbreak there a century ago. He settled in Philadelphia, but his son, the Judge's father, moved to this city and became a successful merchant of the old school type. The future Judge took his bachelor's degree at Columbia with honors when only 17, and he was so young when he received his law degree from the same university that he had to wait two years before beginning practice. After ten years at the bar his friend William C. Whitney, then Corporation Counsel, made him an assistant. It was just after the Tweed ring had tangled up the municipal finances and the contracts made during that régime were coming due. For two or three years not a court day passed without the trial of several city suits for the financial officer of the city had practically refused to pay the contracts. Questions involving intricate calculations, complicated tables of figures, searching analyses of masses of apparently unrelated items—such work as this fell to the young Assistant Corporation Counsel, and fell in the right place.

In 1877 began the extensive litigation over the condemnation proceedings for increasing the city's command over its water supply. In this Lacombe played a prominent part. He drew the Aqueduct act of 1883, which remained a model for subsequent legislation in that field. The next year, 1884, he became Corporation Counsel, the promotion being credited to Mr. Whitney, and the kind offices of the same influential Democrat, now Cleveland's Secretary of the Navy, were responsible for his appointment in 1887 as a Judge of the Federal Circuit Court. On the creation of the Circuit Court of Appeals in 1891 he took his place on that bench and remained until age compelled his resignation.

During this long service Judge Lacombe presided over some of the most important litigation of his time, much of it of the complex character requiring the thorough mastery of many facts, for which he had acquired a high reputation with lawyers. Among the cases that came before him were the Tobacco Trust case, the 80-cent gas fight, and the involved and highly technical traction litigation following the financial difficulties of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company and the New York City Railway Company. His decisions were seldom overruled, although critics of modern liberal tendencies were sometimes disposed to find the Judge too regularly on the side of property.

Two months after he left the bench Judge Lacombe became associated with the law firm of Masten & Nichols, and thereafter appeared as referee in several important actions. In 1919 he sat as a special master in chancery to pass on the claims against the B. R. T., arising out of the wreck in the Malbone Street tunnel.

Judge Lacombe was a member of the University, Metropolitan and India House Clubs, and of the Seventh Regiment Veterans Association, having served as a private in that regiment in 1862-63. Services will be held at 11 o'clock Monday morning in the First Presbyterian Church, Fifth Avenue and Twelfth Street.

NASSAU ST. SUBWAY IS URGED BY B. M. T.

PUTS COST AT $12,000,000

Pamphlet Distributed to Passengers Declares Service Has Reached Its Physical Limit.

Construction of the Nassau Street subway by the city, in accordance with its contract with the company, is advocated in pamphlets, entitled "Rush Hour Relief for Passengers on Brighton Beach and Other South Brooklyn Lines," distributed yesterday on Brighton Beach trains by the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Corporation.

The pamphlet contains a copy of a letter from Gerhard M. Dahl, Chairman of the directors of the B. M. T., to Mayor Hylan, dated Nov. 10, in which Mr. Dahl used the Mayor's arguments explaining the increased city budget to refute the Mayor's assertion that the transit companies can make profits on a 5-cent fare. The pamphlet also asks and answers a number of questions, and says in part:

"The B. M. T. lines find it necessary to appeal to passengers to aid in reducing congestion during the rush hour periods because, through no fault of its own, the B. M. T. cannot increase its service during these periods, particularly on the Brighton Beach and South Brooklyn rapid transit lines.

"Why cannot additional trains be operated on these lines in the rush hour periods?

"Because at present the B. M. T. is operating on these lines in the rush hour periods all the trains that can be operated through the DeKalb Avenue station to and from Manhattan with the facilities now provided by the City of New York.

"How can additional outlet tracks to Manhattan be provided for DeKalb Avenue station?

"By the construction of the Nassau-Broad Street subway and the completion of the Fourteenth Street-Eastern line by the city, as it contracted to do in 1913.

"The construction of the Nassau-Broad Street subway would provide two additional outlet tracks through lower Manhattan for the DeKalb Avenue station, increasing the present operating capacity through that station by 50 per cent. and thus permit three trains to be operated over the Brighton Beach, Sea Beach, Fourth Avenue and West End lines for every two that are operated at present during the rush hour periods.

"What would it cost to build the Nassau-Broad Street line?

"The estimated cost of the Nassau-Broad Street subway is $12,000,000. This line when completed will provide South Brooklyn with 50 per cent. increase in its present rush-hour service. The work could be done in three years."

DULAS ESCAPE INQUIRY.

Not to Be Examined Before Trial of Their Son's Wife's Suit.

Supreme Court Justice Lydon granted yesterday the application of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Dula to vacate a notice for their examination before trial in a suit by Mrs. Elsie Hinman Dula, wife of their son, Robert B. Dula Jr., for $250,000 damages for alienation of his affections as a result of which he left her. She is also suing for a separation decree, with $2,000 a month alimony, and is trying to collect from an alleged one-tenth interest owned by her husband in the property at the southeast corner of Forty-fourth Street and Fifth Avenue, sold to the Harriman National Bank for $2,500,000.

Justice Lydon stated that the courts do not look with favor on an examination before trial in such cases, and said that in this case "the necessity for the examination is not apparent."

ROB DEMPSEY'S HOTEL.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 28.—Three masked men early today held up the Hotel Barbara, owned by Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, taking $1,629 in cash and jewelry valued at several thousand dollars that had been deposited with the clerk for safe keeping.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Jack Dempsey expressed amazement today when informed that masked men had robbed the Hotel Barbara, owned by him, in Los Angeles.

"S'tough," said the champion pugilist, but insisted on corroborative evidence, adding: "How did they get into the safe?"

His informant could not answer that and Jack came through with this:

"If you're kidding me, I'll sock you."

Dempsey leaves for the Pacific Coast tonight.

CONEY ISLAND AWARDS.

Objections of All but Six of Forty Owners Dismissed by Court.

Only six of the forty Coney Island realty owners will get a hearing on their objections to awards allowed them for property taken over by the city for the boardwalk along the beach, and on their protests to the current assessments for taxation, which they filed in the Brooklyn Supreme Court a few days ago. Justice Benedict, who determined the amount of the awards, dismissed all of the other complaints yesterday.

The property owners contended that the assessments for taxes neutralized the amounts allowed in the awards and thus left them nothing for property taken over by the city, or, in other words, that the city had paid them by raising their assessments.

FREDERICTON, N. B., Nov. 28.—Harry Williams of Fosterville, a New Brunswick town near the Maine border, was found by a Corner's jury today to have killed Cynthia and Neotia Foster, sisters, 11 and 10 years old, who were found shot to death in his cabin Tuesday night. He was charged with murder.

CITY BREVITIES.

The Foreign Policy Association will give a luncheon at the Hotel Astor next Saturday. The subject of discussion will be "Some European Tendencies, 1924." James S. McDonald will be the principal speaker.

A demonstration of telephone operations will be given at the Army and Navy Club, 112 Central Park South, next Wednesday evening. The program will be provided by employes of the New York Telephone Company.

The Hungarian Consul General in New York announced yesterday that the next Budapest International Fair will be held from April 19 to 27, 1925. While former fairs handled only Hungarian products, the next one will display foreign merchandise.

John Cotton Dana, Director of the Newark Museum, announced yesterday that an industrial art exhibition of leather and leather products will be held in the museum in the Spring of 1925. The exhibit will cover an entire floor of the building now under construction.

Announcement was made yesterday of the organization of the Club Argentino de Nueva York, to promote firmer friendship between the United States and the South American republic. Dr. Honorio J. Pueyrredon, Argentine Ambassador to this country, and Enrique C. Hearton, Consul General in New York, are the Honorary Presidents. A luncheon will be held at the McAlpin today.

Is It Not a True Saying That None

is so deaf as those who will not hear?

If you will not use your ears, use your eyes.

Look over your own country as well as other countries, and make a list of the great men, including rulers, who have shown great capacity, not only for great movements, but for great failures.

Vanity, power and the dare-devil spirit living in the soul of man often blind him and speed him on to where he is wrecked upon the rocks of pride, prejudice and hate.

BAKERIES MERGER ATTACKED AS TRUST

Complaint 'for the Public Good' Will Be Filed on Monday With Trade Commission.

MILLERS MAKE PROTESTS

Eight Governors Also Express Opposition to the Bread Combination.

FEAR END OF COMPETITION

Attorney W. G. Marvin Believes Continental Corporation Violates the Clayton Act.

William G. Marvin of Marvin & Pleasants, attorneys, of 150 Broadway, said yesterday that as an act "for the public good" he would file a formal complaint on Monday with the Federal Trade Commission against the Continental Baking Corporation merger, recently incorporated. Mr. Marvin declined to make public the complaint in advance of its presentation to the Trade Commission, but he intimated that it would embrace the united opposition of the millers of the country against what he said was in principle a "combination in food." He said he did not propose to attack any individual of the corporation.

Mr. Marvin exhibited a number of letters from millers in the West and Middle West complaining of the merger, as well as the Nov. 26 issue of The Northwestern Miller, containing editorial comment opposing the combination, and letters to the editor of that publication from several Governors. He declared that the milling industry of the country would be found to be united against the merger and its future functioning as a "bread trust," he declared.

Bakery Stocks Continue Advance.

Most of the bakery stocks which figure in the plan of the new Continental Corporation have been rising during the last ten days. United Bakeries common closed yesterday at 153, up 1 for the day, after opening at 155. The preferred was up 1¼ points at a closing price of 113. United Bakeries is the larger of the baking units involved in the merger. Continental A common reached a new high at 111¾, closing at 111¼, up 2¼ points for the day. The preferred shares were up ⅞ at 91⅞ and the B common up ⅝ at 21⅜. All three are traded in on the Curb as "when issued" stocks.

The Governors who have expressed their opposition to the merger, according to Marvin, are Miller, are Jonathan M. Davis of Kansas, R., and Gov. Ioe of North Dakota and M. E. Trapp of Oklahoma. A letter of each of these executives is printed in the Nov. 26 issue, along with a number of other individual expressions of similar nature from millers.

Effects on Small Baker.

"The New Octopus" is the title of an article by Mr. Marvin in the same issue, in which he refers to the purposes of the Continental Corporation as stated in its certificate of incorporation, and adds, in part:

"The news of this mammoth new merger was undoubtedly very pleasant to those investors and speculators who bought the common stock of the United Bakeries Corporation within the last six months at about one-half of its present market price, or who anticipate even greater future profits on account of the profitable field for widespread exploitation of this rich field.

"To the small baker, who is honestly trying to make a living in manufacturing and selling the 'staff of life' in an open and unrestricted competitive market, however, this announcement has different significance. He knows that in organization, the purchasing agent of which has at his disposal an order for, say, 4,000,000 barrels of flour, is in a position to purchase much cheaper than he is. He knows, too, that advertising on a huge scale will draw away his customers and sharply decrease his potential market, and that the profits of his small business will not warrant an outlay for aggressive advertising competition." Further on in the article Mr. Marvin says:

Housewives Make Half Output.

"It is interesting to note from this public statement that Mr. Barber (the Chairman of the Continental Baking Corporation) realizes that one of the chief pillars of support in taking 'advantage' of the opportunities that exist is large 'purchasing power.' This large purchasing power will always be a hammer over the heads of the milliers. At the present time 50 per cent. of the baking business, done by the housewives of the country, which field Mr. Barber states his company is going actively to exploit, is a field of real profit to the miller, because the distribution of flour by sack to the housewife through the local grocery store is done at a much higher price than wholesale distribution to a large bakery corporation supplanting individual purchasers.

"There is also reason to believe that in those families where baking is done on the premises at the present time more flour per capita is consumed, because hot bread, biscuits, &c., are more palatable to the average consumer than package bread purchased at the corner grocery store, and greater amounts are therefore consumed. Certainly there seems to be no advantage to the miller in having this housewife trade supplanted by the single order of a large baking corporation. It is also interesting to note, in Mr. Barber's statement, that nothing is said about lowering the cost of bread to the public.

"I believe that the organization of this gigantic merger will stifle competition and hurt the public interests, and that it could be successfully attacked under Section 7 of the Clayton act."

The Federal Trade Commission was reported recently to have instituted an investigation of the merger.

The Fleischmann Company of this city denied yesterday that it was involved in any proposed merger. The Federal Trade Commission at Washington recently announced that the Fleischmann Company was among several companies which, it is reported, are considering the question of merging." The commission at the time said it was conducting an investigation to determine whether any of the anti-trust laws were being violated in connection with the proposed merger.

THREE PAROLED BY SMITH.

Deanhart, in for Murder, F. Hulme and A. Devito Get Clemency.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 28.—Governor Smith today extended clemency to three men now serving prison sentences for homicide.

Frederick Hulme, convicted of manslaughter, second degree, in Monroe County, who was given a five to ten year sentence in September, 1922, is to be paroled immediately.

Anthony Devito, who was also convicted in Monroe County and was sentenced in February, 1913, to Auburn prison, was the second to be freed. The third was George Deanhart, who was convicted of second degree murder in Yates County and was sentenced to from twenty years to life in Auburn prison in December, 1921.

In each instance the presiding Judge and prosecuting attorney had recommended clemency.

George Washington Missing; Martha, Worried, Starts Hunt

The police entered the search last night when Mrs. Washington, good-looking negress, called at the 104th street station and enlisted the aid of Detective James Donovan. George, a negro employe of the Street Cleaning Department, loads ashes by day and adds to his income by picking a banjo in a jazz orchestra at night. Mrs. Washington said that her husband left their home at 300 East Ninety-eighth Street after dinner Thansgiving Day, saying he had an engagement to play at a party somewhere in Long Island that night.

Mrs. Washington said that when her husband left home he wore a dark blue suit, a green and white striped silk shirt and a flowing black silk bow tie. He is twenty-nine years old, five feet and ten inches tall and weighs about 170 pounds.

SACRILEGE NOT A CRIME

The Appellate Division reversed yesterday the conviction of Abraham S. Baylinson, Secretary of the Society of Independent Artists. Baylinson was found guilty of "outraging public decency" because he permitted J. Francois Kaufman's painting of Christ surrounded by prohibition advocates to hang in the society's 1923 exhibition in the Waldorf-Astoria. He was convicted in Special Sessions on May 25, 1923.

Court's Decision Unanimous.

The decision of the Appellate Division was unanimous, the opinion, written by Justice Edgar S. K. Merrell, being signed by Presiding Justice John Proctor Clarke and Justices Victor J. Dowling, Walter Lloyd Smith and John V. McAvoy. The verdict directed that the fine of $100 imposed on Baylinson be returned. The case for Baylinson was argued by Charles A. Houston of 200 Fifth Avenue. The State was represented by Assistant District Attorney Felix S. Benyenga.

"While the work of the artist might have a tendency," said the opinion, "to create prejudice in the public mind against the acts of those who were bound to destroy what the Saviour approved (the making of wine for the marriage feast), the arousing of such a sentiment falls far short of 'outraging public decency,' of which the defendant stands convicted.

"We are unable to see anything in the picture which, through any strain of imagination, could even tend to outrage public decency. Undoubtedly the picture may be said to be sacrilegious, in that present-day mortals are portrayed as venturing to oppose their judgment as to what is right against that of Christ; but the defendant is not convicted of sacrilege or blasphemy, nor is either made a crime under any law of the State."

The opinion then described the pictures, and added that the conception of the artist may be said to be in bad taste, but such bad taste in nowise tends to outrage public decency. The word 'decency' has a well-defined meaning. Though his picture may be open to criticism, we do not think it can be said to be indecent within the usually accepted meaning of that word. The statute contemplates an act which seriously disturbs or endangers the public peace or which openly outrages public decency. Surely the hanging of the picture, even though the defendant were sufficiently connected to make him chargeable, did not disturb or endanger the public peace. Ten thousand people attended the exhibition and no single one of them, so far as the evidence showed, objected to the picture or manifested any disposition toward a breach of the peace."

Sought To Shatter a Precedent.

John Sloan, President of the Society of Independent Artists, said that the case of Baylinson had been carried to the higher court in order to shatter a precedent which might have been invoked in future efforts at censorship of artists, writers or publishers.

"This decision," he said "was a very reasonable one, and we had no doubt that if our case were properly placed we would get a reversal of the conviction. We did not feel that there had been any 'outrage of public decency' in the picture." When Mr. Baylinson was convicted, one of the three Justices of the Court of Special Sessions failed to concur in the conviction. We feel that we have done our duty to the general public in getting this unfortunate decision reversed.

"We thought that such a conviction, unfair to every artist, would result in a precedent being rooted which would become a bugaboo. Of course, the society is not going to fight for or against each member's works. We shall not form ourselves into a jury; we are merely out for open and independent exhibitions."

POLICEMAN UNDER ARREST.

Accused by His Captain of Extortion From Traffic Law Violator.

William Schwoebel, 28 years old, a mounted policeman attached to the Richmond Hill station, was arrested yesterday on a charge of extortion, made by Captain James Shevlin, in command of the precinct. Magistrate Lawrence Gresser held him in $1,000 bail for examination Monday.

According to Deputy Inspector George Haerle, Schwoebel accepted $5 and several pounds of salami from William Bender of Powell Street, Brooklyn, driver of a provision truck. Bender was stopped at Jamaica Avenue and 119th Street, Richmond Hill, by the policeman and told that he was violating a traffic law, but that it would be "all right" for $5 and some meat.

Bender turned over the money to the policeman, according to the charge, and put the piece of salami in an automobile near by, as indicated by Schwoebel. At the same time Bender recorded the license number of the machine. He reported the incident to the police authorities and they discovered, Deputy Inspector Haerle said, that the automobile belonged to Schwoebel, who was suspended from the force and arrested.

Schwoebel has been in the police department two years. His home is at 111 Smart Street, Flushing.

RHINELANDER'S WIFE DENIES SHE IS NEGRO

She Will Fight Annulment Suit by Contending That She Legally Is White.

ASSAILS CHARGE OF DECEIT

Defendant's Counsel Asserts That Bridegroom Was Not Misled as to Bride's Social Status.

Leonard Kip Rhinelander's effort to annul his marriage on the ground that he was made the victim of race deceit will be fought vigorously by his bride, formerly Alice Beatrice Jones. Her attorney, City Judge Samuel F. Swinburne of New Rochelle, made that clear yesterday.

The bride's answer to Rhinelander's complaint, which he filed in the Supreme Court at White Plains on Wednesday, will be submitted to the court on Monday. Judge Swinburne said that his client would deny she had negro blood or that young Rhinelander was misled about the social status of her family.

The lawyer said that he would produce witnesses to show that the scion of one of Manhattan's oldest families was fully acquainted with his wife's parentage. Courtship letters which the Judge said passed between his client and Rhinelander will be submitted. These missives, said the lawyer, were sometimes penned as often as three times a day. "The question of 'color,' I think I will be able to show, is discussed in these letters," said the attorney.

Contends Bride Is White.

Judge Swinburne said his client's main objective would be to prove that she was white. According to his interpretation of the New York law, Mrs. Rhinelander is legally white, inasmuch as her mother is of pure white origin.

"I shall, in filing my answer," he said, "emphatically refute the last three paragraphs of the complaint, which allege, in substance, that Alice Beatrice Jones practiced fraud to bring about the marriage by misrepresenting facts. I shall prove, too, that George Jones, the bride's father, is not a colored man. There has been printed several times the statement that in his application for citizenship papers in the Mount Vernon City Court in 1912 he put himself down as being a 'colored man.'

"It's all a mistake, that's all. Like so many other people in daily routine, he failed to read the papers as filled out by the Clerk of the Mount Vernon court. Jones had nothing to do with filling out the papers and he never read them. When finally they were presented to a Supreme Court Justice and Jones learned that he was classed as a 'colored man,' he strenuously objected, but not being of an aggressive nature he did not pursue the matter. The Clerk did not ask Mr. Jones his race. He probably saw his dusky complexion and put down 'colored man.'

"When Judge Swinburne was asked about the marriage license of Mrs. Rhinelander's sister, Emily Jones, issued under oath at Pelham in 1918, which set forth that she was "colored," he said that the actions of the Clerk had no bearing on the annulment action.

"It is only the father and mother of the bride," he said, "who will determine the race of Mrs. Rhinelander. Mrs. Rhinelander has a perfect right to call herself white, even though the allegation be true that Mr. Jones is 'colored.' Under the laws of the State of New York Mrs. Rhinelander is white because her mother is white."

Talk of Suing Elder Rhinelander.

Reports were persistent in New Rochelle yesterday that Judge Swinburne planned a suit against Philip Rhinelander, father of the bridegroom, on the ground that the affections of the son had been alienated from Mrs. Rhinelander.

"I cannot discuss that," said Judge Swinburne, "I can only say at this time that I will take every possible step to protect the interests of Mrs. Rhinelander. They lived happily together. They were happy together that week they spent in her cozy little home on Pelham Road."

The lawyer disclosed that all of the furniture which Rhinelander had put into the flat he rented in the Pintard Arms, Huguenot and Main Streets, New Rochelle, had been moved out. He said the removal was directed by Rhinelander on Wednesday night, Nov. 19. The only thing left, he said, was a Queen Anne bedstead, which Mrs. Rhinelander took to her parents' home.

Judge Swinburne said that he had heard nothing about a proposal to settle the suit out of court.

"If the Rhinelander interests want to make a settlement out of court," he said, "it is up to them to submit a proposal. Many cases are settled out of court, but as far as I know this case will not be settled that way. I shall file answer to the suit the early part of next week.

"I will enter a general denial. I also will introduce some letters into the case which should prove interesting. They were written by Rhinelander to Miss Jones during courtship, when he sometimes sent her as many as three letters a day. This question of 'color,' I think I will be able to show, is discussed in these letters.

"I will also prove that Mrs. Rhinelander's father called on the young man sometime before the wedding and pleaded with him not to marry his daughter. He told him that he had his daughter's interests at heart in making this plea, saying that the alliance must come to a bad end. He pointed out that he and his family were English working people and that there was a social gulf between his daughter and Rhinelander which could not be bridged."

RAIDED DEMOCRATS ACCUSE DETECTIVES

Members of Fourth Assembly District Club to File Charges of Oppression.

Stanley Fowler, a lawyer, announced in the Jamaica police court yesterday that charges of oppression would be brought against six detectives of the Twelfth Division, formerly the Special Service Squad, for raiding the headquarters of the Fourth Assembly District Democratic Club at 63 Union Hall Street, Jamaica, and arresting twenty-nine men.

Magistrate Lawrence Gresser dismissed charges of disorderly conduct against twenty-eight of them and held one man on a charge of bookmaking until next Thursday. At that time, counsel said he would move for his dismissal.

Detectives Harry Kutner and Russell Terwilliger testified that they entered the clubhouse and found the men talking about races and horses. On order of a detective sergeant, who was in the raiding party, Terwilliger arrested every one in the place. One of them, Joseph Brown, who lives at the clubhouse as caretaker, was charged with bookmaking. Kutner said he tapped the wires of the clubhouse and overheard conversations for two days that led him to conclude that betting was going on. Brown, he said, gave odds on horses over the telephone.

The detectives had no warrants to enter the club. They denied breaking the doors to get in, although counsel for the defendants tried to get an admission on that point.

Democrats throughout Queens are indignant over the raid. The courtroom was crowded with members of the party, many of them officials. Magistrate Gresser himself is a member of the raided club.

Special to The New York Times.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 28.—Eighteen hundred and fifty school children of Northwestern Missouri and Southwestern Iowa made a pilgrimage to Springfield today to visit the tomb of Abraham Lincoln. The visit was fostered by the Kiwanis Clubs of Springfield and Iowa and Missouri towns as a lesson in patriotism. The children traveled in three special trains.

The young pilgrims left their trains at the old Wabash station, now a freight office, from which Abraham Lincoln departed when he went to Washington to take up the duties of President. They marched to the frame house in which he lived and the former Capitol of the State where he worked, and, last, they laid a wreath on the tomb at Oak Ridge Cemetery.

The pilgrimage idea developed from a small beginning. Originally it was planned that the trip should be made by the school children of Shenandoah, Iowa, numbering 250. Other towns in the district asked to join. Finally twenty-two Missouri and Iowa towns were represented, with teachers and representatives of several civic organizations shepherding the young travelers.

Victor Ryan, who welcomed the pilgrims, made his address while standing on the tablet which marks the spot where Lincoln stood when he delivered his farewell to his neighbors as he departed for Washington Feb. 11, 1861.

Formed in columns of four and headed by a band, the children marched to the First Presbyterian Church, where Lincoln attended services and where his pew still is kept as it was when he occupied it. Thence they went to the old white frame house.

After luncheon at the high school the procession moved to Lincoln Square, in the centre of which is the old Capitol, for the planting of an oak tree, a memorial of the visit.

As the pilgrims filed slowly up the hill in Oak Ridge the sun, which had been bright all day, was darkened and a chill wind swept through the barren trees. There was little ceremony at the tomb. The children marched up the long hill three abreast, then broke into single file and marched slowly by. The wreath, laid on the tomb by Mary Louise Brower of Shenandoah, lies beside those placed there by great men and women of the world.

WOMAN RECLUSE DIES IN HOSPITAL

NO EVIDENCE OF FOUL PLAY

Accumulation of Dust Indicates That She May Have Lain Helpless for Several Days.

Miss E. Louise Hollis died yesterday morning in Kings County Hospital shortly after having been brought there from her home at 111 Decatur Street, Brooklyn. She was 50 years old and for some time had lived alone in the Decatur Street house. She was found there by police who forced their way into the house after having been notified by friends of the dead woman that nothing had been seen of her for some time.

The police found Miss Hollis breathing but unconscious, lying on the floor of her third-story bedroom. Nearby was an overturned bottle of ammonia. On account of the conditions surrounding her death, an autopsy was performed, and established the cause of death as cerebral hemorrhage. It was also found that there were several bruises on her body and that one rib was broken. Dr. Gregory Robillard, who performed the autopsy, said that these injuries probably were caused when she fell. The police of the Gates Avenue station say there is nothing suspicious about the death and every circumstance points to her having been stricken while alone.

It is not known how long Miss Hollis was unconscious in her home. Mail under the inside door in the hallway had not come downstairs after Nov. 17. A box of crackers and some apples were found on a chair near the bed. The police say a thick coating of dust was on all the furniture in the house, showing that it had not been attended to in some time.

Miss Hollis was formerly a member of several civic and social organizations in Brooklyn. A brother who died several years ago left her the house in which she lived, and another brother bequeathed her a house in Manhattan, but it is not believed that she possessed any other property. Mrs. Davis Zieley of 964 Park Place, Brooklyn, went to the Gates Avenue station yesterday after hearing of Miss Hollis's death and told the police that she was Miss Hollis's cousin and had invited her to have dinner on Thanksgiving, but had not considered it unusual when Miss Hollis did not appear as she was habitually taciturn and little was known of her life even to her relatives and friends.

The police locked the house and notified the public administrator, Frank J. Kelly. He said he would take no steps at present in settling the estate in order to allow time for the appearance of relatives. When it was thought at first that violence might have played a part in the death, Assistant District Attorney Bernard Becker was assigned to investigate.

JURY BLAMES HOMES FOR BROOKLYN CRIME

In Presentment to Court Says Parents Neglect Religious Training of Their Children.

In a presentment yesterday to County Judge Vause in Brooklyn the Kings County Grand Jury for November expressed its "amazement and depression at the prevalence of crime and criminal tendencies in the youth of Brooklyn." It declared that "in seeking an explanation of this menacing fact we need look no further than the homes which have reared them."

The jurymen said parents have shirked their responsibilities by ignoring the spiritual welfare of the children. Business and pleasure pursuits of parents have deprived their children of the right of loving companionship.

"Others, in their own defiance of law have taught their children defiance of law," the Grand Jury said. "Law-breaking homes do not produce law-abiding children. Law-breaking breeds law-breaking.

"An alarming number of children in Brooklyn are growing up with no religious training whatever. A prominent jurist (Judge E. J. Humphrey) recently declared that in his twenty years on the bench he could recall but one of the thousands of criminals brought before him who had had a Sunday school training. If this record is to be accepted at its face value it means that the arch enemies of crime are our religious institutions of whatever creed.

"What are the remedies? We are convinced that the most essential is a revaluation of religious influence in the home. The perfect home is that which trains its sons and daughters not only in body and mind, but also in the spirit. We believe the people of Brooklyn must set for themselves a new standard of fealty and devotion to church and synagogue. Let us not send our children to them but go with them and show them that we believe the things we want them to learn are worth while.

"Let us see to it that our children shall have learned the Golden Rule rather than the rule of greed. Let us see to it that they have a square deal. Join the children in their amusement seeking, and insist that their conception of life shall not be corrupted by vicious movies and filthy books.

"Gunmen, thugs and bootleggers are not made in a day. They are the product of homes where laxity and indifference reigned. The criminals of tomorrow are in our homes and schools and on our streets today, impressionable, eager to learn, looking for a hero to worship and a gang to join."

Klan Pays Negro Church Debt.

ONEIDA, N. Y., Nov. 28.—Three hundred members of the Ku Klux Klan attended services at the African Methodist Episcopal Church here last night and paid off a mortgage of $850 due on the church. The presentation was made by the Rev. R. N. McConnell of Stockbridge. Six of the Klansmen were robed but none was masked.

SEIZE TRUCK FLEET AND $100,000 LIQUOR

New Rochelle Authorities Capture a Whisky-Laden Launch and Its Crew at a Dock.

The police of Mamaroneck seized seven motor trucks, alleged to have been loaded with liquor, and arrested twenty-one men on the Boston Post Road between Mamaroneck and Larchmont early yesterday morning. The fleet of trucks was bound for New York City. The quantity of alleged liquor confiscated was valued at $100,000. The New Rochelle police seized a launch with $50,000 worth of liquor and arrested two men on the boat.

Policemen Joseph Reilling and Richard Ellingham, in an automobile, were scouting along the Post Road when they met the motor caravan. The policemen jumped out of the automobile with drawn pistols and shouted to the driver of the leading truck to stop. He complied without hesitation. The whole line of trucks came to a stop, and drivers' helpers climbed off their vehicles to find out what was the trouble. Reilling stood guard over them while Ellingham went to a telephone and asked Police Captain Edward A. Decker, Chief of the Mamaroneck police, to send help.

When additional police arrived the trucks were driven to Mamaroneck Police Headquarters.

The police recorded the names and addresses of the twenty-one prisoners as follows: Lester Lestershen, 1 Rochester Avenue, Port Chester; Moses Stearn, 7 East Forty-fourth Street, New York; Charles Sweeney, 154 East Seventy-eighth Street, New York; Charles Carter, 1,450 East 108th Street, New York; James Rich, 498 Elmdale Avenue, Port Chester; John Pierce, 521 West 159th Street, New York; John Bugi, 523 Elmdale Avenue, Port Chester; Joseph McKenna, 526 East Eighty-second Street, New York; Charles Rich, Avenue A, New York; Patsy Amitola, 113 Third Avenue, New York; John Balino, 207 Horton Avenue, Yonkers; John Saunders, 420 Gold Street, Brooklyn; Thomas Freeman, 105 Tenth Avenue, New York; Gustave Dahl, 825 Lexington Avenue, New York; William White, 2,129 Lexington Avenue, New York; Joseph Leddy, 161 East 125th Street, New York; John Ward, 66 West Ninety-seventh Street, New York; William Lyrineck, 420 East Seventy-second Street, New York; Aloha Moore, 144 West Sixty-fourth Street, New York, and Harry Kahn, 185 East Eightieth Street, New York.

The stock of liquor seized, according to the police, included gin, whisky and a little brandy, and had been loaded on the trucks on Hammitt's Road, near the shore of Long Island Sound.

Liquor valued at $50,000 was seized by the police of New Rochelle at Premium Point, where it was being loaded upon trucks from a motor launch, the Pocahontas. John Anderson and Harry Simmons, who said they lived in Brooklyn, were arrested aboard the launch.

THREE MEN CAPTURED 5 DAYS AFTER SHOOTING

Accused of Firing Into a Lunch Wagon on Staten Island, Killing One Customer.

Three men for whom the police of Staten Island have been looking since early last Sunday morning, when gunmen shot into a lunch wagon at Stapleton, killing one man and seriously wounding another, were caught in the woods near South Beach yesterday afternoon and locked up in the Richmond County Jail, charged with murder. They are Antonio De Ellia and his 22-year-old son, Dominic, of 23 Prospect Street, Stapleton, and Louis Mandina of the same address.

According to the story told by the police, four armed men early last Sunday morning invaded De Ellia's place and robbed him. Recognizing the men and knowing they frequented a lunch wagon at the corner of Cedar and Broad Streets, the De Ellias and Mandina went there armed. They were disarmed, the police say, by the four robbers and thrown out on the street. Later they returned with new weapons, the police say, and a fusillade against the lunch wagon followed.

The four robbers were unharmed, but two patrons of the place were struck by the bullets. Michael Sario of 40 Clark Street was killed and Andrew J. Fultz of 102 Wright Street was shot through the jaw and is in the hospital seriously injured.

The police arrested the four robbers, who are now under indictment. Their assailants escaped.

Lieutenant McKay said both De Ellia and Mandina said when questioned separately they had no weapons on the morning of the shooting and that the younger De Ellia had fired the fatal shots. When it came his turn, Dominic De Ellia confirmed this and exonerated the two others. The police say they do not believe the story, as shots were fired from at least two different directions. They said they believed young De Ellia had assumed the blame because his age forbids his being sentenced to the electric chair.

The three will be up for examination this morning in the Police Court in Stapleton.

MOTHER OF 17 SENTENCED.

Gets Year and a Day for Habitual Drunkenness.

Mrs. Adam Minareck of 214 Seventh Street, Jersey City, mother of seventeen children, was sentenced to a year and a day in the penitentiary by District Judge McGovern in Jersey City yesterday on charges of habitual drunkenness and neglect of her six living children.

Pauline, 18, the eldest, substantiated the charges of her father, who was the complainant against his wife. After the girl had offered to mother her five younger brothers and sisters, Mrs. Minareck was sentenced. She was unable to answer questions intelligently.

HOLD-UP NOTE FAILS IN A CROWDED BANK

WOMEN SEE A MAN SLAIN

"Shotgun Gang" Kills Sixteenth Victim—$10,000 Theft in Yonkers —Bandits Get Two Trucks.

Hold-up men and burglars engaged in a carnival of crimes of violence yesterday and on the night of Thanksgiving Day, according to reports made public yesterday. Only minor crimes were successful inside the downtown and midtown Manhattan deadlines established by the police, but criminals made big hauls in Harlem, Brooklyn, Long Island City, Westchester County and New Jersey.

In Manhattan, where the police are making special efforts to protect the public during the holiday season, a bold attempt to rob the Chelsea Exchange Bank, Broadway and Seventh Avenue, at Forty-eighth Street, which is inside the shopping district deadline, was frustrated by bank employes. An armed hold-up man of a new school, who carried typewritten instructions to the paying teller to pay him $13,000 under threat of death, had to flee the bank without a new $100 overcoat, which he flung aside to facilitate his escape.

The one successful hold-up inside the deadline netted four robbers only $65 after they knocked down a janitor in West Forty-eighth Street. A woman arrested a burglar who tried to rob her home in Fifty-seventh Street, and a woman's screams brought about the arrest of an alleged pickpocket on an elevated train at Columbus Avenue and Sixty-sixth Street.

Robbers escaped with a truckload of dog skins valued at $6,000 in Long Island City and with another truck loaded with rabbit skins in Brooklyn. A "shotgun gang" which has terrorized residents of Williamsburg during recent months killed their sixteenth victim as he was about to enter his home.

In Westchester County jewelry valued at more than $10,000 was stolen from the Yonkers home of Arthur W. Lawrence, Treasurer of the Republican County Committee. A lone robber with a gun held up a girl cashier in Portchester, and escaped with a $3,000 payroll.

Storekeeper Is Killed.

Two shootings marked hold-ups reported in New Jersey. Abraham Jaffe, a storekeeper, 58 years old, in Passaic, was shot and killed when he tried to resist robbers who held him up in his store. A Newark butcher was wounded by robbers.

The robber who tried to hold up the Chelsea Exchange Bank entered the bank shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon and took his place in line at the third window on the right as one enters from the door at Seventh Avenue. He was a young man, about six feet tall, with a dark mustache, and was dressed in the fashion of a typical young man about Broadway. He carried a natty brown overcoat over his right arm.

When his turn at the window come the robber raised his overcoat to shield his actions from the nose of the man behind him in line. Then instead of saying anything that would have alarmed the regular customers of the bank, he slipped his typewritten demands inside the opening. The first thing seen by Abraham Greengold, the paying teller at that window, was a check which read as follows:

THE BAYSIDE NATIONAL BANK—Pay to the order of .....Myself.....$3,000.00
Three thousand and no-100.....Dollars
(Signed) W. J. Robinson.

As Greengold looked up in astonishment the man outside the window whispered:

"Read the back of it; read the back of it!"

Greengold turned the check over and read the following startling message:

"My partner and I have you covered. If you move hand or foot to sound alarm you die. At 10:30 this morning we killed teller in Gotham National Bank when he tried to duck below counter and give alarm. If alarm is given we have to shoot our way out and first bullet will be yours. Step back six inches, keep eyes on counter and pay this check quickly.

"W. J. ROBINSON."

Gets Second Written Demand.

With his left hand the robber then tossed to the cage a deposit slip with the following demand, also typewritten:

There was just such a bundle at Greengold's right hand, and he turned toward it with a look of dismay.

Up to this time the hold-up plan had worked perfectly. Ten or twelve persons were in line behind the robber, possibly fifty persons were on the floor of the bank. But because of the typewritten instead of shouted orders, and because of the overcoat shield for the gun, none of the bank's employes or customers except Greengold knew that a hold-up was in progress.

Without nothing spoken by either the robber or the teller that others could hear, it was like a scene in a moving picture melodrama. It was Greengold's pantomime that saved the day for the bank. He did not dare call for help, but he could look frightened, and he did.

Lewis H. Rothchild, a Vice President of the bank, a son of Edward S. Rothchild, President of the bank, happened to walk past the front of Greengold's cage just in time to see the teller's expression change from astonishment to terror. Walking to the window to see what was the trouble, Rothchild, not yet realizing the seriousness of the situation, took hold of the supposed customer's arm in a friendly way and started to ask if he could do anything for him.

Despite his typed threat to "shoot his way out," the robber turned from the window as soon as he felt the touch on his arm and raced out of the bank without firing a shot. With one motion he thrust his pistol into his pocket and dropped his overcoat on the floor of the bank. He ran to a corridor at the back of the bank which connects with both Broadway and Seventh Avenue and dashed out by the Seventh Avenue exit.

Rothchild, Greengold and special policemen employed by the bank chased the robber as far as Seventh Avenue, but lost sight of him in the crowd. The overcoat and the typewritten messages were turned over to the police. Detectives learned that the overcoat was bought a few days ago at a clothier's on Broadway not far from the bank. The police announced that the robber could get his overcoat back by calling at the West Forty-seventh Street Station.

It is not known by the police or at the bank whether the robber actually had a partner, as he stated in his note. None of the others in the bank at the time of the robber's escape made any movement that would betray him as an accomplice. So many were present, however, that a confederate might have made his escape without attracting attention.

Three armed robbers held up the office of Gordon & Frank, painters and decorators, at 868 Tenth Avenue, and escaped with a $3,000 payroll yesterday. The office is outside of the new police deadline. The hold-up occurred five minutes after Samuel Frank had returned to his office with the money after drawing it from the Colonial Bank.

Abraham Jaffe, who was a well known merchant and an old resident of Passaic, died in St. Mary's Hospital, that city, from wounds received when he was shot by robbers late Thursday night. He was alone in his shop at 296 Passaic Street when robbers tried to hold him up. Resisting, he was shot several times. The robbers then escaped without stealing anything. Witnesses saw three men get away in an automobile.

The Jaffe shooting was the second murder in a week within a stone's throw of Passaic Police Headquarters. Detectives think that Jaffe was killed by the same three men who held up John Kucinski of 20 Passaic Street and robbed him of $71 on Thursday night. These men escaped in the same kind of an automobile seen leaving Jaffe's store. Jaffe had a wife and son.

The sixteenth victim of the Williamsburg "shotgun gang" was Frank Falco of 177 Union Avenue. Falco, who was married and had six children, left his home yesterday morning to go to work. At Union and Metropolitan Avenues he was attacked by a gunman who jumped from an automobile. The gunman was accompanied by another man, who held two women out of the way while the man with the shotgun emptied both barrels at Falco. When Falco fell, the slayer threw away his shotgun and, with his companion, returned to the automobile. The driver meanwhile had turned around in order to get clear of traffic. The three men in the automobile escaped after a chase by a policeman, who commandeered another car.

A curious feature of all the murders by the "shotgun gang" is that the murder weapon is left at the scene of the crime. Several hours after yesterday's murder the police arrested Leonardo di Vennetto, 57 years old, of 16 Jackson Street, Brooklyn, on suspicion. They said Falco and Vennetto had quarreled because of a debt owed by Falco. The police think the men who did the shooting may have been hired gunmen.

While several hundred persons looked on Patrick Cabarelli, 29 years old, of 681 Liberty Avenue, was shot five times by an unidentified man at Liberty Avenue and Elton Street, East New York, last night. Cabarelli fell to the sidewalk wounded in the chest. His assailant, threatening the crowd with his revolver, escaped. The victim was taken to Kings County Hospital, where he is not expected to live. Cabarelli, who told the police that he was a mechanic, said that the shooting was the outcome of a quarrel.

Michael Willmer, a butcher employed in a Newark poultry shop, may die as the result of bullet wounds received when robbers held up his store. He was in a serious condition at a Newark hospital yesterday from wounds in his abdomen. The hold-up was committed by three men, who, becoming nervous, also fired at Willmer almost as soon as they ordered him to hold up his hands. The robbers escaped without getting any loot.

The jewelry stolen from the Lawrence home in Yonkers was contained in a small safe, which was taken by the burglars and opened at their leisure. The robbers entered the house by a rear window while the family was at dinner.

Get a $5,000 Payroll.

Several hundred employes were being paid off in the office of Saltman & Co., at Port Chester, yesterday, when robbers raided the office. While one man stayed in the automobile and another guarded the door, a third, armed, went to the head of the line and held up the girl cashier, who was paying off the men. He frightened her with his pistol and seized a package containing $3,000 of payroll money. As he dashed out the door a stenographer seized his coat tail, but was thrown aside. The robbers escaped in their automobile.

The $6,000 worth of dog skins stolen in Long Island City were being taken to the factory of Rosenblum & Jasper at 297 Meeker Avenue, Brooklyn, to be dyed. At Hunters Point Avenue and Van Dam Street, according to the truck driver and his helper, six men jumped from an automobile and held them up at the point of pistols. Some of the robbers drove away in the truck, while the driver and his helper were taken to Manhattan in the automobile. The truck, empty, was found later. Of a truck loaded with rabbit skins belonging to the Public Fur Company of 413 Vandervoort Street, Brooklyn, was stolen by five armed robbers at Division and Vandevoort Streets, Brooklyn. The robbers drove alongside the truck in their automobile and crowded it to the curb. Forcing the driver to get down, some of the robbers took him to Newtown Creek in the automobile, while the others drove off with the truck.

Charged with committing three hold-ups early yesterday, four men were arrested later in the day in Brooklyn. The police said they belonged to a waterfront gang that has committed many crimes. One of the prisoners, Frank Burns of 489 Hudson Avenue was said by the police to be the new leader of a gang formerly headed by "Wild Bill" Lovett, who was found murdered in a shack on Bridge Street last Winter. When arrested yesterday, Burns was dressed as a woman, with a blond wig and with powder and paint on his face. He carried a loaded .45 calibre pistol, according to the police. He and his companions were caught when a policeman saw them in a taxicab acting in a suspicious manner.

Suffering from two deep cuts on his head and left shoulder received when he was assaulted and robbed, George Tiva, 52 years old, janitor of a building at 132 West Forty-eighth Street, walked into Bellevue Hospital early yesterday for treatment. He told the police that he had been assaulted by four men and robbed of $65.

Miss Mary Glover of 347 West Fifty-seventh Street was praised by Magistrate Francis X. McQuade for her courage in arresting Robert Simpson Giles, of 257 West Twenty-third Street. The Magistrate said he would recommend her for a position as a policewoman if she wanted it, pointing out that "more women like you are needed by the Commissioner."

Giles was held in $3,000 for the grand jury on a charge of attempted burglary. He was arrested by Mrs. Glover, after a chase and a struggle, when, it is alleged, he attempted to enter

SINKS DEEPEST GAS WELL.

Latrobe, Pa., Goes Down 7,428 Feet Before Drilling Yields Results.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 28.—After drilling for thirty months, engineers in charge of a test well at Longbridge, near Latrobe, yesterday struck gas at a depth of 7,428 feet, the deepest well in the world. The gas is flowing at the rate of 500,000 cubic feet a day. The engineers brought in a producer in the Oriskan sand at 6,822 feet in the same region several years ago. As that time the Oriskan sand was the deepest ever reached by a drill.

Work on the 7,428-foot well was started in 1922. At 7,000 feet the drill struck an exceptionally hard sand. Later the gas came in with such a rush that the drilling cable broke, dropping the drill to the bottom. An effort is being made to fish out the tools. The gas possesses a strong odor, like that of hydrogen sulphide, according to the engineers. The total cost of sinking the well was estimated at $290,000.

DRINKS CYANIDE BY ERROR.

Jeweler Mistakes It for Coffee Near It and Dies.

After accidentally drinking a cupful of a solution of cyanide of potassium instead of a cup of coffee, which was near it, Abraham Gerstenzeng, a jewelry repair man, who owned a shop at 15 Eldridge Street, died shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, in spite of every effort made to save him with milk, eggs and other remedies.

Nathan Rothman, a jeweler, who worked across the hall, entered the shop about 1 o'clock. Gerstenzeng told him he was very ill, and that he feared he had taken the cyanide. Rothman obtained milk and eggs and called a patrolman, who summoned a physician.

Physician Gets Bulk of Property in Will of Mrs. Barclay.

Mrs. Priscilla D. Barclay, who died May 17 last, left an estate appraised yesterday at $682,052. The will gave to her husband, James L. Barclay, only a life interest in personal effects valued at $9,800, stating that she made no further provision because he is well provided for and because he requested it.

To one brother, Ephraim W. Dixon, she left $30,000; $2,500 to another, William P. Dixon, and $251,836 to the third, Dr. George A. Dixon. Dr. Dixon also received the use of the "Dixon" and "Sloane" beds in St. Luke's Hospital. The remainder of the estate went to nephews, nieces and cousins.

Alleged Draft Enemies Cleared.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 28.—Indictments against Thomas Merschmidt, former Socialist candidate for Mayor of Cincinnati; Lotta Burke, Secretary of the Socialist Party in Cincinnati, and eleven other defendants, charging conspiracy to defeat registration under the National Selective Service act, were nolled late today by Federal Judge Smith Hicken-

SWEEPING REVISION IN INSURANCE RATES

General Level on Some Classes Will Be Increased 190 Per Cent. in This City.

EFFECTIVE FIRST OF YEAR

Losses on Owners', Landlords, and Tenants' Liability Have Mounted Rapidly of Late.

Announcement has been made of a complete revision of the rules, classifications and rates for the miscellaneous lines of public liability and property damage liability insurance by Jesse S. Phillips, general manager of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters.

The changes to become effective Jan. 1, 1925, will affect the following classes of insurance in all sections of the country: owners', landlords', tenants', theatre, residence, farm employers, elevators, teams, public liability and property damage liability.

No changes have been made in the rate for apartments, tenements, boarding or rooming houses in Greater New York, or in the rates which now apply in all sections of the country for manufacturers' and contractors' public liability insurance.

The rates for owners', landlords' and tenants' public liability insurance have been made on a territorial basis for the first time, in recognition of the fact that liability conditions within similar classes of risks differ materially in the various sections of the country.

The losses have mounted during the past few years to such an extent that the business has been carried on at a considerable loss on the basis of existing rates.

The rate level for the country as a whole will be increased 28 per cent. as a result of this revision. In Greater New York, where the companies have suffered exceptionally heavy losses, the general level of rates will be increased 190 per cent: in the remainder of the country the rate level increases will be 1.5 per cent.

On account of the constantly changing conditions in Greater New York the companies have decided to discontinue the writing of owners, landlords and tenants' insurance for a longer period than one year, thus affording them an opportunity to make changes annually.

The classification experience developed for theatre public liability during the five latest available policy years shows a total exposure of 10,180,057 seats, with total incurred losses of $540,088.

A rate differential has been established for Greater New York, where the experience indicates that conditions differ materially from those in the remainder of the country. The rate level in the country at large ouside of New York remains unchanged. In Greater New York the rate level has been increased 62 per cent., and in addition the rates have been made the same for all classes of theatres.

The rate for public liability insurance on private residences has not been changed. The rate for combined employers' and public liability has been increased 25 per cent. Additional charges will be made hereafter for private garages located on the premises with private residences of more than two stalls or car spaces in such garages are rented to others. A reduction of 20 per cent. has been made in the rate for public liability on farms and private estates.

Rates for elevator public liability insurance have been established for the first time on a territorial basis. The experience used as a basis for rate making was reported by individual classifications for the three latest available policy years and shows a total exposure of 166,521 elevators, with total incurred losses of $1,646,406. The general level of rates for the country as a whole has not been changed.

Recognition will be given hereafter to elevators provided with hoistway-door interlocks or car-gate electric contact which meet with the standards established by the bureau. The writing of elevator policies in Greater New York for a longer period than one year will be discontinued. The bureau has also established sets of rates for elevator property damage liability and elevator collision insurance.

The territorial basis for rating team risks has been retained, but the rate territories have been revised.

FRENCH SUGAR CROP LARGE.

760,000 Long Tons' Yield Is Expected to Meet All Domestic Needs.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 28.—French sugar production increased so greatly this year that it is believed there will be no need of importations. Whereas last year's production was 480,000 long tons, the total this year reaches 760,000 long tons.

It is estimated that the sugar consumption for the year will be about the latter figure.

Certain qualities of sugar are quoted today at 109 francs less per quintal than one year ago, when the price was 296 francs.

Wool Buying More Hesitant.

After doing considerable purchasing of wool for the forthcoming men's wear heavyweight lines, the mills are inclined to go slower in further purchases, it was said in the woolen goods trade yesterday. The hesitancy is held to be due to a desire on the part of the mills to curb the bidding up of wool prices on themselves. There is considerable mill resistance already to higher wool prices, which, however, are continuing upward at the wool sales which started this week at London. The mill men hold that they will have enough difficulty to sell piece goods for next Fall on today's wool market without having the speculative element a stronger factor than it now is.

Furniture Materials Advanced.

Furniture manufacturers have been advised of increases in prices of veneer and lumber, to go into effect on Jan. 1, it was said yesterday. This will probably mean an advance in furniture prices about April, when the lines for Fall buying are shown at the exposition here. At the moment, retail trade is quiet and the factories are catching up on orders. French walnut continues a favorite in bedroom furniture. In dining room furniture the Huguenot finish is coming in strongly, although the French walnut is still much favored. This Huguenot shade is somewhat darker than the latter. In parlor suites, taupe mohair is the leading item.

Sees Active Sale Period Ahead.

Although it is generally conceded that jobbers and manufacturers who sell direct to the retail trade will have very little chance of doing any real business until after the turn of the year, the feeling is growing steadily here that a period of active sales is ahead. This feeling applies to practically all lines of textiles, but it is held in certain quarters to be contingent upon a certain degree of restraint on the part of wholesalers when the demand sets in. In other words, the belief is that the coming rush of orders will result in a temporary shortage of merchandise in more than one direction, and that selling restraint will have to be exercised to prevent inflation. This, it is held, would be without real justification, and later would bring a reaction on the part of the public that might be even more upsetting to the commercial world than the so-called buyers' strike of a few years ago.

November Sales Were Helped.

The prolonged warm weather of the early Fall had its effect on business in several sections outside of the general apparel field. One of its effects was to cut down the amount of business done during October on such products as stove lining, furnace cement, &c. This was said yesterday to be due to the average householder's putting off attention to the heating apparatus to the last moment, and the lack of repairs during the warm period cut into consumer sales of these materials to such an extent that dealers were unwilling to place their usual October volume of repeat business. This trade was not lost, however, but merely transferred into the current month. Taking the two months together, it was said yesterday, the gross business done shows a notable increase over the total for the same two months of last year.

Gray Goods Trading Fair.

A fair amount of business was put through in the local gray goods market yesterday. Second hands sold quick deliveries of 38½-inch 64-60 printcloths at 9 cents, with first hands holding out for an eighth more. It was said to be probable, however, that the latter would drop to 9 cents if a large quantity were involved. First hands sold 38½-inch 60-48s at 8 cents, and they also traded in 39-inch 64-60s at 10¼ cents. Business in the sheetings was light, although there was some trading in 36-inch 56-60s at 11 cents. For 37-inch 48-square, four-yard sheetings first hands wanted 10¾ cents, but dealers were apparently willing to be content with an eighth less. The latter also let out 72-80 and 64-60 pajama checks at 10¾ and 8¾ cents, respectively. In the specialties the continued heavy demand for spot broadcloths, the nature, these cloths also being wanted for future deliveries for as far as the mills will go.

Stove Coal Much Wanted.

Stove coal is still wanted far in excess of the autumn, Seward's Journal will say today, but there is slightly less urgency to the demand. Dealers are not inclined to bid quite as high in order to obtain immediate shipments from small operators, who sell only a day or two ahead. In order to be in a position to take quick advantage of any favorable turn in the market. Nor are they as complacent about taking unwanted sizes from the companies as a means of getting more stove coal. The supply of nut coal is also inadequate, although the unfilled orders on producers' books do not represent quite so large a tonnage as in the case of stove coal. There has been a fair amount of business transacted in the anthracite trade this week. The market is by no means stagnant, in spite of the holiday spirit shown.

Now the Complete Ensemble.

Two and three piece ensemble costumes are by no means new to this market, but it has remained for a well-known millinery manufacturer to bring out a novelty in the form of a four-piece ensemble. The fourth piece is the hat, which the manufacturer in question is displaying in conjunction with coat dresses, coats and ensemble suits. The garments are made of waterproofed, creaseless fabrics that are produced by a leading silk house here, and which will be confined to the millinery concern in the future. A number of novelties for sports and other costumes of the ensemble type have been worked out, some of which make use of the non-creasing qualities of the materials referred to.

Conservative Cutting to Rule.

Although the women's garment trade is rather optimistic regarding the Spring season, there will be no dropping of the policy of conservative cutting which has been pursued for several seasons. There is no real change in the situation, it was said yesterday, to warrant the former practice of cutting liberally for stock. The average retailer, it was pointed out, is still buying on a two weeks to a month ahead basis and will, according to all indications, continue to do so for the Spring. The merchandise men are likewise holding a check rein on the operations of the larger department stores. In order to have fresher stocks and speed turnover on a lower capital investment. In many quarters of the garment trade the belief is held that this will be a permanent feature of department store merchandising.

Wholesale Collections Are Fair.

Fair collections are reported by mill credit men and those of the larger cloth jobbers here. The same story is told by the credit representatives of men's clothing and women's garment firms. The weather is a factor in the slowness reported. The distinction is made that the usually prompt accounts continue in that condition, but the chronically slow are the more handicapped because of the lack of snap to the turnover of Winter merchandise. There is also pressure in some of the textile and finished garment lines for larger datings which the manufacturers and wholesalers in most cases are combating.

Are Swinging Into the Spring.

Preparations for Spring are moving ahead rapidly in the women's ready-to-wear trade. Many dress and ensemble costumes lines have been announced as ready by the manufacturers, and the market as a whole will be "open" within the next two weeks. Beyond doubt, the costume ensemble is expected to be the main attraction. The idea has been seized upon by dress and coat manufacturers with avidity and the "greatest season ever" is predicted for it. Retailers are planning to feature the style most strongly. The question has arisen as to whether the ensemble costume should be shown either in the coat or dress departments. A well-known dress manufacturer was quoted yesterday as saying the dress department was the best place, unless a special department could be created.

THE WEEK'S PRICE TREND.

Fewer Advances, but Still More Than Half of the Changes.

Not only were there fewer changes in Dun's list of wholesale commodities prices this week than for some time, but the declines came closer to equaling the advances in number than has been the case for several months. Of the week's fifty-nine changes, thirty-two were upward, compared with forty-eight advances in seventy-one revisions last week. The changes in the foodstuffs were proportioned about the same as those in the general list, but the most important ones were downward.

The following list gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities this week. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for this week and the corresponding week a year ago:

Eleven of the week's nineteen changes in the foodstuffs were advances. In the local market for provisions Middle Western lard and hams were unchanged, as was the fine family grade of Minnesota flour. Bacon declined again, and there were reductions of 25 and 10 cents a barrel respectively in Spring patent and Winter soft straight flours. At Chicago advances were also lacking, with live hogs and short ribs showing the only declines. Mess pork and live beef and sheep were unchanged.

A decline of 6 cents a dozen in fancy near-by eggs was the feature of the week in the local list for dairy products. It was the only decline registered by these commodities. First-quality freshgathered eggs went up a cent a dozen to a point which makes them the only item in the dairy list to be priced higher than the corresponding figures of last year. A rise of 4 cents a pound marked extra-quality creamery butter, while "held special" cheese advanced fractionally.

Neither the fresh nor the dried fruits in the list showed change either way. In the vegetables the changes were few, but all of them were upward. Fancy head domestic and choice blue rose rice were both higher, while potatoes and cabbage rose 50 and 10 cents a barrel respectively. More changes than usual were seen in the beverages. The basic grades of Brazilian coffee were again lower, after a long, steady period of rising values, but advances were seen in fine and fair Formosa teas. Only one change was seen in the spices, it being a rise in Cochin ginger. Fine granulated sugar was unchanged, but 96-test raw sugar was higher.

In the grain list wheat, oats and rye were higher, with a decline seen in corn. Leather was quotably unchanged, and the only revision in the hides was a drop in No. 1 extremes.

Features of importance were lacking in the changes in the combined lists for drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs and oils. Only eleven revisions were indicated and of these seven were declines. Both of the changes seen in naval stores were downward. They took place in resin and turpentine.

While the building materials and the lumber list were bare of changes either way, the metals were more unsettled than for a long time. Only two of the changes were declines, and they took place in iron bars at Chicago and tin. The advances were registered by No. 2X valley furnace basic and gray forge pig irons, open-hearth billets, steel bars, tank plates, beams, electrolytic copper and zinc. Both furnace and foundry coke were higher.

In the miscellaneous changes were advances in Brazilian and plantation crude rubbers, hops and hemp, and declines in Japanese raw silk and jute.

Aside from an easier tone to burlaps and some of the unfinished cottons, the change of the week in the textiles were not of material importance. In the finished fabrics one of the few features was the withdrawal of leading lines of percales, following similar action on narrow prints in the preceding week.

Both Current and Road Sales Ahead of Those of Week and Year Ago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Marshall Field & Co. in their weekly review of the wholesale dry goods trade, say:

"Current distribution of dry goods exceeded that of a week ago, and also that of the same week last year.

"Road sales were considerably ahead of last week and the same period a year ago.

"There were more customers in market than in 1923 during the corresponding week.

"Collections were not quite equal to corresponding period last year. Indications point to a particularly large number of visiting merchants during the coming week to take advantage of pre-inventory sales Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 1 and 2, and the many interesting features of the National Live Stock Exposition Nov. 29 to Dec. 6."

The Philippine Tragedy Bared

Katherine Mayo in "Isles of Fear"

For the first time lays raw the festering sore of these Islands of the East, eleven thousand miles from New York, BUT UNDER OUR FLAG.

A stark chronicle of governmental blundering—of misrule—of political graft—of wretched misery and leering luxury, as the writer found it.

A "history of destruction, decay and loot."

Shall We Strike Our Flag or Stay in the Islands?

"If the Philippine experiment fails, it will go down in history as an American failure."—Governor General Wood.

"The greatest trouble is made by Americans themselves, who continually demand investigations and removals. . . . You seem afraid of taking any stand and sticking to it. How can we respect you? If Washington supports General Wood he will be a success."—A Filipino leader.

"Our ultimate aim is to make the Governor General a mere figurehead. It is unpatriotic for any Filipino to stand by General Wood."—Manuel R. Quezon, head of the independence movement and President of Philippine Senate.

And What Will Congress Do after reading these revelations by Katherine Mayo, famous for her articles on the Pennsylvania State Police, "Justice for All," "That Damn Y"—and now this, the most amazing series of all?

GRAFT AND LOOT IN THE PHILIPPINES

NOT since Edmund Burke's indictment against Warren Hastings has so strong an indictment been drawn against the misgovernment of a subject people as that which Katherine Mayo in her articles on "The Isles of Fear" draws against our administration of the Philippines during the years 1916-1921, and which will be published in the NEW YORK EVENING POST beginning today.

Until the advent of Governor General Harrison the American administration of the islands had been the wonder of colonial administrators the world over. Our military government terminated twenty-three years ago. Ablaze with pity and righteous wrath at the living conditions in the islands, our people like a white-winged army began a holy war upon ignorance, superstition, disease and dirt. Soldiers from the ranks of the army were drafted as teachers. A B C and chloride of lime marched with the marching flag.

Thousands of earnest Americans hastened to the battle. We began by teaching the laws of sanitation and made the pest hole of Manila a clean city. Its typhoon-swept harbor became one of the safest in the world. We established schools in keeping with our own. The courts were cleansed and highways built through jungles. We gave them a real currency. We checked the epidemics of diseases that had rushed through the islands at recurring intervals for centuries — cyclones of death. Standing out clear and above all—for the eternal benefit of all the Far East—our scientists found a cure for the age-old curse of leprosy, from which the Philippines had suffered more than any spot on earth.

And to the amazement of the colonial administrators of the world all this work was done out of the revenues of the islands, honestly and efficiently administered.

While colonial experts everywhere were sounding their praises of this wonderful achievement of the United States, the "pansy school of American statesmen" sought to gild the lily. They pointed to the achievements of these self-sacrificing crusaders from America and called them the achievements of the Filipinos themselves.

The best friends—the thoughtful well-wishers—of the Filipinos—men and women who had served faithfully for years in the islands—called the attention of these well-meaning but ill-informed political philanthropists to the warning of Woodrow Wilson while president of Princeton University:

> Self-government is not a mere form of institution. . . . It is a form of character. . . . We can give the Filipinos constitutional government—a government which they can count upon to be just, . . . but we ourselves must supply that government. . . . Self-government is not a "thing" that can be "given" to any people. . . . No people can be given the self-control of maturity. . . . We of all people in the world should know these fundamental things. . . . To ignore them would be not only to fail, and fail miserably, but to fail ridiculously and belie ourselves.

But the words of the historian in his cloister at Princeton were forgotten in the ambition of the political leaders recently placed in power to better the work of the men they had replaced. A partisan Governor General—unskilled in governing—was sent to the islands. The Jones Act followed in due course, and the native Filipinos were told that the government would be passed over to them as soon as it possibly could be done.

Despite President Wilson's warning, his chosen followers began the scuttling of the splendid working government. It matters not now whether the moving cause was sheer ignorance or mere partisanship. The result was the same. Almost overnight the splendid edifice, built by the painstaking labor of the economical crusaders from the United States, began to crumble. The courts—the minor courts that daily touched the poor—were turned over to the rich natives and with them the control of the common people—in every way. World-famous experts in colonial finance, management and sanitation were replaced by the hungry adherents of the "politicos." Among the last to yield to their incessant nagging exactions was the scientist through whose faithful efforts leprosy was conquered, and his triumphant tormentors hurled after him the phrase, "We don't think leprosy is as bad as you Americans do. We want to keep our lepers in our own homes."

And the places of these crusaders were filled by the lean and hungry caciques—the old oppressors—the 6 per cent of the population who had made life unbearable for the 94 per cent of taos before the American army arrived. These politicos seized the offices again. They controlled the elections. They parceled out the new revenues the American financiers had taught them how to raise in the islands; they drove the farmers from their fields and seized all the earthly goods of those unhappy, dispossessed people through their control of the minor judiciary, that was corrupt beyond the dream of Americans. The taos were reduced to peonage through forms of legalized progressive usury and forced to yield by punishments that exceeded in inhumanity any that ever disgraced African slavery. A bank founded on the public revenues was established. Politics and friendship became the keys to the vaults. A national railroad was wrecked by mismanagement that included 150,000 passes for the caciques that gave them free transportation anywhere at any time for themselves, their families and their dependents. The taos refused to redeem the wild, free lands, knowing that as soon as they made the land profitable the Fiscal—the prosecuting attorney or one of his adherents—would seize the land and drive the wretched homesteader and his family from the home they had made.

Five years—five long years—of "destruction, decay and loot" followed, and the complacent Governor General sat back and smiled. "Washington wanted to remove him," said the caciques, "but he suited our purpose," and so he stayed.

This was the Philippine problem that confronted Warren Harding on his installation. It called for action—action at once. We had failed—and failed miserably. A few days after Mr. Harding became President Leonard Wood was on his way to the Philippines. His first act was to proclaim "the lid is down on the public cash box," and the angry caciques declared the phrase was "militaristic." Inspired by rage, they vigorously renewed their campaign for the control they declared was promised to them in the preamble of the Jones Act and which they interpreted was intended to make the Governor General "a mere figurehead, without power."

And so the word "independence" has acquired a strange, vicious meaning in the Philippines. To the cunning politicos it means that they—6 per cent of the population—shall have full and "absolute control of the purse strings," supported by "the moral obligation of the United States to protect them" against foreign aggression and internal revolt. To the wretched taos—94 per cent of the people—it means a more rigid enforcement of the Enslavement Act—a peonage more subtle and tyrannical than African slavery ever was.

The caciques clamor for this government and the taos fear it—and their fears find voice in the cry that arose from the lepers when they heard Leonard Wood was to return to America:

"We humbly beg and beseech your Excellency not to abandon us, without the assurance that the great and noble work you have undertaken shall be continued."

Compared with such a cry the babblings of the "pansy statesmen at Washington" reach the depth of inanity. If we "give" the Filipinos this form of government we "fail ridiculously and belie ourselves" as a nation.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Advance in call money rates on the Stock Exchange to 4 per cent., the highest in exactly six months, was in some respects the most interesting of yesterday's financial movements. It occurred toward the close of a day of extremely active Stock Exchange trading, with the 2,000,000-share mark well exceeded again and with numerous advances of 2 and 3 points. In its general character, the day's stock market did not differ greatly from that of other recent days. The market as a whole did not advance more than fractionally, and a considerable number of usually active shares hardly changed at all.

But a very excited buying movement converged, first on the shares of steel-producing companies and then on the miscellaneous industrial stocks whose activity had been stimulated by the week's earlier professional efforts. It was evident enough that the rise in the various steel shares (in which United States Steel participated) represented response of the speculators to the mid-week reports of increasing orders and output. In its existing mood the stock market stands ready to move in that manner after every tangible sign of business betterment. When it is helped along, as it lately has been, by professional "pools" and outsiders of the purely speculative class, a market is apt to run beyond the line of conservative forecast.

The 4 per cent call money rate was undoubtedly in part a measure of the requisition on day-to-day credit necessitated by this sort of transactions. Such requests emphasized the tendencies which would in any case have accompanied a busy month-end. But the new rate showed the development of a somewhat new position. Even at yesterday's highest, it is below the 4½ and 6 per cent. rates which prevailed in December, 1923, but it at least suggests the prospective departure of that "midsummer ease" which has hitherto had some hand in the rising market. On the other hand, yesterday's weekly report for the Reserve system showed increase neither in rediscounts, which were cut $11,500,000, nor in member bank reserves, which declined $67,200,000. Even with the New York Reserve Bank, these two accounts decreased respectively $15,200,000 and $16,000,000.

France rather than sterling were the focus of interest in the foreign exchange market, where the French rate rose to the highest since Sept. 2, while the pound sterling fell 1¼ francs at Paris. This interesting movement may conceivably reflect the first employment of the French Government's New York credit, which was avowedly to be used to support the franc. But the French Government's repayment, this past week, of 300,000,000 francs on its debt to the Bank of France, making 500,000,000 in three weeks, may also mean that the Treasury has been more successful than the Paris market thought in getting bank notes from subscribers to the new internal loan.

For perhaps the first time since the election day, the week-end mercantile summaries testify to visible and substantial improvement in general trade. Dun's Review qualifies its report by the statement that "there has been no rapid expansion of operations," and Bradstreet's by the reminder that progress is more uniformly good in productive industry than in distributive trade. But the general picture now presented is cheerful. The change for the better, Dun reports, "is evident in all sections of the country." There is "larger buying both to fill immediate needs and to provide for future requirements." Bradstreet's finds a disposition in the West "to buy for more distant positions." This is certainly as favorable a showing as was reasonably to be expected, in view of the deliberation with which merchants and producers are apt to reshape their plans after a long and not unprofitable period of quick deliveries and buying only for immediate requirements.

MONEY.

FRIDAY, NOV. 28, 1924.

Stock Exchange call money went to 4 per cent., highest since May 27, in a series of half-point advances from 2½, opening and renewal charge. Dealers attributed firmness to heavy demands for month-end, and fact that local institutions were practically bare of funds and were bidding against each other for the money, all of which came from out of town. So much poured in, as the rate rose, that correspondents here sought to place it before they accepted the proffered interior accommodation by wire. Time money, however, was quiet and unchanged, as was discount on merchants' notes, but several of the near-date acceptances hardened a fraction.

SEE IMPROVEMENT IN NATION'S TRADE

Change for Better in All Sections Reported by Dun's Review and Bradstreet's.

BUYERS TAKE INITIATIVE

Output Shows Gain in Various Industries, With Employment of Workers Increasing.

Business of the country is approaching the last month of 1924 with definite signs of improvement in the general situation, and with favorable prospects as to what may be expected in the way of activity during the year 1925, according to opinion expressed by Dun's Review in its weekly report of trade conditions.

"There is more confidence now and more disposition to increase commitments, with larger buying both to fill immediate needs and to make provision for future requirements," the Review says. "The change for the better is evident in all sections of the country, reports generally indicating a distinct gain in activity, and those from the West reflecting the special stimulus of the higher prices for agricultural staples. Except in a few instances, there have been no rapid expansion of operations; but the current movement is the more wholesome on this account, and the sound basic conditions are regarded as foreshadowing a continuance of the commercial recovery along conservative lines.

"As demand enlarges, manufacturing capacity is being more fully utilized, outputs rising in various industries and employment of workers increasing, and producers are more inclined to ask higher prices than those ruling before the election. Such a phase has become prominent in iron and steel, copper, lumber and other important commodities, different markets turning more strongly in sellers' favor, and the list of wholesale quotations again shows some excess of advances. It is significant, moreover, that pressure of offerings has decreased and that the initiative in many dealings is now with the buyer.

"The holiday this week naturally tended to reduce the volume of business, but bank clearings outside of New York City, are 9.6 per cent. larger than those of a year ago, and latest returns of car loadings disclose the heaviest freight traffic on record for the season."

Bradstreet's says: "Improvement is the dominant note in trade, prices and industry, but there is still a lack of uniformity in reports as to distributive trade. Cool weather with rain or snow has given a further stimulus to retail trade at most markets, but particularly in the northern half of the country. In industry, progress is more uniformly good than in distributive trade, and operations have expanded very generally."

FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

London Quiet, Paris Irregular—Sterling Falls Sharply at Paris.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Trading was quiet and prices were steady today on the Stock Exchange. Old 2½ per cent. consols ¼ higher at 58⅝; British 5 per cent. war loan ⅛ higher at 101⅝; 4½ per cent. war loan unchanged at 97¼.

De Beers Mining ⅛ higher at 12¼; Rand Mines unchanged at 2⅜.

PARIS, Nov. 28.—Prices moved irregularly on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes 50 centimes higher at 50 francs 30 centimes; 5 per cent. war loan 5 centimes lower at 80 francs 80 centimes.

Exchange on London declined 1 franc 20 centimes at 86 francs 50 centimes per sovereign; the American dollar was quoted at 18 francs 67½ centimes, against 18·92½ yesterday.

BOND PRICES HELD DOWN.

Stocks Preferred and Fear of Advance in Interest Rates Prevails.

Popularity of stocks and the fear of advances in the interest rates are holding down the prices of bonds, according to Moody's Weekly Review of Financial Conditions. This review declares that there is little reason to cause any advance at all in interest rates during the next eight months, and "when the rise does start it promises to move slowly.

"Almost the only real flaw in the banking outlook," it continues, "is not the nearness of inflation, but the remoteness of it. It is so remote that money is excessively cheap, and banks are having genuine difficulty in finding profitable employment for their deposits."

STOCK EXCHANGE FUND.

All Employes Will Receive a Christmas Bonus.

The Committee of Arrangements of the New York Stock Exchange started yesterday to collect subscriptions to a fund to be distributed among all employes of the Exchange as a Christmas bonus in proportion to their annual salaries.

Under the rules of the Exchange members are prohibited from making gifts to individual employes and all donations are contributed into a general fund.

CHAIN STORES FORM REALTY COMPANY

St. Louis Properties of Two Concerns to Be Taken Over in Deal.

BOND ISSUE OUT MONDAY

Bankers to Offer $2,400,000 of $5,000,000 Nugent Securities, Callable at 105 to June, 1927.

Plans have been completed for the formation of the Nugent Realty Company, which will take over the St. Louis real estate and leaseholds owned by the National Department Stores, Inc., and B. Nugent & Brother Dry Goods Company in St. Louis.

The National Department Stores, Inc., is engaged in the retail trade and owns and operates a chain of twelve stores in St. Louis, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Wheeling, W. Va., Detroit, Minneapolis and St. Paul. Only the St. Louis properties of this company, and its subsidiary, B. Nugent & Brother Dry Goods Company, will figure in the new arrangement. Annual sales of these stores amounted last year to more than $72,000,000.

Blair & Co., Inc., as the banking connection of the company, will head an offering group here which plans to sell next Monday, $2,400,000 of bonds of the new Nugent Realty Company. Public offering also will be made in St. Louis by the investment banking firm of Stifel, Nicolaus & Co. The bonds will consist of first mortgage fee and leasehold twenty-year sinking fund 6 per cent. gold bonds, Series A, maturing Dec. 1, 1944, and will be priced, it was understood, at 99½, to yield about 6.05 per cent.

Under the plan of separating the realty holdings from the National Department Stores, Inc., and of placing them under an independent, although affiliated company, the Nugent Realty Company will lease the buildings now occupied by the St. Louis stores to the parent companies. The plan also provides for an authorization of $5,000,000 of first mortgage bonds of which only half are to be sold on Monday, and the balance when needed to furnish additional money to acquire new buildings.

The bonds to be offered will be callable at 105 to June 1, 1927, and at a decreasing premium, thereafter to maturity. They will be secured by fee property and leasehold estate appraised at more than $3,600,000, and commencing April 1, 1925, a sinking fund will call or purchase annually 5 per cent. of the bonds issued, this being enough to retire 95 per cent. of the total issue of Series A bonds by April 1, 1943. The capital stock of the Nugent Realty Company is owned entirely by the National Department Stores Realty Corporation, which in turn is a wholly owned subsidiary of the National Department Stores, Inc.

WEEK'S NEW BONDS TOTAL $137,370,000

French Offering of $100,000,000 the Chief Feature of New Issues.

The total bond offerings of $137,370,000 this week was the largest for new financing since the German loan was floated in the week ended Oct. 17 last. Only once since then until the current week has the $100,000,000 mark been exceeded. In addition to the French Government offering of $100,000,000, there were several railroad issues brought out, these alone totaling $34,545,000.

By groups, the offerings of this and last week were as follows:

	This Week.	Last Week.
Foreign	$100,000,000	$4,000,000
Railroad	24,545,000	1,122,000
Public utility	6,800,000	18,550,000
Industrial	2,000,000	15,850,000
State and municipal	1,225,000	7,918,000
Farm loan	1,000,000	4,850,000
Miscellaneous		1,000,000
Total	$137,370,000	$52,268,000

Reports were revived yesterday that a new Polish loan was under negotiation. Bankers said they had been approached with such a proposition, but, so far as could be learned, no contract had been closed. Bankers interested in past financing for the French railroad account were on hand also to be looking for a new loan of $50,000,000 to the railroads of Alsace-Lorraine, the money to be used in repaying advances from the French treasury. The amount mentioned, which came to Wall Street in a despatch from Paris, was said to be too high.

The Norfolk & Western Railroad Company was reported yesterday to have sold a new issue of $6,000,000 divisional first lien and general gold 4 per cent. bonds of 1944 to a New York banking group. The Guaranty Company of New York, it was understood, would head this group in a public offering of the bonds which is expected soon.

To Refire 700 Coke Ovens.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 28.—More than 700 coke ovens in the Fayette field will be refired this week by the H. C. Frick Company and a number of independents, bringing operations of the Frick Company to 55 per cent. of capacity. More than 1,200 ovens have been refired during the last three weeks. Many men thrown out of work during the industrial depression, when the ovens were shut down, have returned to work on a six-day-a-week basis.

REICHSBANK REDUCES NOTES, ADDS SOME GOLD

Increase in Gold Reserve Since April Now Amounts to $60,270,000.

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—The Reichsbank report as of Nov. 22 shows the following changes:

	Reichsmarks.
Gold and bullion	increased 208,000
Reserve in foreign currencies	increased 70,000
Bills of exchange and checks	increased 16,351,000
Silver and other coins	decreased 428,000
Advances	increased 1,399,000
Investments	increased 169,000
Other assets	increased 35,852,000
Notes in circulation	decreased 83,040,000
Other maturing obligations	increased 154,889,000
Loans from Rentenbank	decreased 12,000,000
Other liabilities	decreased 2,918,000

	1924.	1923.	1922.
Nov. 22	694,834,000	467,025,000	1,004,340,000
Nov. 15	694,626,000	467,025,000	1,004,848,000
Nov. 7	694,288,000	467,025,000	1,004,852,000

Oct. 23	693,582,000	467,025,000	1,004,854,000
Apr. 30	441,377,000	919,909,000	1,000,867,000

The addition to the bank's gold reserve since the year's low point of April has amounted to 253,444,000 gold marks, or $60,270,000. When the war began the bank's gold holdings were 1,253,193,000 gold marks. They were increased to 2,527,780,000 on Dec. 30, 1916, which was the high point of its history.

Following is the Reichsbank's outstanding note circulation in rentenmarks; the statements of previous weeks and for corresponding dates in 1923 as reduced to reichsmarks denominations:

Nov. 22	1,550,122,000	228,927,515
Nov. 15	1,633,171,000	92,844,720
Nov. 7	1,721,805,000	19,153,086
Oct. 31	1,780,930,000	2,496,822
Oct. 23	1,818,121,000	524,580

The 1,780,930,000 reichsmarks outstanding Oct. 31 was the high mark of the bank's history.

Beginning March 22, 1923, the Stock Exchange officially quotes Liberty bonds in units and fractions, the fractions being 32ds of a unit, and the quotations after the decimal point representing one or more 32ds. In the above table, therefore, the figures of highest and lowest prices during 1924 and since date of issue are reduced to the form now used in the Stock Exchange quotations.

PLANS TO FINANCE AUTO BODY MERGER

$4,000,000 Bond and Stock Issues of Murray Body Corporation to Be Offered.

THREE COMPANIES UNITED

Concern Is Said to Have Closed Its First Contract, a $5,000,000 Order.

Public offering of new securities, the proceeds of which will finance the consolidation of several Detroit automobile body manufacturing companies, will be made on Monday. The merger is that of the C. R. Wilson Body Company, the J. C. Widman Company and the Towson Body Company, all of Detroit. They will be blended into a new organization to be known as the Murray Body Corporation, which will be affiliated with the J. W. Murray Manufacturing Company.

Capitalization will consist of $4,000,000 first mortgage 7 per cent. sinking fund bonds, due on Nov. 15, 1934; $2,500,000 cumulative preferred stock, par $100, and 145,000 shares of no par common stock. The financing will be done through a New York and Detroit banking group, it is understood, to be headed by Keane, Higbie & Co. and Eastman, Dillon & Co.

The new Murray Body Corporation will have Allen Sheldon of Detroit as its President and Gordon Fairgreaves as its general manager. Mr. Fairgreaves has been general manager of the Towson Body Company. The first big contract has already been closed by the new corporation. It was said yesterday to provide for the manufacture of $5,000,000 worth of bodies. Its customers were said to include the Lincoln, Packard, Jewett, Paige, Rollin, Reo, Willys-Knight and Marmon automobile companies.

EQUIPMENT ORDERS $15,000,000 IN A WEEK

Railroad and Transit Companies Heavy Buyers of Locomotives and Cars.

Railroads and transit companies were heavy buyers in the equipment market in the last week of November making total purchases estimated at about $15,000,000. According to the Railway Age's compilation there were sixteen locomotives, 3,205 freight cars and three gasoline cars ordered by the steam railroads during the week. In addition orders were placed for 435 cars by rapid transit and street railway companies.

Purchases of the gasoline rail motor cars as a part of the competition with the motor buses continued. The Pennsylvania System ordered two gasoline cars and one trailer from J. G. Brill & Co.

The Terminal Railroad Association of St. Louis ordered fifteen switching locomotives from the Baldwin Locomotive Works. The Michigan Central ordered an experimental Pacific type locomotive from the American Locomotive Company.

The Chicago & North Western divided an order for 3,200 cars as follows: 500 box and 500 automobile cars, and 200 refrigerator cars, Pressed Steel Car Company; 500 box, Bettendorf Company; 500 stock cars, Illinois Car and Manufacturing Company, and 500 flat cars, Standard Steel Car Company.

Orders for rapid transit or street railway companies included 100 elevated cars ordered from the Cincinnati Car Company by the Chicago Rapid Transit Company; the Brooklyn City Street Car Company ordered 250 street cars.

According to the Railway Age new inquiries continue in a satisfactory manner. The Central Railroad of New Jersey is inquiring for ten Mikado and the Lehigh & New England wants prices on five to eight consolidation type locomotives. The Wabash is inquiring for 400 gondola car bodies, and the Central of New Jersey has an inquiry out for twenty-three coaches, five combination passenger and baggage cars and two club cars.

The Florida East Coast will receive bids soon for four double tracking projects totaling fifty-five miles in length and for a twelve and one-half-mile belt line, the total cost of which projects will be $3,250,000.

WANT CHEAPER LOANS.

Railroads to Ask Government for 4½ Per Cent. Instead of 6.

Possibility of presenting to the next session of Congress a bill to reduce the interest charge on Government loans to the railroads from 6 to 4½ per cent. has been discussed by railroad officials, and has received consideration in Washington. Such a measure, it was pointed out yesterday, would save the railroads $3,500,000 a year, and would greatly help some of the poorer roads which are badly in need of just this kind of help to get back on their feet.

Under the provisions of the Transportation act of 1920 the railroads borrowing from the Government have been paying 6 per cent. interest. When the law was enacted this was a perfectly fair rate of interest, it was declared yesterday. Since that time there has been a gradual improvement in the railroad credit throughout the country, and many of the roads are able to borrow money at 5 to 5½ per cent. In one or two instances the leading railroads have demonstrated their ability to borrow money below these figures.

It is pointed out that the Government can borrow money much below 4½ per cent. and can therefore afford to loan it to the railroads at 4½ per cent.

UNITED GAS EARNINGS UP.

Gross for October Shows Gain of $70,386 Over Last Year.

Gross earnings of the United Gas and Electric Corporation's subsidiaries for October were $1,249,518, compared with $1,179,131 for the same month in 1923, an increase of $70,386. Net after operating expenses, maintenance and taxes was $580,691, against $349,603, a gain of $231,137. For the twelve months ended Oct. 31 net was $4,610,255, against $4,595,696 in the previous twelve months, a gain of $800,640.

The Associated Gas and Electric Companies report for October gross earnings of $577,455, against $292,405 in the same month a year ago, a gain of $285,077. Net after expenses and taxes was $212,-775, against $106,826, an increase of $105,949. For dividends, surplus, &c., there was a balance after fixed charges of $62,858, against $47,918.

Advance Price of Export Naphtha.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has advanced the price of export naphtha ¼ to ⅝ cents a gallon, making the price 14 cents for car lots, 15 cents for 64 and 66 degrees, and 16⅝ for 66 to 68 degrees.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Dominick & Dominick have issued a circular on the railroad outlook.

At a meeting of the board, Hilery W. Mann of New York, was elected President of the Sonite Products Company, Inc.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Robust Gains in French Francs and Holland Guilders on Foreign Buying.

French francs and Holland guilders occupied the centre of interest in the foreign exchange market yesterday, both registering substantial gains on what was termed in banking quarters as excellent foreign buying. Some of the Continentals also moved up, but at a less measured pace, while sterling yielded a fraction.

Buying in French francs was traceable to London, Brussels and Amsterdam houses, a prominent international banking institution here also being active in that direction throughout the day. The franc came over from London at 5.26 cents, but initial business was done at 5.24 cents, from which point, except for a fractional easing after the start, the rate pointed steadily to 5.29 cents, 10½ points advance over Wednesday and unequaled since Sept. 2. Better feeling in France over heavier tax returns and possibility of 1925 balanced budget, together with splendid weekly statement of Bank of France, which showed a drop in circulation, and repayment by the State, accounted for the rise.

Holland guilders continued in demand on heavy foreign purchases, the rate moving up to 40.41¼ cents for cables, compared with 40.35½ cents on Wednesday. This brings guilder close to point for profitable export of gold, which dealers believe a large Dutch bank is aiming at.

The advance in Continentals carried Swedish kroner to 26.90 cents, up 3 points, and Swiss francs went over par, to 19.30½ cents, a new high, and Belgian francs up 5 points, to 4.39 cents. Italian and Spanish were steady, while sterling yielded a fraction to $4.63.

LIQUIDATION SENDS COTTON PRICES DOWN

Market Declines 32 to 38 Points to Lowest Levels Since Government Report.

LIVERPOOL MARKET STEADY

Buying Orders Were Supplied by the Trade, but Did Not Stop Price Recessions.

The heaviest pressure in some time developed in cotton yesterday, causing a loss of 32 to 38 points to lowest levels since the Government report on the 8th inst. Failure of the market to retain its recovery, made after circulation of notices on Monday, evidently disappointed local interests, as selling operations came mainly from this source. The decline brought about some liquidation.

An estimate of 13,410,000 bales as this year's cotton crop by a New York firm with extensive Southern correspondence had an unsettling influence. These figures proved larger than prevailing ideas of production, which ranged between 12⅝ and 13¼ million.

Despite steady trade absorption, prices lost ground until halted as March approached 23¾ cents. Spot quotations were reduced 25 to 40 points in most markets, with an increase in sales to an aggregate of 35,000 bales.

Though prices in Liverpool had remained steady around Wednesday's closing levels, while American markets were closed Thanksgiving Day and influences from that quarter were not such as to create selling here, early trading disclosed an increased volume of contracts for sale. Houses operating for local interests started distributing cotton soon after the opening, and the quantity of cotton thrown on the market carried quotations steadily lower for the first two hours of the session. An accumulation of trade buying orders at stated limits were supplied, and buying power proved unable to absorb contracts without price recessions.

Each 5 points decline in the three most active positions, January, March and May, found trade buying in substantial volume, but it was not until March had gone through 24 cents to 23.80 that resistance to pressure developed. This represented a loss of a cent from high levels of Tuesday, and blocks of contracts wanted at 23¾ cents for March, as well as a steadily increasing demand for May as the price approached 24 cents, steadied the market.

Week-end figures showed 671,000 bales in sight, against 590,000 last year, making the total for the season 8,069,000, against 6,842,000 a year ago. Spinners' takings aggregated 436,000, against 358,000 a year ago, making 4,550,000 for the season, compared with 4,150,000 last year. The visible supply increased 234,000 bales, against 132,000 last year, which brought the world's visible supply of American cotton to 4,470,000 bales, against 3,293,000 last year.

BOND RATE FAVORED GERMAN RAILWAYS

Rate Is Better on $15,000,000 Than German Government Got on $200,000,000.

COUNTRY SHOWS PROGRESS

European Revival So Rapid Bankers Hope for Full Return to Normal Soon.

A lower interest rate on borrowed money was obtained by the German State Railways Company than had been secured by the German Government in its recent sale of $200,000,000 bonds, of which $110,000,000 were sold in the American market. Further facts were made public yesterday regarding the new $15,000,000 credit obtained by the State railways of Germany from New York and London. These indicate that this loan was made for one year on a straight 7 per cent. basis against a charge of at least 7½ per cent. for the larger German loan. Bankers interested in the credit said that the loan would not be passed on to the public by them through sale in the public market. The credit, they said, was not suitable for public subscription, being suitable only for banks and trust companies.

In explaining the difference in interest rates obtained by the German Government on its large loan and the State railways of Germany on the smaller loan, the following points were made by bankers: The German railroad credit was a short-term proposition for which lower interest rates can usually be extended than for long-term issues. The German national loan was so large that an especially attractive coupon raté had to be affixed in order to guarantee its full success. The $15,000,000 railroad credit was a relatively small operation and could easily be raised without recourse to a public offering. Since the German Government loan was floated reports have been received showing marked progress by Germany and other countries of Europe toward economic recovery.

European revival has been so rapid in recent weeks that international bankers are hopeful of full restoration to normal conditions within a few years. The spark was furnished by the Dawes plan and since that plan was adopted and a German loan floated, exchange bills of practically all European countries have advanced sharply. In yesterday's market unusual activity continued and new high prices for the year were reached by three foreign currencies. The French franc, in the most animated dealings of all exchanges, raced up 10½ points to the highest price since last Sept. 2.

Orders to buy French francs fell on the market from all sides, London, Brussels, Amsterdam and New York being the busiest, and the English pound sterling was temporarily moved from the spotlight. Francs opened at 5.33¾ cents, an overnight gain of 2¾ points, and then advanced to 5.39 cents, the high and closing price.

Bankers and foreign exchange dealers said the buying movement was due to several developments. The French bank statement again showed another sharp reduction in note circulation and, at the same time, the Government paid off during the week a part of its debt to the Bank of France. Tax receipts over the French Government were said to have run ahead of earlier expectations. Buyers were also cheered by the prospect of the balancing of France's budget in 1925 for the first time in more than ten years. It was also said that the full benefit to accrue in France from its recent heavily oversubscribed loan of $100,000,000 in the American market had not been fully felt until yesterday.

	High.	Last.	Change.
Sterling	$4.63¾	$4.63	— ¼
French franc	5.39c	5.39c	+10½
Swedish kroner	26.90c	26.90c	+ 3
Swiss franc	19.30¼c	19.30¼c	+ ½
Holland guilder	40.38	40.34	+ 6

The prices for Swedish kroner and Swiss francs represented new highs for the year, and the quotation on the Holland guilder, which has been conspicuous in the last week, having gone above its gold parity, was its highest price in five years. Buying of guilders was again pronounced in Amsterdam, most of New York's purchases being in cables to Amsterdam currency. Sterling's decline was attributed in part to the sharp gain of French francs, as a number of banks on Continental Europe were reported to have sold sterling to buy francs.

Coincident with the rise in foreign exchange and reported betterment of European business was renewed evidence yesterday of a shift in the gold movement. A new consignment of gold is now being prepared for shipment to London following the shipment a few days ago of $2,000,000 from New York to that city. Mystery surrounds the destination of this gold. London is not believed by bankers to be the ultimate purchaser, most bankers believing that it is en route to Germany, but yesterday a London dispatch indicated that it might be going to Russia. This was denied.

COMMODITY PRICES.

Nominal Size Changes Intersperse Local Cash Transactions—Markets Generally Firm.

There were but a few minor size changes in yesterday's cash staples market, values generally being maintained as of pre-holiday level. Wheat, corn, lard, copper and tin all improved, while spot cotton sagged 40 points to 23.85. Groceries, other provisions and metals were steady.

Following are the cash prices for the principal commodities in the wholesale market at the close of business Friday, a week before and a year ago. Prices are those of the New York cash markets unless otherwise indicated.

WOOL MARKET STEADY.

Manufacturers Believed to Be Expecting Good Business.

BOSTON, Nov. 28.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say of the wool market:

"The demand for wool has persisted steadily, with a tendency for prices to rise, and a net advance all around of about a cent a pound in the grease reported and occasionally somewhat more. Contracting in the West continues moderately, with prices fully firm everywhere.

"The foreign markets continue to strengthen, with competition general. London has fully maintained its initial rise of par to 5 per cent. on Merinos and Capes; 10 per cent. on fine crossbreds; 15 per cent. on medium and about 20 per cent. on low crossbreds; slipes being up 5 to 10 per cent. and clothing wools fully firm, compared with the previous sales' closing. The foreign primary markets are very strong, especially Australia.

"The manufacturing situation is not greatly changed, but the manufacturers evidently expect good business for some time, judging from their purchases."

MORE COKE OVENS FIRED.

Over 1,200 Added to Active List in Uniontown District.

Special to The New York Times.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 28.—With more than 1,200 coke ovens refired within the last three weeks in Fayette County every indication points to a return of prosperity in this region. The Frick Company alone has fired nearly 1,000 ovens in Fayette and Westmoreland counties, while several of the larger independent operators also have renewed activities.

The Frick Company now is operating at about 55 per cent. capacity, with six-day-a-week shifts. The Republic Iron and Steel at Republic, the Snowden Coal Company and the Searights plant of the Bourne-Fuller Coke Company have increased their operations recently. At Searights 150 additional ovens were fired this week. The Oliver and Snyder Steel Company has placed 200 coke ovens on the active list at its plants near Uniontown.

AUTO PROSPECTS BRIGHT.

Manufacturers Foresee a Brisk Demand Next Year.

A brisk demand for motor vehicles in 1925 was predicted by the directors of the Motor and Accessory Manufacturers' Association who have been in New York attending an executive committee meeting. According to a statement issued by the association this means an enlarging parts and accessory business from now until Spring to take care of increased production schedules.

"The sentiment regarding future activities," the statement said, "favored conservative planning, but ultra-conservatism was held unjustified in view of the condition throughout the country generally of stocks, employment and wholesale and retail demand. It was the general opinion that cooperation among related industries, and particularly in the automotive field, would assure a larger and more satisfactory year in 1925 than during the past twelve months."

LIVERPOOL'S COTTON WEEK.

British Stocks Increase Again—Imports Much Smaller.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 28.—Weekly cotton statistics: British stocks 497,000 bales, against 473,000 last week, 394,000 two weeks ago and 455,000 a year ago; of which American 353,000 bales, against 313,000 last week, 251,000 two weeks ago and 218,000 a year ago. Imports, 105,000 bales, against 157,000 last week; of which American 94,000 bales, against 112,000.

Forwarded 79,000 bales, against 72,000; of which American 53,000, against 48,000. Exports 2,000, against 6,000; of which there were no American, against 1,000. Sales 27,000, against 29,000; of which American 19,000, against 19,000.

Live Stock Markets at Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Leading packers were good buyers of hogs and the market was steady to 15 cents higher, closing strong. Fancy 260-pound butchers sold up to $9.55, while the better quality advanced the day's average price to $8.75, which is 40 cents above that of Monday. Receipts were 68,000. Shipping demand was active. Lambs fed for the Live Stock Show sold up to $15 to city butchers, while packers paid up to $14.75. Receipts of 16,000 were less than trade requirements and lambs advanced 25 cents while sheep and yearlings were 15 to 35 cents higher. The general run of beef steers sold weak to 25 cents lower, with a slow demand. A few fancy steers and yearlings culled from Live Stock Show cattle brought $13.75 to $14.25. Receipts were 11,000.

Auto Production Held Down.

Automobile inventories are low and production is being held down, according to the weekly review of the Automotive Industries, which says that there is not likely to be a general increase in production until the first of the year.

ARGUE GOULD DEAL WITH ROCKEFELLER

OLD CHECKS SUBMITTED

It Is Contended That Other Heirs Were Concerned in C. F. & I. Investment From the Start.

The hearing in the accounting suit of the estate of Jay Gould before Referee James A. O'Gorman, in the offices of Taylor, Knowles & Hack, 165 Broadway, was devoted yesterday to a discussion of investments in Colorado Fuel and Iron stock involving approximately $7,000,000. It precipitated arguments between counsel that at times interrupted William Wallace, counsel for the estate of George J. Gould.

Mr. Wallace is presenting a defense to objections made by some of the heirs, who charged that George Gould as managing trustee of his father's estate profited in some of the stock transactions at the expense of the $82,000,000 estate of Jay Gould. Frank Gould, the principal objector, has contended that this transaction in Colorado Fuel and Iron was highly speculative and that it was very poor business for George Gould to sell Manhattan Elevated Railroad stock and invest it in the deal with John D. Rockefeller.

Walter B. Walker, counsel for Frank Gould, asserted yesterday that George Gould had entered into the deal as a personal investment, but found the burden too great and shifted it over to the estate.

Shows Checks Signed by Frank.

In replying to this statement Mr. Wallace produced checks which he held showed that the whole Colorado Fuel and Iron transaction had been an estate matter from the very time that George, as trustee, entered upon it. As evidence of this the lawyer said that checks having bearing upon the affair were signed by at least one of his cotrustees. One check for $1,500,000, he said, was countersigned by Frank Gould.

Frank Gould was then only 24 years old, Mr. Walker said, and had been sent to the office of the estate to learn something of the business. According to his lawyer, Frank Gould has since explained that he signed the checks and other papers under the guidance of his brother George.

Mr. Wallace turned to the referee and said: "I can't see how any man in his right mind could sign a check for $1,500,000 and not know what he was doing."

Mr. Wallace read from the records of previous examinations and removal proceedings to support his contention that George Gould was justified in making the investment, that it was an estate matter and that George or his estate could not be held responsible.

Referee O'Gorman asked the lawyers how much longer it would take to present their evidence and the opinion was expressed that the hearing would probably conclude early in the coming year. There was a falling off in attendance yesterday. Only ten of the thirty-five law firms retained as counsel in the case appeared.

New York Jurisdiction Upheld.

The Appellate Division decided yesterday that Kingdon Gould and Schuyler Neilson Rice, executors under the will of George J. Gould, are proper parties to the accounting suit, and overruled the contentions of the executors that the courts of New York have no jurisdiction over them because George J. Gould died a resident of New Jersey and the executors are acting under authority of the New Jersey courts.

The Appellate Division, in a decision by Justice Dowling, ruled that the George J. Gould executors are subject to the New York courts in the Jay Gould accounting because the Jay Gould will was probated here; because the administration of a trust created in New York is concerned; because there are assets of the George J. Gould estate in New York, and because "equity will take jurisdiction when to decline it will work injustice." In his decision Justice Dowling said:

"It became apparent from the disclosures on the examination before trial that George J. Gould was indebted to his trust estate and might ultimately be surcharged for a very large sum of money, aggregating many millions."

MONTREAL, Nov. 28.—The annual report of the Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada, Ltd., for the year ended Sept. 30, 1924, shows net profits for the year of $3,602,135, compared with $3,271,421 the preceding year. Total assets are shown at $57,966,359, against $56,657,884. Cash amounts to $3,025,310; inventories, $10,014,738; receivables, $4,575,457; investments, $5,780,602, payable $2,202,816 and reserves $2,781,153.

Canadian Mines Pay a Bonus.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Nov. 28.—The Lake Shore Gold Mines today declared a bonus of 5 per cent. for the year in addition to the regular 5 per cent. quarterly dividend, both payable Dec. 15 to stockholders of record Dec. 1. The declaration of this dividend is taken as indicative of the fact that the majority of Lake Shore troubles are over and that larger tonnage will be treated steadily from now on.

MORE BUSINESS REPORTED.

Increased Orders for Power Transformers Noted by Westinghouse Co.

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company yesterday reported "an encouraging increase in the power transformer business" for November, with sales for the month exceeding one-third of a million dollars, exclusive of orders calling for less than $50,000 worth of equipment. Four important orders were received, the total cost amounting to $353,000.

The largest order for the month amounted to $112,000 and came from the Pacific Gas and Electric Company. This was for four 15,333 kv-a transformers for operation at the Shasta station on the company's 220,000-volt system. It was the fourth order from this company for Westinghouse transforming equipment, on this system. The Central Georgia Power Company ordered eight 4,000 kv-a 110,000-volt transformers, costing about $105,000. Other orders were from Ford, Bacon & Davis, engineers, and from the Arkansas Light and Power Company.

New Kentucky Power Project.

The Louisville Gas and Electric Company's subsidiary, the Louisville Hydro-electric Company, has applied to the Federal Power Commission for permission to develop power on the Green River, near Mammoth Cave, about seventy-five miles from Louisville. The new development will supplement the proposed Ohio Falls plant at Louisville.

WHEAT PRICES FALL AND THEN RECOVER

CASH HOUSES CHIEF BUYERS

Day's Export Sales Are Estimated at 650,000 Bushels—Corn Is Heavy but Higher.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Profit taking by strong commission houses and the slow cash demand, with December wheat here selling at 8¼ and 8⅛ cents under the May, the widest discount of the season, about offset the persistent buying of futures by the East based on numerous private cables telling of frost and considerable damage in Southern and Western Argentine.

The market was unsettled, breaking early only to advance 1⅛ to 2 cents from the bottom and then close easier, with prices unchanged to ⅛ cent higher.

The foreign demand for American wheat today was relatively inactive and a little was bought back by a seaboard exporter. Fresh sales for the day were finally estimated at 650,000 bushels, including a cargo of Manitoba for November shipment to Norway.

Cash basis here was firm, with No. 2 hard ½ to 1¼ cents over the December. Cash houses were active in buying the December and selling the May and it is expected that the deliveries of 3,500,000 to 4,000,000 bushels of December on contracts on Monday will go to people who want the grain.

Liverpool closed ¼@¾d. lower than on Wednesday due to pressure of spot grain and heavy arrivals and was a disappointment to the bulls. Sentiment after the close was somewhat more mixed than of late and houses which led the selling have in the past advised the reinstating of lines on minor breaks.

Messages from Minneapolis interests indicated that farm reserves in the Northwest at the present time were only 30 per cent. of the crop. Rain is still needed for the new Winter wheat crop in parts of Nebraska and Kansas.

Primary arrivals today were 2,296,000 bushels; week ago, 2,451,000; last year, 1,914,000. Shipments were 1,966,000 bushels; week ago, 1,962,000; last year, 1,109,000.

Corn was easier, but rallied quickly on scattered outside and commission house buying and the market acted oversold, closing the top with net gains of 1⅛@1¼ cents. Deliveries on December contracts on Monday are estimated at 700,000 to 800,000 bushels. December dropped to 7 cents under the May today and closed at that discount. The basis on old corn on spot was steady and on new ⅛ cent lower, with No. 2 grades 3@3½ cents under the future.

Primary arrivals were 1,331,000 bushels; week ago, 664,000; last year, 1,833,000, and shipments, 543,000 bushels; week ago, 242,000; last year, 623,000.

Oats were ⅛ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher at the last with rye ⅛@¼ cent higher. Deliveries of oats on December contracts Monday are expected to aggregate 2,000,000 and of rye 6,000,000 bushels. The bulk of the latter will be taken by the leading bulls.

HIRSHFIELD REPLIES TO CITIZENS UNION

Answers Chairman Schieffelin's Letter Attacking Hylan Administration.

HE DEFENDS THE MAYOR

Declares the Make-Believe Reformer Is a Pest—Admits That Crime Cannot Be Stopped.

Replying to a recent letter addressed to him by William J. Schieffelin, Chairman of the Citizens Union, in which the latter pointed out what he regarded as some of the failures of the Hylan Administration, David Hirshfield, Commissioner of Accounts, yesterday wrote Mr. Schieffelin as follows:

Nov. 28, 1924.

Mr. William J. Schieffelin, President, Citizens Union of the City of New York, 177 William Street, New York, N. Y.

Sir:

This is to acknowledge receipt of your answer to my letter of the 25th instant.

I hope you will pardon me if I state in reply that had I not known that you are an enrolled Republican, actively engaged in the Republican Party political affairs, as evidenced by the unusual interest you displayed only a few months ago, in the fight for the Fifteenth Assembly District Republican leadership, I would almost have imagined that your letter was written by a reformer.

As you know, there are two kinds of reformer: real and make-believe. The real reformer means well and, like the appendix of the mosquito, fills some function in life, although science has demonstrated that we can do without both. The make-believe reformer finds fault with everybody and everything but himself, does not usually tell the truth about those who are the object of his attacks, and when by chance compelled to tell the truth tells it in a way so as to hide facts. He is a real pest.

Says Crime Can't Be Stopped.

In Paragraph 1 of your letter, you find fault that the Mayor "has not cleaned the city of burglars, bandits, highway robbers and murderers," but you fail to state that you are asking the impossible. Vicious crimes have been committed since the world first began, and no police force will ever stop it. The only possible place where, perhaps, you will not meet crime, is in Heaven, but I am afraid that if you persist in your present method of reformation, you may never realize your ambition.

In the same paragraph you also ask why, if the city had been cleaned of vice and gambling, hundreds of policemen are kept on assignment raiding disorderly premises. I am sure that you know the answer; you have lived in a large city long enough to know that to eliminate, or even to hold down, vice and gambling, the police must be continuously after it.

In paragraph two of your letter you indict Mayor Hylan for not having begun construction of schools until the part-time evil had reached unprecedented proportions. As a matter of fact you know that owing to the so-called—scientific policy of fitting the children of the poor for the factory and mill, advocated by your preceding reform Administration, the pay-as-you-go law was enacted, and that this pay-as-you-go law, until later amended, prevented Mayor Hylan from spending any money for school buildings during the first two or three years of his first term. You also know that owing to the embargo on building materials by the Federal authorities during the war, and because of the post-war conditions, the building of schools or any other public structures was prohibitive.

$160,000,000 for New Schools.

Of course, you know that since the pay-as-you-go law was amended and building materials were released by the national Government, $160,000,000 have been appropriated by this Administration for the construction of new schools, and that more schools have since been erected than during the preceding twenty-five years.

In paragraph three of your letter you charge the Mayor with not having built one single foot of subways, when everybody knows that the reason the Mayor was unable to build subways was because the Republican Party, in which you are active, through its Republican Senators and Assemblymen at Albany, has saddled the Mayor with the McAneny Transit Commission and has persistently refused to grant the City Administration power to construct subways for the benefit of the city.

In paragraph four of your letter you state "the five-cent fare was neither created nor maintained by Mayor Hylan." I am afraid that I will have to confine you to the second class of reformers, as defined by me in this letter. There is not a man or woman in New York (with possibly your exception) who does not know that were it not for the persistent fight of Mayor Hylan against the demands of the traction crowd for increased carfares, the people of the City of New York would be now paying seven or perhaps ten cents carfare, and the traction corporations would be now exacting from the pockets of the people from between $90,000,000 and $125,000,000 additional tribute per annum, depending entirely upon the increase in carfare.

Phone, Gas and Light Rates.

In paragraph five you ask "What telephone, gas or electricity rates has Mayor Hylan lowered?" and charge that "he has wasted vast sums of public money in futile litigation upon the subject." Do you really intend this as a serious question, or are you trying to be funny? I am quite sure that you must know that were it not for the persistent opposition of Mayor Hylan, through his Corporation Counsel and other city departments, telephone, gas and electricity rates would be still higher than they are now.

In conclusion let me suggest, that this loud proclamation by the—so-called—reformers and the Republican Fusion managers that they are not against the Democratic organization, but are against Mayor Hylan only, is buncombe. If John Jones were the Mayor of New York and if he resisted the handing over the city government to traction and other public service corporations and their Wall Street backers, Jones would be opposed by the same Republican traction interests just as is Mayor Hylan. Fortunately for the people of our city the reform business has received a set-back for quite a few years to come, and this propaganda which is now being waged against the Mayor, reminds me of the story of the little poodles barking up against the oak tree. Very truly yours,

DAVID HIRSCHFIELD,
Commissioner of Accounts.

ILL WOMAN A SUICIDE.

Brooklyn Manufacturer's Wife Ends Her Life in Atlantic City.

Mrs. Molly Summergrade, wife of Nathan Summergrade, a bed manufacturer of 1,658 Fiftieth Street, Brooklyn, committed suicide yesterday by inhaling gas in her suite at the Baylinson Hotel, Atlantic City, N. J.

LATEST DEALINGS IN REALTY FIELD

PROJECTINVOLVES$2,000,000

A new theatre and a high-class fifteen-story hotel will be added to the Times Square section as the result of an important transaction, involving about $2,000,000, which was closed yesterday.

The deal involves the eight old-fashioned private dwellings at 224 to 238 West Forty-ninth Street, which were purchased by Daniel Darrow, a dealer in building materials, from the Trebush Realty Company, a holding company, for Sam S. and Lee Shubert.

The property has a frontage of 168 feet and a depth of 100 feet, flanked on the west by the Gotham apartment house and on the east by the Hotel Markwell.

According to a statement made yesterday by Mr. Darrow, part of the site will be improved with a high-class fifteen-story hotel and the remainder with a theatre, which will be leased for a long term to the Shuberts to be added to their chain of playhouses. Herbert J. Krapp, architect, is preparing the plans for the proposed structures, which will involve a total outlay of considerably more than $2,000,000.

Arrangements have been completed for the placing of a $1,200,000 loan with the Lawyers Title and Trust Company, and work will be started on Jan. 1.

There are two other theatres in this block, the Forty-ninth Street and the Ambassador, with the Ritz abutting in Forty-eighth Street. Just to the west is the car barn property on which Tex Rickard plans to erect his new arena.

Courtlandt Apartment Resold.

Joseph Berger and Sam Markel have resold at a substantial profit to the Manseo Realty Company, Inc., the six-story elevator apartment house known as Courtlandt Apartment, containing three apartments on a floor of two eight-room and one six-room and two baths, on plot 62 by 100. The property is located at 1,217 to 1,221 Madison Avenue, southeast corner of Eighty-eighth Street. Joseph Rauschkolb was the broker in the resale. Mr. Berger and Mr. Markel purchased the property a few days ago from E. and M. Weil.

Ennis & Sinnott, operators, have resold the three five-story tenements, with stores, at the southwest corner of Third Avenue and Ninety-second Street, known as 1,638 and 1,640 Third Avenue and 372 East Ninety-second Street. The size of the plot is 75.6 by 72. The buyer is Anna C. Geraty and the brokers were O'Reilly & Dahn.

Irving Bachrach and Ira Rosenstock purchased from Albert F. Schneffer 171 West 133d Street, adjoining the northeast corner of Seventh Avenue, a five-story apartment house, with stores, 25 by 100. Shaw & Sanford were the brokers.

Louis F. Sommer sold for Mabel Sabina Kook 621 Columbus Avenue, northeast corner of Ninetieth Street, a five-story apartment house, on lot 25 by 66.8, held at $67,000. Henry Deutsch Jr. was associate broker.

J. J. Richman & Co., as brokers, sold for Greenstein & Myers to Sylvan Eckstein the two five-story tenements at 52 and 54 East 101st Street, on a plot 50 by 100, held at $55,000.

Louis F. Sommer sold for August Spellman 933 Columbus Avenue, adjoining the southwest corner of 106th Street, a five-story brick flat with large store on a lot 25 by 75 and held at $45,000.

COMMERCIAL LEASES.

Forty-seventh Street Building to Be Altered Under Long-Term Lease.

The Milblok Realty Corporation (Max Miller, A. B. Block and B. B. Block) have acquired a forty-two-year lease on the five-story building at 43 West Forty-seventh Street, on a lot 25 by 100 feet, between Fifth and Sixth Avenues. Negotiations are pending for a releasing of the property, and extensive alterations will be made. Stores will be installed on the first two floors and the upper part of the building will be made over into small apartments. Ruland & Whiting negotiated the lease.

The Schulte Cigar Stores Company has leased two buildings at 1,520 and 1,522 Third Avenue, fronting 50 feet on Third Avenue, adjoining the southwest corner of Eighty-sixth Street, for a long term of years to the 1,520 Third Avenue Corporation. Henry Shapiro & Co. were the brokers.

Theatre for Jamaica Corner.

The Brunswick-Prafer Company sold for the De Graw Holding Company to Harry Sirkin the northeast corner of Jamaica Avenue and Sutphin Boulevard and running through to Grove Street, Jamaica, L. I. It was held at $500,000, and consists of forty lots, fronting 350 feet on Jamaica Avenue, 414 feet on Sutphin Boulevard and 150 feet on Grove Street. Mr. Sirkin is negotiating for the erection of a vaudeville and motion picture theatre for part of the Jamaica Avenue frontage, while the balance will be improved with three-story stores and apartments. The Sutphin Boulevard and Grove Street frontages will be improved with multi-family apartments.

Large Bronx Plot Sold.

J. Clarence Davies, Inc., sold for Einstein-Wolff Company to Jawitz Realty Company for improvement with apartment houses the vacant plot of over nineteen lots at the southeast corner of Southern Boulevard and Avenue St. John, running through to Timpson Place. The property has a frontage of 200 feet on Avenue St. John, 430 feet on Timpson Place and 55 feet on Southern Boulevard. This is the first sale of the property in twenty years.

The purchaser is now erecting two six-story apartment houses adjoining the plot just purchased.

Bronx Theatre Property Sold.

The Empire Theatre property, a two-story structure with stores, occupying the triangular block bounded by Westchester Avenue and 161st Street and Hewitt Place, has been sold by the Hewitt Place Realty Corporation, Samuel Bitterman, attorney. The new owner is the Alberta Holding Corporation, formed recently by Gilbert & Gilbert, attorneys. The property has frontages of 214.2 feet on Westchester Avenue, 233.7 feet on 161st Street and 258.7 feet on Hewitt Place. It was conveyed subject to a mortgage of $183,750.

$550,000 Loan on Loft.

Wm. A. White & Sons have arranged a first mortgage loan of $550,000 at 5½ per cent. for ten years on the new seventeen-story loft building at 247 to 255 West Thirty-eighth Street. This property has a frontage of 85.6 on Thirty-eighth Street and will bring in an annual rental of $260,000. It is controlled by Julius Nelson, whose companies will occupy five floors of the building.

To Improve Jerome Avenue Corner.

Ennis & Sinnott have sold the plot with old buildings on the southeast corner of Jerome Avenue and Bedford Park Boulevard (200th Street), size 57 by 134.79 by irregular, to Christina H. Young. The property, which is directly opposite the subway station, will be improved by the purchaser with a one-story business building. McLernon Brothers were the brokers.

Auto Firm Sells Building.

The Glidden-Butek Corporation sold the two-story building at 243 and 245 West Sixtieth Street, 50 by 100.5, near West End Avenue, to the recently formed Jack Golden Realty Corporation, with Jack Diamond, Clifford J. Gordon and Max Goldberg as directors.

Tall Apartment for Coney Island.

A twelve-story apartment with stores will be erected at the site of the old Whitney Baths on Surf Avenue, between West Twenty-sixth and West Thirtieth Streets, Coney Island. The structure will cost $1,300,000, according to U. P. Kelly, head of the company that will undertake the project.

BUYING IN THE SUBURBS.

Colonial Residence at Larchmont Sold to Eugene C. Merket.

Madeline Kinnan sold to Eugene C. Merket her property on Concord Avenue at Larchmont, N. Y., consisting of a Colonial residence and garage, held at $17,000. Fish & Marvin were the brokers.

The same brokers have also sold for J. S. Lauricella et al. to a client for investment purposes a plot on the corner of Larchmont Avenue and Guilder Street, Larchmont. This plot is located in the heart of the business section of Larchmont and will probably be improved in the near future.

Prince & Ripley sold for Charles W. Hodell his residence in the Riverview Manor section of Hastings-on-Hudson to Arthur M. Abell, who will occupy the property in the early Spring.

John J. Brennan sold for Mildred Turton a plot on the west side of Beach 132d Street, Belle Harbor, L. I., and for Max Halem a business plot on the east side of Beach 129th Street, Belle Harbor, to Patrick A. McCauley, who will erect stores and apartments.

Lewis H. May Co. resold for Oscar Mandel, operator, to a client, the southeast corner of Bessemund and Healy Avenues, Far Rockaway, L. I., containing a 2½-story dwelling on a plat of twelve lots. The property was held at $27,000.

James Mooney, Inc., has sold for Mrs. Lena McLinn to A. W. Edgar 8 Garden Street, Montclair, N. J., a frame residence with garage on a plot 60 by 150, held at $20,000.

TRADING IN BROOKLYN.

Kingston Avenue Parcel to Be Altered for a Public Market.

Himmel Realty Corporation sold the three-story building consisting of apartments and stores on a lot 20 by 80 at 261 Kingston Avenue, together with an additional lot in the rear 30 by 90, to a client for immediate alteration into a public market. The property is now being held at $45,000. T. M. Hoffman Company were the brokers.

R. S. Fisher, Inc., as brokers, have sold for a client a plot at the northeast junction of Kings Highway, East Ninety-eighth Street, Livonia Avenue and Howard Avenue to the Utility Oil Corporation, which company will establish a gasoline station. The plot was held at $50,000.

Edward C. Cerny sold for Bartle Daly to a client for investment the three-story double brick apartment located at 526 Seventy-seventh Street.

Crime Complex

With References to the Loeb-Leopold Case.

Are our methods of treatment of the criminal responsible for the failure to check the unending series of crime waves?

In abetting other scientific work, have we neglected those branches of research that might most help humanity?

Get up to date through the extraordinary article by Professor H. E. Barnes, famous prison historian, which shows how backward we are in criminal science, and tells how criminals should be examined and treated.

We've Ever Seen at the Price

MEN'S SUITS and OVERCOATS

NOTE the fact that we do not use comparative prices in this advertisement. We do not have to, in order to sell this clothing. For, to our minds, it is by far the best value this City has to offer at anywhere near this price. Never have we seen such handsome plaid-back coats for such little money. And the suits! They feature, of course, the newest colors, the latest fabrics, the most approved syles. All in all, an assortment of clothing that every man should see before buying a new suit or overcoat.

EXTRA FINE SUITS

Hundreds of patterns—a most unusual selection of new shades. Two or three-button English and Metropolitan styles. With soft roll lapel, slightly suppressed at hips, in shorter coat effects. Considered very smart by good dressers. Many other styles for the more conservative man.

De Luxe OVERCOATS

OVERCOATS and 2-TROUSER SUITS

THE OVERCOATS are plain and plaid backs. Of plain or fancy weaves. Single and double breasted ulsters. Box coats. Half belters. Some slightly shaped. Others with a flare.

TWO PANTS SUITS of Worsteds, Cassimeres, Cheviots, Unfinished Worsteds, Serges and Fancy Mixtures. Two and three-button English and Metropolitan styles. And Collegian models.
